MILLER TO DECIDE SCOPE OF INQUIRY INTO CITY RULE

Republican Leaders to Urge That Every Department Be Investigated.

WILL CONFER THIS WEEK

NEW BODY IS PROPOSED

Politics Not to Interfere, Says New Executive—Alderman Attacks Hylan Administration.

With the work of the Lockwood Investigating Committee drawing to a close, its existence officially ending the last of this month, Republicans who want the investigation of the city's affairs continued, not only for the good of the city itself but for any political advantage that may accrue to their party, will consult with Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller this week as to how the work shall be carried on under the new Legislature.

Governor-elect Miller frankly declared last night that his mind was entirely open on the subject although he thought there was little doubt that a thorough, city-wide investigation was needed, in view of what already had been disclosed by the Lockwood committee. The new Governor will determine after a consultation with the party leaders whether a continuing investigating committee's work shall be widened to embrace all the city departments, including the Police and Finance Departments and the Board of Education.

The Governor-elect has already met with diverse opinions among Republican leaders. Local leaders who have been looking at the matter with a view to the effect of a city-wide investigation would have upon the Mayoralty campaign next year are opposed to an inquiry directed solely against a few departments such as the Mayor's office and the Police Department. They are in favor of the present Lockwood committee being continued with increased powers that would take in every department in the city government.

Do Not Want to Make Hylan a Martyr.

The contention of the local leaders is that any investigation that may seem to have for its main purpose the making of political capital out of the discomfiture of the present Democratic city officials would react disastrously and tend to make a martyr of the Mayor. The same result so far as the good of the city is concerned will be attained, they argue, by having the present investigating committee, with the new members that are necessary, continued, especially if its scope is enlarged to take in every department of the City Government.

Governor-elect Miller made it clear yesterday that he did not intend to allow politics to interfere in any way in any plan he may have to clean up the present City Government, but if the Republican leaders could convince him that the investigation could be continued without injury to the party by following certain lines he probably would defer to the wishes of the leaders. The Governor was specifically asked if it had been brought to his attention that Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg and Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson had declared their intention to sponsor measures, as soon as the new Legislature meets, looking to the appointment of a committee to investigate the Hylan Administration, and particularly the Police Department.

"My only information on the subject is what I read in the newspapers," replied Mr. Miller. "I have no thought to express on the subject at this time and I have formed no opinion about it. What the situation will be next January nobody knows and action should not be decided upon now. It may be that the whole structure of the City Government may need revisement, but that will have to come later. My mind is not made up on the subject."

Lockwood Committee's Plan.

When the Legislature meets on Jan. 5 the present Lockwood Committee, through its chairman, will present a plan of its own for the continuation of its work. A resolution will be introduced empowering the committee to continue its work and broadening its scope to include the affairs of every city department. It is expected that by that time the present committee will have concluded its work so far as the housing situation is concerned. The committee will report the result of its work to the Legislature and suggest remedial legislation. This report will be drawn up by Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, and the resolution requesting a continuance of its powers will ask that Mr. Untermyer be continued as counsel. It will ask that the three men now on the committee, whose terms will expire on Dec. 31, Senators Kaplan, Dunnigan and Abeles, be replaced by others elected in November last.

The committee members are opposed to the appointment of any new committee, such as that suggested by Senator Robinson and Assemblyman Steinberg. One member asserted that the Robinson-Steinberg proposal would meet with the approval of certain interests which want the Untermyer inquiry either stopped or diverted from its present line of effort. If the Lockwood

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—M. Viviani of the French delegation to the Assembly is understood to be on the point of quitting the delegation because of what he regards as unfair treatment by M. Leygues, the French Premier.

Premier Leygues sent M. Viviani to Geneva with instructions to get Armenia into the League. Viviani had all but succeeded by his eloquence and strong arguments when he received instructions from Leygues saying the Allied Council in London had decided not to admit Armenia and ordering Viviani to reverse himself. This Viviani did, but he seems to suspect a political game to discredit him as one of the possibilities for the next French Premiership.

KILLED IN MINGO WHILE UNDER BAIL

CORNWELL ANSWERS MINERS

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 6.—In the "No Man's Land" of the Mingo County Mountains there has been another killing, the first since military control was established a little more than a week ago. It occurred at Breading, about forty miles from here. The victim was John B. Marcum, who was at large on $5,000 bail after arrest on a charge of shooting a man on Nov. 3.

Marcum had been shot in the back, according to the report which is receiving most credit here. The slayer shot him from ambush sometime after dark last night. His body was not discovered until early this morning. Official reports of the shooting, made to the office of Sheriff Blankenship and Public Prosecutor Wade H. Bronson here, furnish no clue to the murderer.

According to one report the opinion prevails at Breading that Marcum was shot by a detachment of the West Virginia Constabulary while trying to avoid arrest, but no report of the shooting had been made to Constabulary Headquarters at Charleston.

The body was found on a railroad track not far from a water tank, and the presumption is that the assassin had shot Marcum from behind the tank. He appeared to have been killed with a shotgun at close range.

Aside from this killing reports from the region of military control this afternoon indicated that everything was quiet. The operators lately formally demanded military protection from Colonel Hall in charge of the Federal troops for a mine at Goodman, near Chatteroy, not far from this town. This mine has been idle since before June, but is to be opened this week. According to the operators men who had been brought in "from abroad" were threatened by strike sympathizers when they arrived this forenoon. A small detachment was ordered to Goodman to be kept there until Deputy Sheriffs can replace it. A small detachment was ordered to Goodman to be kept there until Deputy Sheriffs can replace it.

The general impression here today is that, with the protection afforded by the Federal troops and the statute against the carrying of arms more rigidly enforced, the operators, regardless of what attempts are made to bring about a settlement of the strike through negotiations, will try to break it. Negotiations, according to a view attributed to them, would imply in a way recognition of the United Mine Workers, for their representatives would of necessity be a party to any conference held.

Regardless of any developments that the future may bring, short of a new and successful effort on the part of the union officials to bring about a shutdown of the mines, of which at present there appears to be little prospect, the operators have not thought of recognizing the union. They are laying all their plans to beat the strikers and believe a victory is not far off.

George Bausewine, Jr., Secretary of the Williamson Coal Operators' Association and spokesman for the companies involved in the strike, this afternoon had no comment to make on the statement, promulgated from Indianapolis following a meeting of the International Board of the United Mine Workers, that the board was irrevocably committed to a finish fight in the Mingo County fields in vindication of the men's right to organize and to collective bargaining.

ASSEMBLY ALLOWS ARGENTINIANS TO GO; AMENDMENTS WAIT

Proposal to Drop Article X. and Argentina's Changes Go to Committee.

FOUR PRINCIPLES ACCEPTED

REGRET ARGENTINE ACTION

GENEVA, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—The League Assembly today decided to stick to a slow and sure policy in amending the Covenant and to extend that policy to the interpretation of the relations between the Council and the Assembly with regard to their respective duties and jurisdictions under the Covenant.

The Canadian amendment eliminating Article X., and the Argentine amendment declaring that all sovereign States shall be members of the League that do not remain outside of their own choice, were referred to a special committee which will study all the proposed changes in the Covenant and report to the next Assembly.

The question as to the exact relations between the Council and the Assembly was temporarily and partially settled by the adoption of a sort of working basis in the form of the four general principles enunciated in the recent report of the committee presided over by Mr. Balfour, with certain amendments.

The first of these principles, which set forth that the council and the Assembly should each be invested with particular powers and duties and that neither should have jurisdiction to render decision in any matter which had been expressly committed to the other, Lord Robert Cecil declared must be amended so as to concede to the Assembly the right to examine any question within the jurisdiction of the League. He contended that on the principle as expressed the Assembly would be unable to treat the important questions of disarmaments and mandates and added that his South African delegation would not accept the report otherwise. His amendment was accepted.

The committee also accepted the proposition to eliminate the word "exclusive" from the second principle, which declares that the Assembly has no power to reverse or modify a decision which falls within the exclusive competence of the council. On the objection of the Canadians, however, this principle was reserved.

The third and fourth principles, setting forth the status of representatives sitting on the Council and the Assembly and making provision for a report from the Council to the Assembly, were adopted.

Argentine Incident Passed Over.

The Argentine incident, involving the withdrawal of that degation from the Assembly, was disposed of quickly, the Assembly showing indifference. Instead of inviting the delegates back, the Assembly merely expressed regret at their action through M. Hymans, the Chairman, and Lord Robert Cecil. The only sign of feeling on the part of the members was that of approval when Lord Robert said that no delegate body could get on with its business if the members were allowed to leave whenever their particular propositions were not accepted.

"The act of no single country," Lord Robert added, "can diminish our faith in the success of the League, after the great strides that have been made toward the object in view. All that is needed are courage, candor and consideration for one another."

Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine mission, told the Associated Press today that his delegation would leave for Paris on Wednesday or Thursday.

"Today's decision of the assembly finally settles the question for Argentina," he said. "I shall make a few calls, give several lunches, and leave for home the middle of the week. I was willing to consent to the postponement of all Argentina's amendments except those regarding the admission of all States and the election of the four elective members of the council, but the assembly has seen fit to resort to a technicality of procedure in a matter vital to the life of the League. I am sure American public opinion is with us in this matter, and I have already re-

Says Clara Smith Confesses Killing Hamon; Will Surrender if She Can Be Tried by Women

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 7.—Perry M. Ross, telegraph editor of The Evening News here, told other newspaper men last night that on Saturday night in a local hotel he heard two men mention the name of Clara Smith Hamon, the woman wanted for the murder of Jake L. Hamon of Ardmore, Okla., and assert that she was still in San Antonio. Then on Monday afternoon, while in a department store he saw her and they recognized each other immediately. Ross says she worked in Oklahoma for some time and it was there that he knew Clara Smith by sight.

Ross says that upon recognizing the woman she fled in a high-powered automobile and he followed in his car. He offered the service car driver to corroborate his interview.

Several miles out of the city, the woman's car stalled with two flat tires. Ross and his driver assisted her to a ranch house where he says she made a confession to him.

Ross asserts that she declared that she killed Hamon for the sake of their son, Jack. Ross declares that she told him of events of her life with Hamon since she was 17 years of age, how she was betrayed as his employe by his tempting stories of a finer life.

According to his story, she does not object to any penalty that she might have to pay so long as she is tried by a jury of twelve women and a just judge.

The police here say that Ross will not be arrested, but that they have been asked to detain him, and they have also been instructed to hold the woman in case she is delivered to them as Ross declares he can do.

Simultaneously with this statement by Ross, it was reported that Clara Smith Hamon left San Antonio on Saturday night a week ago for Laredo. At Laredo she is reported to have obtained a border passport into Mexico. She was said to be en route to South America via Vera Cruz. The authorities give more credence to this report than to the statements by Ross.

Mrs Harding at White House; Takes Tea With Mrs. Wilson

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding called by appointment on Mrs. Wilson this afternoon, arriving at the White House alone at 5:30 o'clock, to find Mrs. Wilson waiting in the Red Room. Only the ushers on duty were present. The visit was very cordial. Tea was served immediately, Mrs. Wilson pouring.

Following a brief twenty minutes over the tea cups, Mrs. Wilson took her visitor through the house from the Red Room to the comparatively new guest rooms over the East Room. This tour of domestic inspection lasted an hour and included a comprehensive survey of the entire first floor and the greater part of the second floor, which constitute the living quarters of the Presidential family.

Mrs. Harding did not see President Wilson and departed a few minutes before 7 o'clock.

HENDERSON SEES HOPE NOW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Premier Lloyd George, questioned closely in the House of Commons tonight about negotiations with the Sinn Fein, about which there have been so many rumors, would go no further than to reiterate his familiar statement: "We are willing to discuss with any authorized and responsible people any question which will bring peace to Ireland."

THE NEW YORK TIMES is in a position to state, however, that active negotiations are in progress which, in a well-informed quarter, are hoped will be far more effective than Arthur Henderson's conversations with Arthur Griffith and Cardinal Logue, on which so much stress has been laid.

Henderson has been the bearer of an important message to Griffith and brings back a reply, but it is not on this that the main hopes of the optimists are fixed. The inability of Griffith to halt the conspiracy of murders is accepted as genuine, and consequently it is held to be much more significant that indirect communication is understood to have been established with the extremists and that they are disposed to maintain it. Their attitude toward these feelers, it is thought here, is largely influenced by accumulating signs among the general population of Ireland of indignation against those who have plunged the country into chaos. Home rule and the Sinn Fein are one thing, economic paralysis and slow starvation of industry another. The request of the Galway County Council that the Dail Eireann should call a truce is thus hailed by believers in the Government policy as very significant. It would not have dared to do so three months ago, they argue, and their protest shows the change in public feeling.

Numbers of Irish railroad men, tired of being out of work through refusing to run munition trains, have called on the English National Railwaymen's Union to order them back to work. The English leaders have refused to intervene, and the next move of the Irishmen is looked for with great interest.

But the chief thing that is causing Irishmen to reflect, according to the view held here, is the cessation of all kinds of Government grants. Old-age pensions and various payments in aid of local government are some of the chief of these, and the man in the street, who is struck very hard, is beginning to realize how useful, from a financial point of view, is the British connection, and to wonder if this sudden shortness of private and public funds is not entirely a kind of rehearsal for what would be the permanent condition if an Irish republic were ever really set up. So his enthusiasm for the active Sinn Fein is on the wane, it is maintained.

"Irishmen are beginning to think that whoever wins they will lose," was the way a competent observer put it to THE NEW YORK TIMES. The extremists find the attitude of the ordinary Irishmen toward them growing cold, and they are now more willing to ascertain what the British Government has to say.

Cabinet to Consider O'Flanagan Note.

Premier Lloyd George probably will consult his colleagues in the Cabinet before replying to Father O'Flanagan's telegram. Arthur Henderson may see the Premier on Wednesday to acquaint him with his impressions gathered in Dublin and of his conversation with Arthur Griffith.

The Daily Chronicle political correspondent writes:

"The resolution of the Sinn Fein Divisional Council in Dublin threatening those who would discuss a truce without authorization of the Dail Eireann is regarded in political circles as evidence of a split in the Sinn Fein ranks. Some of the County Councils are breaking away from the Sinn Fein régime, and this has been followed by Father O'Flanagan's telegram and some other signs of moderate feeling. This, as was to be expected, is resented by the extremists.

"Sir Horace Plunkett, who visited the House of Commons today before starting for the United States on Wednesday on a visit of five or six weeks, expressed his opinion that whatever negotiations might be going forward, no

ALDERMEN ACCEPT $345,571,599 BUDGET WITHOUT A CENT CUT

Mayor Hopes Departments Will Divert 7% of Appropriations to Meet School Deficit.

WRITES LETTER TO BOARD

CRAIG CALLS PLAN 'HUMBUG'

Asserts $27,000,000 Deficit Could and Should Be Provided For by the Legislature.

Following the suggestion by Mayor Hylan of a scheme for meeting the $27,000,000 deficiency in the appropriation for the Department of Education by voluntary reduction in expenditures by the Borough Presidents and heads of other city departments, the Board of Aldermen yesterday passed without change the $345,571,399.77 city budget for 1921, as received from the Board of Estimate. This is an increase of $71,881,914.85 over the budget of 1920, and is expected to result in a tax rate estimated at from 2.75 to 2.85.

The foregoing method of meeting the deficiency in the appropriation for the Department of Education, which requires more money this year because of mandatory legislation increasing the salaries of teachers, was suggested by the Mayor in a letter to the Board of Aldermen after conferences with the other members of the Board of Estimate, except Controller Charles L. Craig and Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, and after the Board of Education, through Anning S. Prall, its President, had agreed to cut approximately $2,000,000 from its estimate, reducing the amount to be provided to $25,000,000.

Seven Per Cent. Reduction Necessary.

The scheme was reported to have been suggested by F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, and to have been received by the Mayor as the best way of solving the difficulty with which the city was confronted.

It was estimated that a 7 per cent. reduction in the expenditures of the five Borough Presidents' offices and the city departments, added to four or five million dollars that the Mayor said he understood might be saved out of money appropriated this year for the redemption of special revenue bonds and tax notes, would be sufficient to meet the Educational Department deficit. All the Borough Presidents, except Mr. Curran and the city department heads, over practically all of whom the Mayor has power of removal as well as appointment, were said to have agreed to practice economy and save whatever was possible.

As the city charter empowers the Board of Aldermen to make reductions in the budget but prohibits it from making increases, it was not possible to make this proposed 7 per cent. cut officially and add this amount to the appropriation for the Department of Education. The Mayor suggested that the Board of Aldermen permit the budget to stand as it was, with the understanding that the reductions would be made by each city department and that the amounts thus saved would be transferred as they became accruals to the Department of Education, which would in that way obtain the money necessary to carry on the schools and pay the increased salaries of the teachers.

Craig Calls It "Humbug."

Both Controller Craig and Mr. Curran expressed disbelief in the practicality of this scheme. Controller Craig called it "humbug," and pointed out that the only real effect of the day's proceedings was the adoption of the budget unchanged by the Board of Aldermen.

"Once the Board of Aldermen lets go of the budget, there's an end of it," Controller Craig said.

Asked if he did not believe that the Borough Presidents and heads of city departments would make these reductions, as the Mayor had promised, Mr. Craig said:

"Borough Presidents and department heads are spenders, not savers."

"How can the city make up the Department of Education deficit, which now seems to be $25,000,000?" Mr. Craig was asked.

"This deficit is more apparent than real," he replied. "The Legislature attempted to take care of this situation by increasing the teacher's quota for New York City, the amount paid by the State toward each teacher's salary, from $100 and $200 to $600, and added for that purpose 1½ mills to the State tax rate. Now it seems there was a miscalculation and that the 1½ mill will not produce the $600 quota and that the $600 quota was too small to meet the increase in salaries.

Puts Solution Up to Legislature.

"But even with this $600 quota, the amount to be received by the city is only for the period ending June 30 next. If the Legislature continues this quota for the remainder of the year, the city will receive from this source between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000, which will reduce the apparent Department of Education deficit by that much.

"This matter will be taken care of by the Legislature anyway, and those who are trying to devise some other method are only getting in the way of orderly procedure. The present Governor, the incoming Governor and the Legislature are committed to the policy that educa-

HARDING URGES CO-OPERATION IN SENATE; WILL CALL EXTRA SESSION AFTER MARCH 4; MEETS LEADERS, SEEKS UNITY ON TREATY

President Decides Not to Address Congress Today; Impresses Congress Callers as Better in Health

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Wilson will not read his annual address to the Senate and House in joint session tomorrow, but it will be transmitted by messenger and read to both bodies in separate session.

Not until after committees of the Senate and the House visited him this afternoon to inform him that Congress had convened did he accept the advice of his physician, Rear Admiral Grayson, and decide not to attempt to make the address in person.

The committees were received by the President in the White House soon after 1 o'clock. He walked into the Blue Room, where the committees were assembled, using a cane, and stood while Senator Lodge, as Chairman, told him the reason for the visit.

"I thank you. I will communicate with Congress," he said.

The last previous delegation that the President received was more than a month ago, when pro-League Republicans and independents called upon him. Then, seated, he read an address to his visitors, outlining his views on the League of Nations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Senator Lodge and the President today met face to face for the first time since the League Covenant and Peace Treaty were defeated in the Senate under Lodge's leadership, when the Corigressional committee called upon him.

The President did not shake hands with his visitors. They were ushered into the room by White House attendants and then Mr. Wilson appeared from an adjoining room. He wore a blue sack suit and used a cane. On entering the door he smiled and pointing to his cane, said:

"You see, gentlemen, I cannot yet dispense with my third leg."

The committee was at the White House only a few minutes and the President remained standing at the door of the room during the interview. Some of the visitors said that in walking his left leg evidenced his affliction, and that he kept his left hand up across his chest.

Besides Mr. Lodge, the callers were Senator Underwood and Representatives Mondell, Fordney and Champ Clark. Some said the President still gave visible evidence of his long illness, but that considering the character and duration of his sickness, he appeared in unusually good condition. He was described as having put on weight.

There was a difference of opinion as to the President's voice. One caller described it as "hollow and low" and said that it was with difficulty that he heard what the President had to say. Others said that while not as robust as before his illness, Mr. Wilson's voice was good and that the Executive spoke clearly.

Ex-Speaker Clark said the President walked into the room "briskly." Senator Underwood described the President as being "in very good spirit" and as looking "very well."

WHEAT STRIKE SHUTS NORTH DAKOTA BANKS

23 HAVE CLOSED DOORS

Special to The New York Times.

BISMARCK, N. D., Dec. 6.—The acute financial situation which has resulted in the closing of twenty-two State banks and one national bank will be considered at a conference of State bankers to be held in Bismarck tomorrow at the call of O. E. Lofthus, State Bank Examiner.

Two of the twenty-two banks closed today, these being the Citizens' State Bank of Edgeley and the State Bank of Nortonville.

Mr. Lofthus said tonight that he had no plan to offer, but he hoped that the bankers themselves would formulate a scheme that would result in solving the financial crisis.

"In my opinion, the financial situation will not be relieved until the farmers begin to sell grain," he continued. "There is no indication as yet that the farmers are willing to sell their grain at the existing price. Only when the farmer begins to liquidate his debts will the banks be able to meet their obligations. The constant drain on the banks, created by the refusal of the farmers to sell, is depleting their reserves and necessitating their closing.

"I don't know whether we have reached the bank-closing peak yet or not. I don't think we have."

The farmers' wheat strike, caused by low crop values, is being maintained not only in North Dakota, but throughout the Western wheat-growing States. Growers assert the existing price is far below production cost. Last week more than ten thousand North Dakota farmers were pledged to hold their grain until the price reached at least $2.50, the pledge being made through the State branch of the National Wheat Growers' Association.

North Dakota's financial situation is not without its political features. In the recent election the people approved a law, initiated by the forces that are opposed to the Non-Partisan League, which did away with the compulsory deposit of all public funds in the Bank of North Dakota. This bank is a State-owned institution.

This law became operative last Friday, since when Treasurers of political sub-divisions of the State are permitted, under the terms of the law, to withdraw all funds they have on deposit with the Bank of North Dakota and redeposit them in privately owned banks. This move, however, has been blocked by the State Industrial Commission, which controls the Bank of North Dakota. A resolution, offered by Governor Frazier and adopted by the Commission, interprets the Public Funds law as not being retroactive; that is, public funds deposited in the Bank of North Dakota prior to the time the law went into effect, are held to be non-transferrable.

HARDING DEMANDS CONGRESS ACTION

Urges Leaders to Clear Decks for Special Session He Will Call in the Spring.

WANTS HEARINGS ON TARIFF

Has Asked Senate Committee to "Iron Out" Any Differences on Foreign Relations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President-elect Harding had a busy day of it today. After spending the night at the residence of Mr. Edward Beale McLean, whose guest he is on his Washington visit, he went to the Capitol for the meeting of the Senate, made a speech to that body, had many conferences with prominent Republicans and returned to the McLean residence in the early evening. Tonight he attended a stag dinner at the home of Senator New.

Out of all his conversation today very little developed in the way of determining the policies he will follow after he becomes President. There was a revival of Cabinet gossip, but no information as to what men are in his mind for his official family came from the President-elect.

"I can say with the most sweeping assurance," Senator Harding told newspaper men during a session with them in the Senate press gallery, "that I have nothing to say about the Cabinet, though (this with a whimsical smile) I think I can easily understand some of the burning curiosity. No places have been tendered anybody."

In his various conferences, mainly with Republican Senators, the President-elect laid the foundation for further discussions on the subject of the policies of the next Administration. He indicated to them, as he afterward did to newspaper men, that he would call Congress in extra session soon after he was inaugurated. He said that he had "not the slightest doubt that there would be a recommendation to the incoming Congress for a revision of our taxing system." To the newspaper men he said:

"You might say that I have said to members of the Senate and to members of the House that I hope they will have some hearings on the readjustments of the tariff which is being called for by the country."

Would Iron Out Differences.

"I preached throughout the campaign the gospel of understanding," he declared, "and that is what I am trying to put into effect."

Replying to a question he explained:

"I am trying to find a line where we can essentially get together on matters of foreign relations. I am trying to do that with the Senate because the Senate has co-ordinate power in dealing with the matter. I have been particular to talk with members of the Foreign Relations Committee to iron out whatever differences might exist in that committee."

This was thought to be a reference to the difficulties over the intention of the President-elect to take up the question of the formation of "an association of nations" of which the United States could become a member. It is

PLEDGE BY PRESIDENT-ELECT

Will Keep Senate in Mind as Co-ordinate Branch of Government.

BUT INSIST ON OWN RIGHTS

BIDS ADIEU TO CHAMBER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The traditional decorum of the Senate was forgotten today at noon when Warren G. Harding appeared on the floor of that body to bid farewell to his colleagues. This was the chief feature of the opening for its final session. The crowded galleries applauded loud and long and the Senators joined in the tribute to the President-elect, who smilingly indicated his appreciation of the warmth of the welcome. Party lines were forgotten and the Democrats were seemingly as demonstrative as were the Republicans in greeting the next President.

Senator Harding made a brief speech that was in the nature of a good-bye to the men who have been his associates in the upper house of Congress. He besought the continued co-operation of the Senators in the four years that are to follow the 4th of March. And he did not limit this co-operation to the Senators on his own side of the chamber, but included those on the Democratic side, with whom he expressed a desire to "find a common ground in the spirit of service."

Mr. Harding assured the Senators that as President he would ever keep in mind the responsibilities of the Senate as a co-ordinate branch of the Government.

"When my responsibilities begin in the Executive capacity," he said, "I shall be as mindful of the Senate's responsibilities as I have been jealous of them as a member, but I mean, at the same time, to be as insistent about the responsibilities of the Executive."

Also the President-elect referred to the "Senatorial oligarchy" about which so much was said and written in the late political campaign. He made it plain that in his mind there exists no such thing as a "Senatorial oligarchy." He characterized the stories of the oligarchy as "highly imaginative and harmless fiction."

Senator Harding came on the floor of the Senate, entering from the Republican cloak room, at exactly two minutes to 12 o'clock. His entry was as modest as that of any of his colleagues, and it was several seconds before the galleries recognized him as a member of a small group among whom were Lodge, the majority leader; Frelinghuysen, Wadsworth, Borah, Brandegee and Smoot.

The Democrats, entering the chamber from their own cloak room, hastened to join the Republicans, and for five minutes, while the galleries applauded, the President-elect was kept busy shaking hands with and receiving the well-wishes of his colleagues of both parties.

Swanson Greets His Old Friend.

It was more like a big family reunion than anything else. The first Democrat to reach the next President was Swanson of Virginia, a fellow member of the Committee on Foreign Relations and a very close personal friend. Harding and Swanson embraced and shook hands like long lost brothers. Then came Chamberlain of Oregon, another close Democratic friend, and next Underwood, the Democratic floor leader, who has paired with the President-elect, and then all the rest.

The first welcome over, Senator Harding walked to his desk in the third row on the Republican side, adjoining that of Senator Wadsworth of New York, the vacant chair of Penrose of Pennsylvania, being on the President-elect's left. Senator Fall of New Mexico sat in the Penrose seat for a few moments, and when he vacated it Senator Chamberlain came over from the Democratic side and engaged in a few minutes' earnest conversation with Mr. Harding.

In the meantime a roll call was proceeding and when the clerk called "Mr. Harding" and the President-elect in a loud clear voice responded "Here" the galleries again broke into applause.

Immediately following the completion of the roll call and the announcement by the Vice President that a quorum was present, Senator Swanson was recognized. He presented the credentials of Carter Glass, Senator-elect from Virginia, and Senator Underwood then presented the credentials of J. Thomas Heflin, who succeeds the late Senator Bankhead of Alabama. After Messrs. Glass and Heflin had taken the oath as Senators, Vice President Marshall named Senator Lodge and Underwood as a committee to join with the House Committee in notifying President Wilson that the Senate was in session and ready for business.

Vice President Marshall recognized Senator Lodge, who said:

"Mr. President, before making the motion to adjourn I cannot refrain from calling attention to the fact that this is a memorable occasion. For the first time in the history of the country a member of this body has been elected President of the United States. He is here with us today, still a Senator, and I venture to suggest that he may be recognized by the Chair to speak informally to the Senate before he leaves his service here."

The bursts of applause that had greeted Mr. Harding when he first appeared on the floor and again when he answered to his name were tame compared to the ovation he received when he arose to make his speech. He stood for a moment or two in his old place from which he had expected to make his remarks. Vice President Marshall, however, had other plans, and leaving the rostrum he hastened to the side of the President-elect, grasped him by the hand, and led him to the rostrum where, with a wave of the arm, he presented him to Senators and the galleries.

Harding's Speech of Farewell.

Again the applause started and it did not stop until Mr. Harding smilingly motioned for silence. Then he said:

"I am pleased at this greeting by fellow members of the Senate. There is still greater satisfaction in having this opportunity to say to you informally some of the things in my heart which I could utter in no other way. I recognize that I am here today under somewhat unusual circumstances, and there is a delicacy about it that one in my position cannot escape except through some form of self-effacement which does not seem quite possible.

"No member of this body could be more reluctant to leave it. I may say to this Senate that I came here with very high respect for this body, and I am leaving it with greater respect than that with which I came. If one could always direct his own political fortunes to his liking I should have preferred my membership here to any office a citizen may hold in this republic or elsewhere in the world.

"I like the freedom, the association, the patriotic sense of responsibility which abides here. I am conscious of the great place which Congress holds under our Constitution, and particularly sensible to the obligations of the Senate. When my responsibilities begin in the Executive capacity I shall be as mindful of the Senate's responsibilities as I have been jealous of them as a member, but I mean, at the same time, to be just as insistent about the responsibilities of the Executive.

"Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the avenue, but in the co-ordination and co-operation which becomes the two in a great and truly representative popular government.

"This brings me to the thought particularly in my mind. Something has been said about the 'Senatorial oligarchy.' Of course, every one here knows that to be a bit of highly imaginative and harmless fiction. But I do recognize how essential is the helpfulness of the Senate in the making of a successful administration.

"I want to express today the wish of a colleague for the confidence and the co-operation of the members of this body in the four years which begin next March 4. I do not limit this sincere request to this side of the aisle. One cannnot promise agreement in all things with an opposite party which is sometimes insistently wrong, but we may find common ground in the spirit of service, and I hope that agreeable and courteous and oftimes helpful relationship with the opposite side which has added to the delights of fellow-service during the last six years.

"We are facing no eay task. We have our full part in the readjustment of human affairs after the world tumult. We have our tasks at home, we have our part in the inevitable work of the civilized world. I am sure that the necessity of wise solution will inspire us to work together, to take common counsel, to be tolerant of one another, and resolve that it is not beyond us to attain the ends which become our Republic at home and will maintain its high place among the nations of the earth.

"With propriety I cannot venture upon any suggestions now, even though I am speaking as a member of this body. Three months of the present Administration remain, and I would have House and Senate join cordially in making them fruitful rather than wasted months. There is so much to be done, and we have already had so much of delay, that I should like unanimous recognition that there are no party ends to serve, but precious days are calling for service to our common country.

"I cannot resist the repetition of my regret that my association on this floor and in committee rooms is ending today. It has been a delightful and profound experience. Let me express the hope to one and all, that, though there comes a change in official relationship, it will not interrupt our co-operation nor deprive us of the personal fellowship which I have found to be a great compensation for the sacrifices of conscientious public service."

Democrats Join in Applause.

The handclapping on the floor that started as Senator Harding concluded seemed to be joined in by all the Senators present. Lodge, Brandegee, Wadsworth and Knox were among the most enthusiastic applauders on the Republican side, while Chamberlain, Swanson, Simmons and Underwood, on the Democratic side, were every bit as cordial in demonstrating their friendly attitude.

On the floor, when Mr. Harding spoke, among others, were Senator-elect Harrold of Oklahoma, the first Republican to be elected to the Senate from that State, who on March 4 will take the seat now occupied by Mr. Gore, the blind member of the Senate; Governor Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, also a Senator-elect; ex-Senators George Sutherland of Utah, and John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, both mentioned as Cabinet possibilities; ex-Senator Newell Sanders of Tennessee, Governor Campbell of Arizona, Governor-elect Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia and ex-Governor Milliken of Maine.

Mrs. Harding entered the Executive galleries while her husband was speaking. She came in with Mrs. Edward B. McLean, and was escorted to a seat behind the Vice President's bench, all of the seats in the latter being occupied when she arrived. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth had the end seat and was the first to greet the next mistress of the White House.

There were several incidents connected with the session that attracted more or less attention. Just before Mr. Harding came into the chamber Senator Reed of Missouri, the most irreconcilable of the Democratic irreconcilables, arrived. He was bundled up in a big storm overcoat and was leisurely making his way to the Democratic cloak room. When he passed the Republican cloak room Borah of Idaho poked his head out of the door, caught Reed by the arm, and pulled him into the sanctum of the Republicans.

"That's where he belongs," remarked an old-line Democrat, who witnessed the incident.

Just after Senator Harding began his speech, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who was one of Cox's managers at San Francisco and one of his closest advisers during the campaign, came in. He did not take his seat but stood in the doorway directly facing Mr. Harding and was among the first to congratulate him.

For half an hour after the Senate adjourned Mr. Harding remained on the floor, the Senators forming in single column and bidding him au revoir.

HOST OF BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

Rushing of Legislation Will Begin at Once.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Congress reconvened today with the customary routine opening sessions which were attended by great crowds and marked by an address, in the Senate, by President-elect Harding.

More than 350 new bills and resolutions were dropped into the House hopper today and a flood of similar proportions is expected tomorrow in the Senate. The new House measures dealt with almost every conceivable subject, including proposals for repeal of war laws, appropriations for millions of dollars for a myriad of purposes, pensions and many measures for farmers' relief.

Among the new House measures was a bill by Representative Osborne (Rep.) of California, to exempt all Liberty and Victory bonds from taxation.

Representative Ayres, Democrat, of Kansas, proposed a Constitional amendment authorizing a majority of the Senate to ratify treaties.

Representative Bland, Republican, of Indiana, introduced a resolution to investigate relations between the United States, Haiti and the Dominican Republic, with particular reference to conduct of American officers.

The program for tomorrow's inauguration of actual work called for debate in the Senate on the bill for Federal regulation of the meat industry and for the launching of immigration restriction legislation in the House. The House Immigration Committee bill prohibiting immigration for two years was reported out and the Rules Committee will consider tomorrow a rule for its immediate consideration under limitation of debate.

APPROVES IMMIGRATION BAN

House Committee Orders Favorable Report on Johnson Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Favorable report on the Johnson bill prohibiting immigration into the United States for a period of two years was ordered today by the House Immigration Committee. Chairman Johnson of the committee said the measure would be given preference in the House. The measure would become effective sixty days after enactment.

A letter to Mr. Johnson from V. S. McClatchy of Sacramento, Cal., representing the Japanese Exclusion League, made public today, asserted that while the committee bill would cut off "nearly all immigration from other nations," for the two-year period, it "accords apparently to Japan an exclusive exception and allows her to decide * * * what Japanese immigrants shall come into this country."

Mr. McClatchy declared this "extraordinary privilege" was what had been given Japan under the "gentlemen's agreement," which the committee bill would not repeal.

"Your bill, if I correctly apprehend the situation," he added, "will fasten on us for two years more the existing conditions as to Japanese exclusion."

Wants Minor Postmasters Salaried.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Revision of the compensation of fourth class postmasters is to be proposed by Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire. He announced today that he would introduce a bill to put these Postmasters on a salary basis, ranging from $125 to $999 annually, as a substitute for their payment according to the volume of their postage stamp cancellations. About 41,600 such Postmasters would be affected.

MOVE TO AID FARMER STARTS IN CONGRESS

Resolutions of Senate and House Committees Urge Revival of War Finance.

AIM AT "LIBERAL" CREDITS

To Be Extended by Federal Reserve Banks on Security of Agricultural Produce.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Revival of the War Finance Corporation and action by the Federal Reserve Board permitting extension by banks of "liberal" credits to farmers would be directed by a joint resolution, drafted late today by the Senate Agricultural Committee. The resolution will be reported to the Senate tomorrow by Senator Gronna of North Dakota, the Agriculture Committee Chairman, who will ask for immediate consideration.

Members of the committee drafting the resolution expressed confidence that enough votes were assured to bring about its prompt passage, but members of the Finance Committee indicated that they would ask that it first be referred to them for consideration, inasmuch as the War Finance Corporation was created under a bill drawn by their committee.

Restoration of the War Finance Corporation to furnish financial aid to farms also would be directed in a concurrent resolution presented today in the House by Representative Barnes, Democrat, of South Carolina.

The Senate Agriculture Committee decided to report its resolution as a committee measure, hoping thereby to save time. With unanimous consent under the Senate rules the resolution could be read twice in one day and placed on the calendar for passage.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, member of the Agriculture Committee, first proposed a concurrent resolution which does not require approval by the President, but other members objected on the ground that such a resolution would not be strong enough. While not anticipating the action of the President, Democratic Senators made clear their intention of voting to overrule a veto, if necessary.

Effect of the Resolution.

The Senate Committee's resolution declares that "unprecedented and unparalleled distress" exists among the farmers because of their inability to market their products at prices equaling the cost of production, and that the people of Europe are in "dire need" of these products but are unable to purchase because of existing financial conditions. The resolution further recites that banks have been unable to extend credit to farmers so that they may hold their products until "they can be sold in a fair and reasonable market." Then followed the resolution's directions, which declare:

"The Secretary of the Treasury and the members of the War Finance Corporation are hereby directed to revive the activities of the War Finance Corporation and that said corporation be at once rehabilitated with the view of assisting in the financing and the exportation of agricultural products to foreign markets.

"The Federal Reserve Board is hereby directed to take such action as may be necessary to permit the member banks of the Federal Reserve System, in accordance with law and consistent with sound banking, to grant liberal extension of credit to the farmers of the country upon the security of the agricultural products now held by them, by permitting the rediscounting of such notes of extension at the lowest possible rates of interest."

Opposition to extension of Government credit to agricultural interests unless similar relief is provided for other lines of business was expressed today by Chairman Haugen of the House Agriculture Committee. The plight of farmers would be considered, Mr. Haugen said, by the committee, which, Representative Haugen said, probably will group bills into one measure for introduction in the House.

Mr. Haugen expressed the belief that a way could be found to aid all legitimate lines of business that are suffering financial losses because of slumping prices and tight credit.

Continuing his statement today before the Joint Congressional Committee in favor of reviving the finance corporation, Eugene Meyer JJrJ. of New York, former head of the corporation, declared that the testimony of Secretary Houston "constitutes a confession of complete impotence in the present great crisis." The Treasury head told the committee last week that officials of his depagment had no solution for the problem facing the farmers.

"One is apt to infer," said Mr. Meyer, "that Secretary of the Treasury Houston contemplates the plight of the producers with somewhat greater equanimity on account of their failure to follow the admonitions of Secretary of Agriculture Houston." Mr. Meyer also charged that the Secretary, "in support of his policy of inaction," continued to make statements which were "inexact."

Mr. Meyer contended that the War Finance Corporation was designed to relieve situations similar to the present condition of the producers and asserted that Secretary Houston did not understand the law creating the corporation.

The Alleged "Inexact" Statements.

Among the statements attributed to Secretary Houston by Mr. Meyer, and termed by the latter "inexact," were:

"His statement, continuously repeated during the past six months, that the War Finance Corporation was a war organization created for a war emergency. This, in spite of the fact that the powers to make advances to finance American exports were granted to the corporation by the Congress as a reconstruction amendment on March 3, 1919, four months after the armistice. These powers were to continue, according to the law, 'until the expiration of one year after the termination of the war between the United States and the German Government, as fixed by proclamation of the President.' This much to be desired event has not yet taken place.

"His repeated efforts to stigmatize the movement for the resumption of the War Finance Corporation as an attempt to restore inflated prices, when he must be aware, by this time, that the real question which is agitating the producers of the country is the problem of the orderly marketing of our products.

"The statement that the war powers of the corporation expired with the armistice. This in spite of the fact that when the railroad appropriation failed in March, 1919, the War Finance Corporation loaned to the railroads over $100,000,000 under its war powers during April, May and June, 1919, more than six months after the armistice, and that it has practically the same war powers as those under which the President appointed a Fuel Administrator by authority of the Lever act in November, 1919.

"The statement that the War Finance Corporation would have to accept all sorts of loans, whether or not material to the public interest and the needs of the present situation. This in spite of the fact that the War Finance Corporation asserted and practiced the right to exercise its own judgment with respect to any and all loans, considering them from the point of view of public policy in a broad way. For example, the corporation refused to finance exports to South America and to China last Spring on the ground that while we were shipping gold to these countries it would not be in accordance with public policy to give credits for exports.

"The statement that the War Finance Corporation had no funds except what it would borrow. This in spite of the fact that the corporation has $375,000,000 on deposit with the Secretary of the Treasury.

"I wish to make it clear," Mr. Meyer added, "that I do not believe the resumption on the part of the War Finance Corporation will cure all the woes of the world, but I do believe that its resumption will be one important step in remedying the congested state in the business of our agricultural production, in our industrial production, in our commercial processes, and in our banking system, for it was well understood that the policy of price-smashing has, by confession of the Secretary himself, produced no liquidation of loans, and Governor Harding testified before the committee that our banking system would be helped by a more orderly marketing of our production."

Presents Case of Governors.

Recommendations adopted by the recent Governors' conference at Harrisburg, and urging creation by Congress of a corporation to finance exports and afford more liberal extension of credits to farmers was presented to the committee by Governor Bickett of North

"This is not a time to call loans," said the Governor, adding that bankers in his State had told him they had had such instructions from the Federal Reserve Board.

The Governor described the condition of the South as "tragic," declaring there was no market for cotton. "I think the Government ought to assist the farmers to hold the cotton," he added.

Representative Sinnott, Republican, of Oregon, said that a wheat man of his State told him that because England retained a central buying agency she dominated the American market by buying wheat as a unit.

BILLS FOR DUTY ON WHEAT.

Two Members Seek Levies on Canadian Grain and Flour.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Bills providing a duty on wheat and flour imports, markets.

Duties of thirty cents a bushel on wheat, $1.35 a barrel on flour and thirty per cent. ad valorem on semolina and other wheat products are provided for in one of Mr. Steenerson's bills. One of the causes of the slump of wheat prices, he declared, was the dumping on and regulating grain exchanges, have been framed by Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, for introduction in the House, in addition to resolutions authorizing the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the activity of foreign Governments in the American grain United States markets of millions of bushels of wheat and several million barrels of flour from Canada, free of duty.

The measure designed to regulate grain exchanges provides that organizations operating them shall admit groups of farmers organized on the co-operative principle on equal footing with other members and under like conditions.

Representative Summers of Washington introduced a bill today proposing duties of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, $1.12 a barrel of 196 pounds on wheat flour, and on other wheat products a straight 25 per cent. ad valorem rate.

Tariff duties on citrous fruits of 1½ cents per pound were provided in a bill introduced by Representative Randall of California. The rates are the same as those carried in the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Representative McLaughlin of Nebraska introduced an amendment to the Farm Loan act, which would increase maximum loans to any one borrower to $10,000, except where the money is for land for agricultural purposes. In such cases loans not exceeding $25,000 would be permitted.

Representative Tincher (Rep.) of Kansas introduced a bill designed to prevent speculating on futures in grain and cotton except by bona fide contract makers. A similar measure has been prepared by Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, for introduction in the Senate.

Representative Baer (Rep.) of North Dakota introduced a resolution to provide for an immediate embargo on wheat.

Representative Dickinson (Rep.) of Iowa proposed a special committee to investigate fluctuations in prices of grain, live stock and cotton.

FARMERS ASK CONGRESS AID

Say Fall in Prices Threatens to Bankrupt the Industry.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 6.—Congress was called upon today by a resolution adopted unanimously at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation to take immediate action for the relief of the farm industry, which, it was said, was threatened with bankruptcy from the depreciation in prices of farm products.

The resolution asked immediate legislation for the extension and renewals of farmers' obligations which have been rediscounted through Federal Reserve Banks, that an embargo be placed against import of agricultural products similar to those raised in the United States, and that legislation be passed "as may be expedient to bring about active trade relations with the Central European as well as other powers of Europe."

The Federal Reserve Board also was asked by another resolution unanimously adopted to take immediate action that "will result in extension and renewal of farmers' obligations."

Adoption of the resolutions was the first action taken by the convention, which opened here today with the announcement that delegates from more than thirty States were in attendance.

J. R. Howard of Clinton, Ia., President of the federation, declared the present decline in grain prices alone meant a loss of $7,000,000,000 to the farmers, and he added: "There is entirely too much spread between the farmer and the consumer." He urged enactment of tariff legislation which he said "would give the farm the same measure of protection as industry."

DOG WEARS SPECTACLES.

Boston Spaniel Had His Eyes Weakened by Riding in Auto.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—A dog with spectacles was shown at the annual fair of the Animal Rescue League today as an example of humanitarian assistance to our dumb friends. The animal was Nemo, a spaniel of high degree and companion to the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Allen of Marlboro Street. Riding in an open automobile on windy days had weakened his eyes, it was explained, and goggles were prescribed and fitted by an oculist.

At the Allen home it was said that Nemo had worn the spectacles since Summer whenever he went out of doors. The glasses are fastened to a bone frame that runs to a collar.

Nemo appears to regard them as a necessary encumbrance. It was said, submitting to their adjustment, but well pleased to be relieved of them for play with his consort Tessie, unspectacled, a collie that has enjoyed her motor trips without suffering eye strain.

MORE IDLE MEN IN DETROIT.

Mayor Couzens Estimates the Number of Unemployed at 75,000.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Unemployment in the city is increasing, according to figures compiled by the Employers' Association. The seventy-nine manufacturing plants which make up the organization had 135,151 men working Nov. 30, a decrease of 4,980 from the week before. The plants are employing 63,524 fewer than they did on April 7.

Mayor Couzens said today that he believed there were nearly 75,000 men in the city without work. He estimates that more than 100,000 have been thrown out of employment, but that fully 25 per cent. have left the city.

The figures issued by the Employers' Association show that its plants employed 148,500 men during the week ended Nov. 2; 147,000 for the week ended Nov. 9, and 143,000, 140,000 and 135,000, respectively, for the three succeeding weeks.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

GIRLS RUN DOWN IN STREETS

Child Asking Holiday From School to Celebrate Her Birthday Also Hurt.

Two children were killed by automobiles yesterday and a man died of heart disease when an automobile he was driving struck a fire hydrant. Five other persons were injured in automobile accidents during the day.

Julia Falbee, 3 years old, of 281 Curtis Avenue, Richmond Hill, while crossing Jamaica Avenue near Curtis Avenue at neen, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Samuel D. Work Jr. of 219 Cooper Street, Brooklyn. Work carried the child to the Jamaica Hospital, where she died from a fracture of the skull. No arrest was made.

Diana Pessen, 5 years old, of 488 East 139th Street, on her way home from a kindergarten, started to race across 139th Street, near Brook Avenue. She tripped and fell in front of an automobile operated by Michael Koenigsburg. One of the front wheels passed over the child before Koenigsburg could stop his machine. The girl died in St. Francis's Hospital.

Leonard Carhart of 1,993 Amsterdam Avenue, a manager in the Butterwick Laboratories, 1,400 Broadway, was pronounced dead by Dr. Hannon of St. Vincent's Hospital a few minutes after an automobile he had been driving struck a fire hydrant at Lafayette and Houston Streets. Policeman Gleenen saw the machine zigzagging down the street and signalled to the driver to stop, but the car continued across Houston Street and crashed into the hydrant. Carhart was alive when Gleenen reached him, but died before the arrival of the ambulance surgeon. Dr. Hannon said the man had died from heart trouble, aggravated by the accident.

Hurrying to school with a note asking that she be excused for the afternoon, as it was her birthday, Anna Wolf, 10 years old, of 911 East 179th Street was struck by an automobile at Honeywell Avenue and 180th Street. Louis DeMartini of 2080 Clinton Avenue, driver of the machine, hurried the girl to Fordham Hospital, where she is in a critical condition from a fracture of the skull. DeMartini was not arrested.

SUMMONS BAKER'S AID.

House Committee Seeks Facts on War Department's Ship Refitting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The War Investigation Committee of the House will begin tomorrow an inquiry into settlements by the War Department for the reconditioning of vessels, according to an announcement made tonight by Chairman Graham. The committee has called Colonel J. J. Bradley, Assistant Chief of Transportation, and Lieutenant O. Rundy, legal adviser for the department's board which is reviewing the awards, which are said to aggregate $20,000,000.

Chairman Graham said that the committee desired to know the necessity for "such heavy expenditures," and that it expected to call various high army officials before it for an explanation. The Chairman added that Colonel Bradley had been designated by Secretary Baker as his "personal representative, with supreme authority to make settlement" for the reconditioning of the ships, which number between fifty-five and sixty, and he charged that the original awards of the Reviewing Board had been increased.

MOVES TO END WAR POWERS

Volstead Introduces Bill in House and Will Begin Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—One of the first steps by the Republican majority in the House to place the country on a peace time basis was taken today by Representative Volstead of Minnesota, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who introduced a bill repealing all war-time statutes, except the Trading with the Enemy, Food Control, District of Columbia, Rent, Liberty Bond and Espionage acts.

Mr. Volstead announced that the Judiciary Committee would begin hearings immediately. Amendment of the bill in committee to exempt the War Finance Corporation is expected by House leaders.

FOUR HELD FOR MURDERS.

Accused of Killing Waters in Hotel and Barbor in Park.

Magistrate Douras, in the West Side Court, yesterday, held without bail for a hearing tomorrow, John Reidy of Milwaukee and Roland Noak, who said he lived in a hotel at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-first Street, on the charge of participating in the murder of Leeds Vaughn Waters in the Plymouth Hotel, in West Thirty-eighth Street, on Nov. 3 last.

The Magistrate also held Reidy, Edward Kohn of 788 Eighth Avenue and Charles Benner, who said he lived in the same hotel with Reidy, without bail for a hearing tomorrow John Reidy of Milcharge of being concerned in the murder of Frank Barbor in Central Park soon after midnight on Nov. 24.

Detectives who arrested the four men told the Magistrate they believed all were connected with the two murders, and that they had evidence that Barbor was shot because he informed the police a few days before that he was lured to a room in West Ninety-first Street by two of the prisoners and robbed. They declared they learned it was the intention of his slayers to beat him for telling the police of the robbery, but that after one of the murderers struck Barbor on the head with a blackjack a second man shot him in the back as he lay on the ground.

HELD IN RESTAURANT THEFT

Woman Is Charged With Larceny After $200 Pin Vanishes.

A woman who said she was Mrs. Leah Levy, 35 years old, of 11 St. Nicholas Avenue, was arrested in the Crillon Restaurant, 15 East Forty-eighth Street, last night charged by Mrs. Maxwell Van Buskirk of 305 West Eighty-sixth Street with the theft of a diamond pin valued at $200 from a wash stand in the women's room of the place.

According to Mrs. Van Buskirk, she had placed her veil and pin on the stand and a few minutes later when she went to pick the veil up noticed that the pin was missing. She questioned a maid who was in the room and Mrs. Levy, but both denied having seen the pin.

Mrs. Van Buskirk complained to the manager, who detained Mrs. Levy and the maid and telephoned to the East Fifty-first Street police station. Detectives O'Leary and Walsh went to the restaurant and after questioning Mrs. Levy placed her under arrest, charged with grand larceny.

New York Salesman Says Pickpockets Stole Them.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—William Seibel of New York, a salesman for R. A. Breidenbach, importer of precious stones, Maiden Lane, New York, reported to the police tonight that pickpockets had robbed him of $25,000 in diamonds, which he carried in a leather case in his inside coat pocket. Seibel today visited a manufacturing jewelry plant here, where he displayed his stock and put the case back in ris inside pocket.

He then went to Camden to call on a jeweler, and discovered the loss of the jewels, he said, when he alighted from a trolley car.

WHEAT STRIKE SHUTS NOR. DAKOTA BANKS

Acting under this resolution, bank officials have declined to honor drafts made by public officials in charge of funds.

Many banks in the State have very low reserves and Mr. Lofthus stated frankly today that the Banking Department was not enforcing the legal reserve law for the time being. He was confident, however, that many of the closed banks would be reopened, stating that their assets were good and that these would be realized on as soon as the farmers began to sell grain.

The First National Bank at Medina is the first national bank in the State to close. According to a statement by the cashier, the Federal Reserve system extended loans to the bank, but heavy withdrawals by outside depositors compelled the decision today to close the institution.

In Montana one bank closed recently because of failure to realize on farmers' notes. A bank in Iowa, three in South Dakota and one in Colorado have closed for the same reason.

on this question that the President-elect desires to consult "the best minds," who will visit him at Marion and wherever else he will spend the three months before his inauguration.

"I do not want the three months remaining of this session to be wasted," said Senator Harding to the newspaper men. "I was qiute sincere in what I said from the rostrum this morning. I had arranged my pair with Senator Underwood, who was generous enough to say that he would protect me until my successor comes; a very great courtesy, indeed, in view of so long an absence of the pair. The Vice President took me off my feet for a moment when he asked me to his chair. I wanted to come and meet with the Senate once more, and I was sincere in my expression of reluctance to leave.

Wants Co-operation of Senate.

"I genuinely wish the co-operation of the Senate, and I am hoping for an Administration in which there will be the most cordial, helpful and happy relationship between the executive and legislative branches of the Government. We got away from it during part of the war, largely through the exigencies of war and the necessary bestowal of authority on the Executive. This is not a criticism of the Executive; it is a natural tendency of war.

"I have asked Senators with whom I have conferred to expedite the passage of the appropriation bills which are necessary, so that none of them will go over the 3d of March, in order to have the decks clear for a very likely extra session of Congress when the new Administration comes in. Congress can work during the Spring months if the appropriation measures are out of the way.

"I have not the slightest doubt that there will be a recommendation to the incoming Congress for a revision of our taxing system."

When Mr. Harding was asked if he would recommend to Congress after he was President the creation of a budget system, he said he was hopeful that the pending Budget bill would be put through Congress at the session which began today.

Senator Harding said that he would remain in Marion until the latter part of January and that he would not visit Washington again prior to his inauguration. Where he would be between the latter part of January and his inauguration, Mr. Harding did not indicate. It is reported that he will go to some Southern resort for a month.

Will Retire From Senate in January.

Mr. Harding said that he would resign from the Senate between the 10th and 15th of January when the new Republican Governor of Ohio would appoint Senator-elect Frank Willis to succeed him.

"Please do not put me in the attitude of coming here and presuming to anticipate," said Mr. Harding to the newspaper men. "I want to observe the proprieties. It's rather inevitable and wholly unavoidable that I am here today, and while I am here it is natural that I should confer with my colleagues."

It came out as a result of Senator Harding's visit to Washington that Herbert Hoover was to be the first of the "best minds" to visit Marion. Harry K. Daugherty, Senator Harding's close personal adviser, made the arrangement with Mr. Hoover, who is in New York. The conference is set for Saturday. The fact that Mr. Hoover would be the advance guard of the pilgrims to the front porch has given impetus to the belief that Mr. Hoover will be asked to accept a Cabinet office. He had been suggested for Secretary of Commerce, but since he was called in by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to give his views on organized labor's future policy, he has been regarded as the logical choice for Secretary of Labor.

Root Apparently Eliminated.

THE TIMES has already published that Elihu Root would not be asked to be Secretary of State. This statement may now be emphasized. It is quite clear that Mr. Root is not in the President-elect's mind for any office. This limits the field of selection, in the opinion of Republican politicians, to Senator Knox and David Jayne Hill of New York, former Assistant Secretary of State and former Ambassador to Germany. Dr. Hill is especially acceptable to the irreconcilable element in the Senate, who, however, would be entirely satisfied if Mr. Knox were selected.

Another bit of gossip in connection with the President-elect's visit is that ex-Senator George Sutherland of Utah, one of the closest advisers of Mr. Harding during the political campaign, may be appointed to the first vacancy on the Supreme Court Bench. It has been understood that Mr. Sutherland could have a Cabinet position if he cared for it, and he has been mentioned for Attorney General. There is reason to believe that Harry K. Daugherty will be offered the post instead, and it is accepted that this is certain if Mr. Sutherland prefers the Supreme Bench.

That ex-Senator Weeks of Massachusetts will be asked to succeed Daniels as Secretary of the Navy is generally believed by Republican politicians. Their understanding is that Mr. Weeks would prefer to be Secretary of the Treasury, a position for which Governor Lowden of Illinois is being mentioned. That the President-elect is not considering the appointment of a professional military man as Secretary of War seems to be understood. This attitude on his part would bar General Wood and General Pershing.

Revives Gossip on Chamberlain.

Senator Harding's greeting in the Senate today to Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, a Democrat, revived the talk that Mr. Harding might have a Democrat in his Cabinet. He is very fond of Mr. Chamberlain, and, like many other Republican Senators, has expressed sorrow over Mr. Chamberlain's defeat for re-election. It has been generally accepted that if Mr. Harding decided to have a Democrat in his official family he would ask Mr. Chamberlain to be Secretary of War, a position to which he is believed to be well fitted, as he is a member of the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate and was its Chairman during the war period.

President Taft had two Democrats in his Cabinet at different times, both as Secretary of War, and their appointments have been cited as precedents, with the additional argument that the overwhelming majorities received by Mr. Harding showed that many Democrats voted for him.

The President-elect received a call in the morning from Senators Lodge, New and Fall. All three have been mentioned for Cabinet positions, Lodge for Secretary of State, New for Postmaster General, and Fall for some other portfolio. It is reported that none of them cares to leave the Senate and they are not now being talked of for the Cabinet.

After his address in the Senate Mr. Harding had luncheon with a group of Republican Senators in the private room of the Senate restaurant. Those in the party were Johnson of California, Kellogg of Minnesota, Cummins of Iowa, Brandegee of Connecticut, Fall of New Mexico, Watson of Indiana, Townsend of Michigan, Knox of Pennsylvania, Wadsworth of New York, Moses of New Hampshire, and McCumber of North Dakota. During the day he had conferences with Senators and others, singly and in groups in the room of the Committee on the Philippines. Some of those whom he saw were Senators Fall, Borah, Calder, Curtis and Brandegee.

ALDERMEN ACCEPT $345,571,599 BUDGET

tion is a State function. By taking up the matter early in the session, the Legislature can settle it in time."

Mr. Curran was equally opposed to the Hylan-LaGuardia method of meeting the Education Department deficit, but had a different remedy. "I think the scheme is all wrong," he said. "Despite what the Mayor says, salaries would have to be cut to effect the saving needed.

"The Mayor says this scheme is the only way to do it without legislation. The issue of revenue bonds does not require legislation, and that is probably what we will come to in the end. Revenue bonds for the required amount should be issued now, so that the Board of Education, may know where it stands. Nobody knows how much the departments can save, and under the scheme suggested the whole thing is up in the air."

Mayor's Letter to Board.

To carry out this scheme for filling the treasury of the Department of Education by contributions from other city depdrtments, Mayor Hylan sent this formal request to the Board of Aldermen:

Dec. 6, 1920.
City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.

To the Honorable, the Board of Aldermen, City of New York.

Gentlemen: The annual budget for the year 1921 is now before you for final action, in accordance with Section 226 of the Charter. Great difficulty was encountered this year in making up the budge towing to the increased cost of materials, supplies and equipment, increases of salaries allowed to municipal employes in order to meet the high cost of living, mandatory legislation passed by the State Legislature without the approval and against the protests of the city authorities, imposing on the city additional obligations amounting to many millions of dollars. Departmental estimates were carefully examined and general reductions were made in every department. After the tentative budget was adopted department heads were again called upon to further reduce their budget in order to provide the necessary funds for the Board of Education and keep the budget within the constitutional tax limit. Further reductions were made. Notwithstanding the most rigid scrutiny and the paring down of the requests by the many city departments, the budget as it now stands does not meet the mandatory requirements of the Department of Education for the year 1921.

Further Reductions Promised.

The Department of Education nas reduced their estimate for 1921 from $82,026,462.77 to $77,946,038.77, a reduction of over $4,000,000. Of this amount $50,270,990.83 is now provided for in the budget before you. The Board of Education this morning, every member being present, made further assurances of a reduction of at least $3,000,000, and perhaps more, to a point where it will not impair or interfere with the services and efficiency of the department.

Such reduction by the Board of Education reduces the deficit which the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is endeavoring to make up by reduction in departments of the city.

Since this proposed budget has been transmitted to you a great deal of consideration has been given to the subject in order to meet the situation without passing on to future years the mandatory educational expenses of 1921. When the State Legislature passed the mandatory legislation adding many millions of dollars to the school budget, which the city is compelled to provide, it was realized that such legislation would force the city budget for 1921 millions of dollars beyond the constitutional tax limit. It likewise provided for an amendment to the constitution, which if acted favorably upon by the next session of the Legislature and approved by the people at the next election, will exempt from the constitutional tax limit funds for the Board of Education.

People Taxed to the Limit.

Meetings have been held by members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the Board of Education and representatives of State educational authorities in an endeavor to find some way of making up the deficit without placing a greater burden upon the people of the city, who are already taxed to the limit.

I am pleased to say that with but individual exceptions there has been a united effort to co-operate and help in the solution of this most pressing problem. Three different propositions were advanced: (1) Obtain relief from the Legislature by the imposition of a State tax. This simply means that the State would collect the tax on New York City property which the taxpayers would find added to their 1922 tax rate. (2) Another suggestion would require the Board of Education to come in with a request under Subdivision 8 of Section 877 of the State education law. This would immediately add between $22,000,000 and $28,000,000 to the 1922 budget, in addition to what the budget would naturally be for that year. From the budgetary and financial viewpoint it has the same difficulties and disadvantages as the first proposition.

Unless the State finds some other means of taxation the property owners of the city will be forced to pay the bill. The third suggestion presented was to reduce the activities of every department, and then turn over to the Board of Education the money procured by this drastic curtailment in the many city departments. This is the most businesslike but difficult plan.

Fullest Co-operation Pledged.

After conferring with the President of the Board of Aldermen, a conference was held with the Presidents of the Boroughs of the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond, and department heads under my jurisdiction, at which conference the fullest co-operation was pledged for a further reduction where possible in their respective budgets.

The thought will immediately occur to the Board of Aldermen that under the charter it is limited to reducing the budget and that under Section 226 of the charter the board may reduce the several amounts fixed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, except such amounts as are now or may hereafter be fixed by law, and except such amounts as may be inserted by the said Board of Estimate and Apportionment for the payment of State taxes and the payment of interest and principal of the city debt, but the Board of Aldermen may not increase such amounts nor vary the terms or conditions thereof, nor insert any new items.

The only way other than by legislative enactment that any part of the deficit in the Department of Education can be made up is to transfer funds from other departments after the budget becomes effective in 1921. If any items in the budget of the various departments be reduced or stricken out the amounts so saved cannot be used to reduce the defic. in the Board of Education. Reductions suggested should be left in the budget so a transfer may be made from these departments to the Board of Education after the first of the year. I have been assured by the heads of departments and the Bor

LORDS AGAIN DELAY HOME RULE BILL

BIRKENHEAD IN OPPOSITION

Belief That Lords Will Not Persist in Substituting Senates for the Irish Council.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Government was again defeated in the House of Lords tonight when an amendment proposing a new clause to the Home Rule bill, offered by the Marquis of Salisbury, was carried by a vote of 51 to 30.

This amendment provided that neither the Northern nor the Southern Parliament should be established until the King's authority and the protection of the rights and liberties of all persons in both Northern and Southern Ireland were fully assured, and that otherwise the appointed day for putting the act in force should be fixed by resolution of the Imperial Parliament.

In moving his new clause to the bill the Marquess of Salisbury strongly criticised the safeguards in the bill respecting the oath of allegiance and the proposed crown colony system of administration in the event of either Parliament not functioning.

Lord Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor, declared that the Government could not accept the amendment, as the Government's own proposal contained adequate securities.

The general belief was expressed in the lobbies of the House tonight that some of the changes in the bill made in the House of Lords would not be persisted in. It is expected that the proposal to substitute a joint session of Senates for the Irish Council will not be pressed, and the belief was expressed that the Government would agree to establish a Senate for the South if not for the North of Ireland.

Strong opinions expressed by many members caused the Government to yield and accept an amendment to the bill depriving the Irish Parliament of power to levy a sur-tax in addition to the income tax or super-tax.

Another amendment proposing to establish a single judiciary for the whole of Ireland, instead of two separate judiciaries, was rejected, 75 to 48.

TRAVEL BUREAU HEAD HERE.

Francis Bennett's First Visit to This Country.

Francis Bennett, Director of Bennett's Travel Bureau, which was established by his father in 1848, is at the McAlpin Hotel, making his first visit to the United States, although he has made many world tours with groups of travelers. Mr. Bennett escorted the late Colonel Roosevelt through Denmark, Sweden and Norway when the Colonel returned from his hunting trip to Africa. It was while they were traveling from Christiania to Stockholm that a telegram was received telling of the death of King Edward of England, and Colonel Roosevelt immediately cut short his tour and started for London.

"We are naturally just having our first big travel boom to the Scandinavian countries now since the war," said Mr. Bennett. "During the war we handled thousands of Red Cross, war and civilian travelers between Russia and England and the United States, and at the outbreak of the war had perhaps a thousand Americans 'stranded' there, for whom we secured a vessel to send them to New York, but, of course, the tourist travel was completely stopped.

"A great majority of the tourists at the present time are British and Americans. This Christmas will see great numbers of Scandinavians from the Northwest portion of the United States making trips 'home,' their first in six years, with the result that the ships are well booked up for that time."

To Head Detroit Policewomen.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Miss Virginia Mae Murray, in charge of the Travelers' Aid Society in New York City, was named today as Detroit's first policewoman. She will begin her duties here New Year's Day and will appoint her own staff of from twelve to fifteen women. For the first six months Miss Murray will spend three weeks out of every month in Detroit, and at the end of that time she expects to have her Detroit force working, so she can divide her time between Detroit and New York City for another six months.

OVATIONS IN SHOPS FOR MRS. MACSWINEY

FINDS STORES HERE 'GREAT'

"Salesgirls the Politest I Have Ever Seen; Better Than in London," She Says.

Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, was the guest of the staff of The Nation at luncheon yesterday, went shopping and sightseeing and then took up with her lawyers the preparation of her testimony for the "commission" created by that publication to inquire into the Irish situation. This morning at 11:30 she will call on Archbishop Hayes. Later she will have luncheon with Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," and then take a train at 3:30 o'clock for Washington.

Mrs. MacSwiney was interested in the cables telling of the request of Father Michael O'Flanagan, acting President of Sinn Fein, to Lloyd George asking him what first step toward peace he proposed.

"The Irish people," she said, "are now calling Lloyd George's bluff, to use a recently acquired American expression."

Mrs. MacSwiney's shopping tour developed into a series of small demonstrations. At Altman's, where she went for a dress, the salesgirl who waited on her recognized Mrs. MacSwiney and her sister at once. She said nothing for a while, but after some talk about the dress had put them on a friendly footing, she said:

"You are Mrs. MacSwiney, are you not?"

When the fact was established, word flew around the floor, and a number of persons gathered around her to shake hands with her. The same thing happened in several other shops and in a drug store.

"I was recognized from the pictures in the papers everywhere I went," she said. "I don't think any one who waited on us missed us. The shops here are great. The salesgirls are the politest I have ever seen and much better than those in London."

Mrs. MacSwiney received letters and telegrams by the hundred yesterday from Irish sympathizers and admirers of her husband, together with many gifts of flowers.

"It is impossible for me to acknowledge all these kind messages from individuals, and I would like to thank them all through the press."

Mrs. MacSwiney said that she and her sister had talked briefly at the luncheon in their honor by the staff of The Nation on the ladies' floor of the Railroad Club, telling something of alleged British atrocities in Ireland.

"We thanked them for their help," she said, "and I said I hoped they would do everything they could to help us win our freedom."

Afterward Mrs. MacSwiney visited the office of The Nation and spent the evening as the guest of Mrs. Henry Villard and Mrs. Oswald Garrison Villard.

The Rev. Father William P. Martin, one of the Cathedral clergy and the celebrant of the mass attended by Mrs. MacSwiney on Sunday, yesterday denied a report that he had avoided seeing Mrs. MacSwiney at the reception at the Cathedral because he was out of sympathy with her trip. Father Martin said that he had hurried from his breakfast after the mass to meet Mrs. MacSwiney, but that it was too late.

MOTHER AND GIRL GUILTY.

Each Shields Other, but Former Is Jailed for Shoplifting.

Mrs. Mary Manning, 50 years old, and her daughter, Mrs. Florence Rymer, 20, of 247 Grove Street, Jersey City, who pleaded guilty in Special Sessions yesterday to shoplifting, tried to shield each other and to assume sole responsibility for the offense.

Agents of the Stores' Mutual Protective Association charged them with the theft of linen and tableware, valued at $67, from a department store. Justices Moss, Voorhees and Kernochan sentenced Mrs. Manning to twenty days in the workhouse. Her daughter was released on a suspended sentence.

Helen Sammons, a maid employed at a hotel, was fined $25 and sentenced to a day in the Tombs on the charge of stealing $19 worth of merchandise from a store. Mrs. Rosalie Kaufman was fined $50 and sent to the Tombs for a day on a similar charge.

JERSEY SCOURED FOR FOUR BANDITS

TRAVELED THERE BY AUTO

Special to The New York Times.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 6.—Posses of policemen and detectives in motorcycles and automobiles last night searched towns and villages in Bergen County for four young bandits who early this evening held up the Ridgewood Town Club here with pistols and later robbed a Hackensack man.

George Havens, State Automobile Inspector, was returning to his home in Hackensack from Newark in his automobile when two masked men with revolvers alighted from an automobile on Essex Street and ordered him to stop his car and throw up his hands. They went through his pockets, taking about $15. Havens told the police he noticed part of the license number of the robbers' machine was "N. Y. 116." From the description Havens gave the police the bandits seem to have been the same that held up the Ridgewood Town Club.

The bandits, wearing masks and carrying pistols, drove up to the club about 7 o'clock and, while two remained in their automobile, the other two entered the office of the club, where they found Jesse Brune, the negro steward. He later told the police that, after he had been ordered to throw his hands in the air, the bandits took $39 from him and $31 from behind the counter. Then they backed into the street and, jumping into the automobile, disappeared.

From the descriptions received from the steward the police declared that the hold-up was the work of the same men who on Saturday night last committed five hold-ups in Bergen County. A general alarm immediately was sent out to the police of the surrounding communities.

Two negroes last night held up H. P. Stone of 915 West Side Avenue, Jersey City, near his home, and when he resisted their attempt to rob him one of them struck him on the head with a blackjack. The bandits became frightened when he fell to the street and escaped without getting his money. He was removed to the City Hospital, where it was said he suffered a concussion of the brain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Dec. 7.—The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent says:

"The Admiralty are making demands for an enlarged shipbuilding program based on shipbuilding by the United States and Japan, to which a majority of the Ministry are opposed.

"I hear that these Admiralty estimates are under consideration of the Cabinet, in the sense that they have been circularized. The demand for more big battleships does not meet with general approval, in view of the new world situation."

settlement was in sight. He believed an offer of real fiscal autonomy to Ireland would be a better agent in a settlement than the Government's present Home Rule bill. None the less, he admitted that economic pressure exerted by the Government in Ireland through the County Councils would no doubt win out as a policy, though he considered there would be resultant bitterness.

"It is well known that the Government has been ready to go beyond the proposals in the Home Rule bill if there were any real response from representative and accredited bodies in Southern Ireland toward making a permanent settlement. Such response has not been forthcoming. Mr. George Russell (A. E.) who it is understood recently breakfasted with the Prime Minister, is a poet and dreamer, and one of Ireland's most distinguished sons, but he never identified himself with any political party in Ireland, and cannot be regarded in a representative character.

"A withdrawal of the Government subsidy to some of the Southern Irish railways, it is stated, is in contemplation. If this is done it will be on the ground that while such railways are being maintained out of the pockets of the British taxpayers, the railwaymen on these lines are refusing to carry troops or Government stores."

LONDON, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Questioned with regard to the message of the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, acting President of the Sinn Fein, expressing a willingness to make peace at once and asking what was the first step the Premier proposed, Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons today said that he had just received and had not considered his reply.

Asked if he thought Father O'Flanagan was "the Sinn Feiner on the bridge, able to speak for the Sinn Fein party," the Premier replied:

"That is what I want to find out, and I do not think it will be very helpful if there are too many conflicting questions asked on the subject."

At a meeting of the Sinn Fein Divisional Council in Dublin during the week-end, reference was made to the report that negotiations were proceeding between the Sinn Fein and the English Government, says the Central News Dublin correspondent today.

It was decided that any person or persons discussing terms of a settlement with a "foreign" Government, unless authorized by the Dail Eireann (Irish Republican Parliament), is guilty of treachery, and that any such negotiations and the results thereof will be repudiated by the people of Ireland, the correspondent adds.

Henderson Finds Desire for Peace.

Arthur Henderson, Labor M. P., who has been carrying out investigations in Ireland with the Labor Commission, returned unexpectedly to London tonight. Other members of the commission remained in Ireland to continue their inquiries.

"I visited Ireland many times," said Mr. Henderson to an interviewer, "but never have I seen a desire for peace so marked and so widespread as now. One notion only prevailed, 'We are tired of this awful strife and want peace.'

"After surveying the entire situation it is my firm conviction that the present moment offers an excellent opportunity for settlement. I strongly believe that if an effort was made now to encourage this desire for peace and to secure an immediate cessation of acts of violence and other provocative acts, we should lay the foundations of a constructive effort for settlement of the constitutional question. Definite efforts should be made to arrange officially the terms of an armistice during which period a conference should be held between representatives of the British Government and representatives of those in Ireland who, to use the words of the Prime Minister, 'were in position to deliver the goods.'

"If these suggestions are acted upon by the Government, I have reason to know that the full weight of the Catholic Church and all organized labor in Ireland would be used to secure a cessation of lawlessness and disorder during the progress of negotiations."

Pressed as to whether there were any responsible Sinn Feiners who would consent to consider with the Government the proposals which he had put forward, Mr. Henderson said his reference to the heads of the Catholic Church and organized labor in Ireland meant that at any rate some of them could speak on behalf of the people who could deliver the goods.

Bishop Acts for Premier.

DUBLIN, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Determined efforts to bring about an early peace in Ireland are being made here. Conversations have been in progress more than a week and hope was expressed last night by some of those engaged in the negotiations that within another week a tangible basis of settlement might be reached.

The chief intermediary at work is the Right Rev. Patrick Joseph Clune, Bishop of Perth, Australia, who, it is understood, has been asked by Premier Lloyd George to sound out Sinn Fein sentiment and prepare, if possible, the ground on which a foundation for the peace edifice can be reared.

Mgr. Clune is a native of County Clare, and went to Australia twenty-four years ago. He arrived in Ireland last August, and, after visiting for several weeks at Ennis and other districts in County Clare, made a number of trips back and forth to England. He stated to The Associated Press yesterday that negotiations still were progressing, but that it was too soon to make any positive prediction relative to their success. He declared, however, that he cherished great hopes that good would be forthcoming from efforts made in the last week, and expressed confidence that a truce could be arranged before Christmas. He is exercising full powers of mediation and arbitration to achieve that end.

Mgr. Clune planned to have a final interview today with Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, who made a special week-end trip to Ireland in connection with the peace movement. The Australian prelate expects to go to London at once to report on the result of his work to Premier Lloyd George. Every facility to carry out his mission had been given him by the Government, he said, and he was so free from espionage that he has talked not only with Arthur Griffith and other Republican and Nationalist leaders, but with men in the active element of the Sinn Fein movement on whom the Government is trying its utmost to lay its hands.

"It is too early as yet to make public what thus far has been accomplished," he said when asked the nature of the settlement he thought it was possible to reach. "Whether my efforts bear fruit is for London to determine, for it is there that peace must be made, and not in Ireland. My work has been merely to try to arrange the preliminaries, and I will know, perhaps in a week, whether it has been successful."

So far as can be ascertained, members of the British Labor Commission visiting Ireland are not directly concerned in the peace movement which Mgr. Clune is engineering. Arthur Henderson had a long talk with Cardinal Logue yesterday and is returning to England, leaving other members of the commission to pursue their investigations.

Archbishop of Thurles Appeals.

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 6.—Archbishop Harty, speaking in Thurles Cathedral yesterday, said: "We ought to pray for Irish peace, and peace with justice and honor."

"I am convinced," he continued, "that a continuance of violence would spell ruin for Ireland. In some ways the time seems favorable for peace. At last there is a rift in the dark clouds which have been over our country for some time. The Archbishop of Tuam has appealed for a truce of God, and Cardinal Logue (Primate of Ireland) has given his blessing to the appeal.

"The Archbishop of Dublin has stated that any effort which has for its object the cessation of all acts of violence and other provocative acts would receive the support of the Catholic hierarchy. Roger Sweetman, a member of the Dail Eireann, has spoken in favor of peace. The Galway County Council and the Urban Council have passed resolutions in favor of a truce, and in favor also of a conference between representatives of the Dail Eireann and the British Government to arrange a truce and the preliminaries of peace.

"Outside of this country there are forces favoring a just peace. We have the noble letter of Cardinal Mercier and the Belgian Bishops, for which Ireland must ever be grateful. We see also sympathy for Ireland displayed in the Italian Parliament.

"These and other things give some rays of hope. Let us invoke the aid of the Immaculate Mother of God. She will not desert us now, when we ask her to obtain for us a just and lasting peace."

Arrest Six in Dublin Council.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Dec. 6.—Six members of the Dublin Corporation (City Council), including Alderman Michael Staines, M. P., were arrested today by auxiliary police who raided the City Hall while a meeting was in progress. A heated debate was taking place in connection with the legality and regularity of the minutes and the position of the Town Clerk, when fully armed auxiliarymen made a sudden appearance behind the Lord Mayor's chair. Two, carrying revolvers, stood in front of the Lord Mayor and one beckoned to him and said: "I would like to speak to you for a moment."

The Lord Mayor descended from the dais and engaged in a brief discussion with the officers. Others of the auxiliary division meanwhile entered the chamber and took up various positions. The roll of the Council was demanded and on its production the name of Alderman Staines was called twice. There was a dead silence, and finally the officer in charge of the party said: "Surely there is somebody here who can identify the members," adding, "we shall probably have to take the lot." Two officers then crossed to a back bench where the Alderman was seated and asked him, "Are you Staines?" He replied in the affirmative and was immediately handed over to the escort.

Further names were called, but the members proved to be absent. Ultimately the following six were taken into custody: Alderman Michael Staines, M. P.; Alderman Thomas Lawless, James Brennan, Joseph Clark, J. V. Lawless and Michael Lynch.

By ironical circumstances a resolution was to have been moved calling for a month's truce of outrages and reprisals and appointment of a committee to inquire into the whole question of reconciliation.

Altogether over 600 arrests have now been made in Dublin and a second party has been taken by destroyers to the internment camp prepared at Ballykinlar, County Down.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 6.—Sensational Sinn Fein documents, alleged to deal with purchases of arms and munitions on a great scale, are reported to have been discovered during a raid in Seaforth. In the course of the raid two young and stylishly attired Irish girls were arrested.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Soldiers conducting a raid in Queenstown have arrested Hugh O'Reilly, the Town Clerk, it being alleged that seditious documents were found in his possession, says a dispatch to The Daily Mail. The residence of Bishop Fogarty of Killaloe, at Ennis, also was raided on Sunday during the absence of the Bishop, and some papers were confiscated.

The newspaper's labor correspondent states that during the interview between Arthur Henderson, labor leader in the House of Commons, and Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, last week, the Cardinal said he was extremely anxious to assist in ending the reign of terror, and that the Catholic hierarchy would exert every effort to bring about a permanent settlement of the Irish problem.

Hints Argentina Will Leave League.

Señor Pueyrredon intimated that the withdrawal of Argentina from the assembly might be followed shortly by a formal announcement of that country's intention to retire from the League itself.

Hjalmas Branting of Sweden asked that Mr. Doherty's amendment eliminating Article X. from the covenant of the League and that presented by the Argentina delegation regarding the admission of all States be sent to committee without debate for study.

During the discussion Mr. Doherty said that while the Canadian delegation felt that its amendment was one that might well be discussed now, as the opinion seemed to be that all amendments should be dealt with in the same manner, the Canadian delegation would not insist upon immediate consideration of its proposition.

The sub-committee for the admission of new States decided today to recommend that Armenia and the States carved out of Russia be not admitted to the League, but that they be permitted to co-operate on the technical organizations of the League.

Canada Yields After Debate.

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—The amendment proposed by C. J. Doherty, the Canadian Minister of Justice, which would erase Article X. from the League covenant, was side-tracked today until the next session of the League Assembly, but this did not prevent the Canadian leader from conducting a bitter protest against domination of the League's affairs by the League Council—a protest in which he was opposed by M. Viviani of France.

"I understand it is the unanimous view of the bureau that all amendments shall be referred to the commission," said Mr. Doherty. "Under these circumstances our only course is to submit, otherwise we should have shown you the importance of striking out Article X. and the result such action would have had on the other side of the Atlantic.

"We cannot carry our proposals without the co-operation of the Council and Assembly. We yield to the inevitable."

It was not until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, long after the customary luncheon hour, when the big powers delegates were getting hungry and peevish, that Canada made her stand.

Mr. Doherty insisted that the Council should not usurp all the rights of the Assembly and represent the League entirely on all business coming up during the eleven months of each year, when the Assembly was not in session.

M. Viviani charged Mr. Doherty time after time, but the Canadian held his ground until President Paul Hymans settled the matter in a highly original way.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we don't understand exactly what points you are quibbling over, but let us accept the commission's report as it is. Then Mr. Doherty and you, Mr. Viviani, can get together afterward and try to come to some agreement."

The hungry representatives jumped to their feet and started a rush toward the cloakroom, thus ending the session.

ARGENTINE OPINION DIVIDED.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—The newspapers of Buenos Aires are divided in their comment on the withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the Assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva, some of them complaining that the Government had not taken the people into its confidence as to its position before the departure of the delegation for Geneva. Others assert that Argentina has put itself in the company of the nations defeated in the war, and in the position of being an advocate for Germany.

La Nacion says the position of the Argentine delegation is impossible. "The delegation was sent with a mysterious mission whose object was to dazzle the world," the newspaper asserts, "declaring itself thereby the champion of the German disaster. It only succeeded, as was logical, in making us participants in this disaster. Thus, like the defeated countries, we remain outside the League.

"But while for them this situation is a tragic result, while for the United States it is a complication of the Treaty of Versailles which it is able to accept or not as a conquering power, while for Russia it is a question of principles diametrically opposed, for us it constitutes flight. It is worse than collapse, it is ridiculous.

"The country remains in an attitude dangerously uncomfortable, responsibility for which the Government cannot share with the people because it is the result of secret diplomacy. The time has come to ask in the name of patriotism if the Government is going to prefer its own interests to that of the nation, to its good name before the world."

La Razon withholds judgment until the Government more clearly discloses the attitude it has assumed. The newspaper says that the League of Nations cannot be a partial league, wherein lies its defect, and in order to make progress it must be corrected.

La Prensa also withholds judgment until the Government defines its attitude, but severely criticizes the manner in which the Government proceeded in adhering to the League and in withdrawing its delegation. The newspaper declares the Government had not comprehended the League pact and sent the Argentine delegation with the erroneous idea that it could be present as a spectator and that Argentina could appear there, not as a member of the League, but merely to help establish it.

La Prensa also criticizes the Government for not having submitted its adherence to the League to Congress for its approval.

The Patria degli Italiani, the organ of the Italian colony in Argentina, warmly praises what it terms the ideality of Argentina's attitude. The newspaper says Señor Pueyrredon did logically what he had to do after the Assembly declined to consider Argentina's amendments. But it compares Senor Pueyrredon's efforts to those of Don Quixote and refers to Paraguay as his Sancho Panza.

La Argentina, supporting the Government, asks by what right the nations signatory to the treaty expect all other nations to follow them "with closed mouths" in decisions which they have made unquestionably for their own benefit.

Chilean Comment on Withdrawal.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 6. — La Nacion, commenting on the retirement of the Argentine delegation from the League Assembly, thinks the incident offers two main aspects.

"First," says the paper, "this action may signify rupture of Latin-American solidarity. Secondly, it may seriously affect the existence of the League, weakened by the obstinate abstention of the United States. Regarding the first, perhaps Senor Pueyrredon acted after exchanging ideas with other delegations from this Continent."

La Nacion asserts that Argentina's withdrawal will appear as a perturbing element in the concert of world powers, and adds:

"Whatever importance may be attributed to the idea of equality of nations, it is impossible to ignore the inequality of interests, influences, wealth and populations. It would be an error to adopt merely a legal stand as an obstacle to a state of things in which the foremost nations of the world see embodied peace and tranquility for all.

"It would be another matter if Argentina's action responds to the tendency of the American policy, signifying consideration of the League as a purely European entity. Such an evolution would merit the most careful attention of our Government."

The Diario Ilustrado thinks that Chile should remain in the League so long as other nations remain and so long as there is hope that the League may be of benefit to the world.

"We remain not as a great nation, but as an independent nation," says the paper. "Let us conform to the logic of events and show that when we take the road we follow until it is impassable."

McCORMICK "NOT SURPRISED."

Senator, Now in Paris, Refuses Further Comment on Argentina.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—When United States Senator Medill McCormick received word of the withdrawal of the Argentine delegation from the Assembly of the League of Nations yesterday, he said to a representative of The Excelsior:

"That interests me very much, but it does not surprise me at all."

The newspaper's representative read Senator McCormick a cablegram quoting Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as saying: "Some of the nations represented in the League are beginning to find out objections to it which we discovered nearly two years ago," and Senator McCormick answered:

"I will not add a word to what I said in Washington on the subject of the League."

Senator McCormick, in his rapid survey of Europe, will remain in Paris until Friday, going then to Geneva, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade and Warsaw and later to other capitals not yet definitely determined.

Senator McCormick spent today meeting French public men. He has a full program ahead of him, including a conference with Premier Leygues and dinners with the Marquis de Chambrun and the Marquis de La Ferronnaye, member of the Chamber of Deputies and political representative of the French Government for some time at the headquarters of General Pershing. At these dinners arrangements will be made for Senator McCormick to meet numerous French statesmen.

FINNS CLING TO ALANDS.

Press Says Islands Must Not Be Traded for Admission to League.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 6.—A special to the Berlingske Tidende from Helsingfors says the whole press comments on the discussion of Finnish questions at the conference of the League of Nations and maintain that Finland cannot cede the Aland Islands in return for admittance to the League.

In reference to the military question, the press declares that so long as an aggressive soviet rule exists in Russia it is Finland's duty to maintain a strong defense in order to protect western interests, but as soon as the situation clears in Russia and friendly relations are re-established Finland will be agreeable to a reduction of military forces.

GERMANS PRAISE ARGENTINA.

Press Assails Allied Leaders and Predicts More Withdrawals.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The Conservative Tageszeitung, discussing the action of the Argentine delegation at Geneva, says:

"The League now stands revealed in all its nakedness. Millerand, Leygues, Lloyd George, Curzon and the rest can with wry faces proclaim themselves an unholly alliance for the prevention of the real reconstruction of the world."

The Deutsche Zeitung prophesies that other nations will soon follow "the example set by this honorable and independent challenge to the tyranny of Great Britain."

Vorwärts, the Socialist organ, representing the largest party in Germany, expresses the belief that this action presages the dissolution of the League of Nations in its present form and the formation of "a new and more democratic league, embracing all the civilized nations of the world."

The newspaper characterizes Argentina's decision to withdrawn as "a noble exploit," which it says probably was made possible only by the South American republic's remaining aloof from "the general corruption of the war."

In conclusion, expressing the hope that other nations will realize the significance of Argentina's action, Vorwärts says: "The Versailles League of Nations is dead. Long live the true League."

100 NORWEGIANS TO VILNA.

League Is Notified of Willingness to Send Troops.

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—Dr. George Hagerup of the Norwegian delegation announced today that Norway was prepared to send one company of 100 men as the country's contribution to the League army destined for Vilna.

The sending of the contingent depends upon a sufficient number of volunteers coming forward for the purpose, Dr. Hagerup's notification to the League points out.

SPAIN OFFERS AID IN ARMENIA.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Señor Don Juan Riano y Gayangos, the Spanish Ambassador to the United States, called at the State Department this afternoon to inform Acting Secretary of State Davis that he had received instructions from his Government to express to the United States Government the willingness of Spain to co-operate in the mediatory efforts of President Wilson to compose the Turkish-Armenian situation in any way that she might help.

President Wilson has not determined definitely the means he will employ in his efforts to deal with the situation through personal mediation by a representative. He has indicated his willingness to use his good offices in the Armenian situation "upon assurances of the moral and diplomatic support of the principal powers," and relying upon the Council of the League of Nations "to suggest to me the avenues through which my proffer should be conveyed and the parties to whom it should be addressed." He is waiting for further advices regarding the situation in Armenia and as to the assistance he will receive from the principal allied powers. It was stated that he had not yet selected his personal representative to act in the negotiations with the Turkish Nationalists and the Armenians.

The President's request for assurances of the "moral and diplomatic support" of the powers is regarded as one of the important bases of the President's acceptance of the invitation from the League Council to undertake this mediation, because it is considered altogether probable that Mustapha Kemal Pasha will balk at the projected mediation unless he feels that it will result in some revision of the Treaty of Sevres in favor of the claims of the Turkish Nationalists.

ness to negotiate with the operators. They are anxious to have Governor Cornwell of this State and Governor Morrow of Kentucky intervene with a view of bringing about a conference between the contending operators and miners.

In the absence of a conference or arbitration it seems likely that the strike will continue undefinitely.

1,700 Living in Tents.

The situation may be changed by future conditions in the tent colonies established to house striking miners and their families.

Although, generally speaking, the health of the tent dwellers so far has been good, the coming of Winter may bring about a change which may compel the authorities to intervene. The strike leaders are spending much money and are doing everything in their power to ameliorate conditions for the strikers sheltered in these colonies, but there is a general absence of sanitation and of school facilities for the large number of children among the tent dwellers. One of the reasons why the leaders of the strike are so anxious to bring about a conference and a settlement of the strike is the grave concern they feel for the women and children who form such a large proportion of the tent colonists.

There are nine of these colonies at Lick Creek, Len, Thacker, Rose Siding, Nolan, Naugatuck, Blockton, Red Jacket and Sprigg. The tent cities cluster on the bottoms in the narrow valley, through which the Tug River follows its winding, whimsical course between West Virginia and Kentucky, with the mountains, now bereft of the verdure and charm that Summer lends to them, frowning on either side. All the strike colonists do not live in the tent cities. All the way from Kermit to War Eagle, a stretch of forty miles or so along the Tug, the mountainsides are studded with solitary tents or tents in groups of two or three.

David Fowler, on whose shoulders rests the care of the strikers, said today there were some five hundred tents and 1,700 tent dwellers.

The next to the largest of the tent colonies is the one at Lick Creek. In reality there are two colonies at this spot, which, according to the union officials, house some thirty-five families between them. The main colony is directly on the shore of the Tug River and is composed of some forty tents. There is what might be termed a "suburb" a short distance away, shut off from view by a spur of the mountains.

Visit to a Tent Colony.

The road to Lick Creek is difficult to negotiate even in good weather and with a high-powered automobile. After a heavy rain, judging from what THE TIMES correspondent saw on a visit to the colony, it must be impassable. For stretches the black mire on the bottoms was five or six inches deep. The road climbs the mountain in a series of turns so abrupt that, coming and going, a visitor figuratively can almost shake hands with himself.

To reach the camp the correspondent was compelled to climb down the steep mountainside. The tents are arranged in rows with streets between. Over the colony was flying a tattered American flag, all the worse for months of exposure to all sorts of weather. Many of the tents had been vacated. Others, toppled over by storms, had not been rehabilitated and made habitable again. Débris strewed the streets in many places. A few men colonists were at work putting flooring in tents. Few women were in sight, but children, white and black, were playing in the sunshine after days of imprisonment in the tents during the rainy, stormy weather that has prevailed here of late.

Some of the children were anaemic and underfed and the women showed traces of the life they had been compelled to endure, some for many months. The men generally seemed healthy and in good spirits, but the women appeared to have lapsed into a state of hopelessness, and even among the children it was difficult to arouse enthusiasm even by an announcement that the visitor had brought candy, enough to go around among them all.

The correspondent visited a number of the tents and talked with many of the tent dwellers. Most of those in the Lick Creek colony had come from mines in Kentucky involved in the strike. One of the first tents visited was occupied by Reuben Salier, who came from Leckie Colliery. This tent had a board flooring and an open fireplace. Most of the tents have open fireplaces, which give a little bit of cheer as well as some warmth. They have been built in every instance by the colonists themselves out of rough boulders and mortar. There was a table, a few rickety chairs, a sewing machine and four beds in the tent. There were five children.

No Milk for the Baby.

"We have been here since June," said Mrs. Salier. "We have had enough to eat and the union has done for us all that could be expected, but of course this life has been hard on us, especially on the children. You can see for yourself how we are fixed."

Mrs. Salier was clearly out of her element in her surroundings. Her dress showed an attempt at neatness under difficult circumstances that was lacking among some of the other women. The clothing of the children was patched and their shoes showed signs of having been worn beyond their allotted time. On the $12 a week that this family receives from the union they have been able to get meat about twice a week. The rest of the time they live on bread and vegetables.

"If I only had some milk for the baby," said Mrs. Salier, pointing to a crib in a corner where a tiny baby with a wan face was sleeping. "The little girl has been sick ever since we got here. We cannot get the proper food for her and camp life is too hard on her. But what are we to do?"

"Sure, it is tough to live here," said the husband, who appeared in the doorway of the tent and had overheard. "But I would rather live here than submit to the conditions the operators demand as a condition for giving us our jobs back."

One complaint was the lack of clothing and shoes. The announcement by Mr. Fowler that a carload of clothing had arrived from Cincinnati and was to be distributed by the clothing committee seemed to create a great deal of satisfaction, though in some quarters it was received with looks of incredulity. They have been waiting for apparel fit to wear so long that most of them have lost hope. The little children seemed incapable of enthusiasm. All of them are American children, for there are no foreigners in the camp and few in any of the others.

"The foreigners lit out when the shooting began," explained Martin Justice, a mountaineer, who is Mayor of the Lick Creek tent city, with contempt in his voice. "We are all Americans and good enough Americans to hold out for our rights, even though it is tough to live this way."

The announcement that the candy would be distributed to the children in the "public square" brought them in a flock to one end of the camp where Fowler, with some assistance, dispensed several pounds of candy to the little ones. They received their share gratefully. But though it was a rare delicacy, there were not the screams of delight that might have been expected. They were too subdued for that. One little fellow took advantage of the occasion to gravely inform Fowler that he wanted new overalls. Those he wore were worn to the bone.

"You will get your overalls, all right, my little fellow, and if you are good Santa Claus will call when Christmas comes," said the labor leader, who has children of his own at home in Scranton. There was no cheering for Santa. The children had forgotten how to cheer. Some of the women who stood about hugging tiny infants in their arms looked grave and sombre at this reference to holidays which, even under the very best conditions will be bleak and cheerless in this Lick Creek camp.

One little fellow when he received his gift of candy from Fowler looked into his face and said:

"My little brother says that he is too sick to come."

Whereupon a procession was formed, led by Fowler, to a tent some distance away, where a pale little fellow with big blue eyes held out tiny hands for an expected piece of candy or two and got enough to make him feel like a millionaire. Most of the children had dirty faces and were running around in clothing that was oiled and patched. One boy was barefooted on this chill December day, but some were exceptionally clean, and it was apparent that their mothers, amid the squalor of camp life, had made heroic efforts to keep their clothing clean and in good repair.

None of the children so far have had any school days since they went into camp. On the mountainside nearby there is a schoolhouse, but no classes. A teacher was to have come today, according to the colony gossip, but he did not appear. A majority of the children were of school age and some of them complained, as did their mothers, over the fact that they could not go to school.

Governor Cornwell Issues Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 6.—The assertion that there is virtual warfare within the ranks of the United Mine Workers, as shown by statements coming from international officers at Indianapolis and those in charge of the strike in Mingo County, was made in a statement issued today by Governor John J. Cornwell. In his statement the Governor said:

"The statement in today's newspapers alleged to have emanated from the International Executive Board, United Mine Workers, Indianapolis, is lying propaganda. The assertion that there is a 'private army of gunmen' employed in Mingo County, the strike region, is without the semblance of truth, as every newspaperman who has been in the field knows, and as I believe the local union officials will admit.

"Since the tragedy at Matewan early in May, when a number of the employes of the Felts Detective Agency were killed, no employes of that or any other concern, so far as I know or have been able to find out, have been in the strike region except to pass through on a train or to appear at court in Williamson in answer to summons. If any are in the field they are not guards, but secret operatives. Nor have any other armed guards been employed by the operators so far as I can learn. These things they agreed not to do following the Matewan tragedy. I promised to protect life and property in that region to the best of my ability, and they promised to employ no private guards. In addition to this the Sheriff of Mingo County and his force of deputies have been friendly to and sympathetic with the union and its organizers. The local union officials will verify that statement.

"While the officials at Indianapolis are giving out their lying statements for the purpose of poisoning the public mind, and John L. Lewis is calling on me to resign my office and denouncing me for bringing Federal troops into the county, the officials in charge of the strike in Mingo are giving out statements expressing satisfaction with the treatment they are receiving at the hands of the troops, and proposing me as an arbitrator of their troubles. Evidently the Indianapolis people are not in close touch with the situation.

"I have tried to make it plain to both sides and to the general public that I have no part or parcel in the fight of the United Mine Workers to organize the Mingo field, and could have none if I wanted it. I am interested only in preventing civil war down there, and in bringing to an end the murders and the sniping that has been going on; in stopping the dynamiting of property and the lawlessness that has prevailed.

"It was for that purpose I brought Federal troops back into the county, and asked that it be put, not under martial law, but under temporary military control. The troops are helping to collect guns and otherwise cleaning up the situation. As soon as they complete this work they will be withdrawn. Steps in the meantime are being taken to increase the State police force. A new Sheriff will come into office on Jan. 1, and I feel confident that the county and State will then be able to prevent further serious trouble, no matter how long the strike continues."

But Not An Extravagance

Once in a while—and only once in a while—there grows a crop of Havana Tobacco of exceptional fineness. This year's Imported Cigars are made from such a crop—they are the rare kind that improve with age.

Yet their prices represent an increase of only about 40% in ten years, while other commodities — most domestic cigars among them—have gone up 100%.

Stock up on them — present prices will not come down for a long time.

UNTERMYER CALLS CITY INQUIRY 'FARCE'

URGES BRINGING OF SUITS

Says Contractors Should Be Made to Pay for Removing Ashes From Court House Site.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood committee, in a letter yesterday to Joseph Haag, secretary to the Board of Estimate, suggested that the city, instead of continuing its "dreary farce" of asking contractors to say whether they were parties to matched bids, take up all the contracts which have already been shown to be collusive. In this connection he mentioned contracts affecting several schools.

Mr. Untermyer's letter follows:

Dec. 6, 1920.

Hon. Joseph Haag, Secretary Board of Estimate and Apportionment, Muncipal Building, New York City:

Dear Sir—My letter to you under date of Nov. 24 contains the following:

As illustrating how your proposed investigation may work in practical operation I suggest that you consider the case of the dumping by Holland & Co. into the Courthouse excavation of the ashes that they were paid by the city to dispose of. It will probably cost the city in the neighborhood of $400,000 to remove them. That your board considers it necessary to remove these ashes at this great expense to the city is evidenced by the fact that although you have canceled all other Courthouse contracts you have permitted this contract to continue.

Do you gentlemen regard yourselves as so constituted that with the best intentions it will be possible for you to conduct an impartial inquiry and to report fairly on that extraordinary performance, which I assume had your sanction? Was it not your duty when you voted the money for the removal of these ashes to have made inquiry to ascertain how they came to be there? In my opinion independent counsel should be at once employed to begin suit against the members of the firm of Holland & Co., including Mr. Whalen, for the recovery of the money that the city is expending in removing the ashes, and there is no doubt in my mind of a recovery. It will then also develop under what authority and influences this act of vandalism was perpetrated.

I desire now to know whether this suggestion was formally put before the board, and, if so, what, if any, action was taken upon it. The board may rest assured that this demand will not be allowed to go unanswered.

Mr. Whalen and his firm, and any other contractor who dumped ashes into the Court House site, will have to repay the city the cost of their removal, which the city is now paying at the exorbitant price of $5.70 per load under a contract that should have been canceled when the other contracts regarding the Court House site were annulled.

Permit me to suggest that the prosecution of these suits be placed in the hands of your special counsel, Meier Steinbrink, who can be relied upon to see to it that the suits will not be allowed to die and that the city's rights will be safeguarded. Every $400,000 saved to the city in this way counts for something.

While we are upon this general subject, you may recall that a month or more ago, at the request of the Corporation Counsel, the Hettrick papers were placed at his disposal, and he had some one examining and taking notes from them. Presumably the contents of these papers were investigated, but if so I fear that the work was very superficially done. Our committee has now had the subject gone over, and we find important evidence, apparently overlooked by Mr. O'Brien's representative, relating to Heating contract affecting Public School 100.

Also with respect to sandstone for Ward's Island, New York, all bearing the most conclusive evidence of matched and collusive bidding.

The heating contract with respect to Public School 100, amounting to nearly $100,000, is particularly flagrant.

May I suggest that instead of the board spending a day or more of every week, to say nothing of the considerable amount of the taxpayers' money involved, in going through this dreary farce of asking contractors the futile question of whether they were parties to combinations or matched or collusive bids, to which they would of course answer "No," the board might devote itself to taking up the mass of bids that have ripened into contracts and that are already shown to be collusive.

Reverting again to the primary purpose of this letter, will you kindly secure for me a definite reply from the board as to what it proposes to do with respect to the ash removal claim and how soon and through whom it proposes to do it? Very truly yours,

SAMUEL UNTERMYER.

The Lockwood committee wil lmeet at 10:30 today in the City Hall.

BRINDELL TWICE ARRAIGNED.

Two Others Held With Labor Leader on New Indictments.

Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, was arraigned twice in ten minutes yesterday before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions. The first time was on a new indictment charging extortion, and the second was on a superseding indictment.

On the new indictment William H. Chapman of 101 West Seventy-fourth Street, walking delegate of the Plumbers' Union, was charged with extortion. He appeared at the same time as Brindell. A third defendant not yet arrested was named in the indictment.

On the superseding indictment Brindell was arraigned with Peter Stadtmuller, one of his chief lieutenants. Bail for Brindell was continued at $100,000, and for Stadtmuller at $50,000. In the case of Chapman, $50,000 was fixed. Chapman was represented by Henry Ginnane of the law firm of Fallon & McGee.

MILLER TO DECIDE ON CITY INVESTIGATION

Committee is displaced by an entirely new committee, this member said, it is the intention of Mr. Untermyer's opponents to have him sidetracked altogether.

Following the Robinson-Steinberg suggestion for a new committee, Alderman Bruce M. Falconer, Republican, who comes from the same district, yesterday prepared a resolution for submission to the board next week, calling upon the incoming Legislature to appoint a special joint committee to investigate conditions in the city, "including the various municipal departments and the various departments of the county governments."

Attacks Administration.

The preamble of the resolution recites that charges and counter-charges of graft and corruption have been made by various members of the Hylan administration and District Attorney Swann's office; that officials of the Police Department under Commissioner Enright, aids of the District Attorney, and David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, have been indicted and that investigations by the Lockwood committee show evidence of collusion between favored contractors and members of Mayor Hylan's official cabinet and prominent politicians in and out of office. These conditions, it is stated, show the need of an investigation by the Legislature.

Referring to his resolution, which went over until next Tuesday, Alderman Falconer said that the time was ripe for a great municipal housecleaning. The people, he said, were disgusted and discouraged with the Hylan administration and seriously disturbed over the question of the city's present and future finances. The Alderman accused the Hylan administration, among other things, of "ineomptetence, waste, extravagance, disorder, vanity, self-edulation, self-complacency, hypocrisy, self-advertising, self-seeking, ignorance, helplessness, pettiness, spite, prejudice, shiftiness, evasiveness, lack of foresight, mutual distrust, recrimination, quarreling and bickering."

"By all means let us have a legislative investigation of this administration and its departments, of the city contracts in connection with collusive bidding, and the relations between politicians who have become secretly rich and corrupt contractors and others.

INQUIRY INTO BLAST OF 50 10-INCH SHELLS

Army Board Named to Investigate Fire and Explosion on Lighter Off Fort Hamilton.

WOMAN'S INJURIES SERIOUS

Ten-Pound Piece of Shell Plunged Into House Where Dinner Party Was Assembled.

An investigation into the origin of the fire which set off fifty ten-inch shells Sunday at Fort Hamilton, spreading terror through that section of Brooklyn and destroying the fort's ammunition pier and the army steam lighter Amackassin, was begun yesterday by a Board of Inquiry appointed by Colonel Alfred A. Hunter, commandant of the fort. The board is composed of Majors H. W. Stovall and E. J. Cullen and Captain R. I. Imperatori.

As a first step they questioned Captain Fred Heppe and the fifteen members of the lighter's crew. The officers declined to say what their investigation had disclosed, but it was reported that it had been indicated that the fire started from electric current in the engine room.

Mrs. Mary Grassman, 28 years old, of 9,481 Ridge Boulevard, one of the victims of the shell fragments, was reported last night to be in a serious condition in the Bay Ridge Sanitarium. Her right arm and shoulder were fractured. William Schmitt of 315 Eighty-third Street, another victim, was in the Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital, 94 Livingston Street, where it was said that he had probably lost the sight of one eye. Schmitt, with his father, mother, sister and a friend, was in an automobile hit bya shell.

A ten-pound piece of shell casing ploughed through the roof of the home of Dr. E. H. G. Hunter, Shore Road and Ninety-sixth Street, about a half mile from the fort, and tore its way through to the cellar. The physician was entertaining a party at dinner on the first floor and asleep in a crib in a room on the second floor was a baby. The ten-pound missile passed within three yards of the baby's crib.

KILLED ON EVE OF SAILING.

Brooklyn Italian Shoots Clevelander Six Times in Ending Old Feud.

A few hours before he was to have sailed for his old home in Italy, Gaetano Lanzone of Cleveland, Ohio, was shot dead last night in front of 97 Union Street, Brooklyn, by Vincenzo Bulone, 119 Union Street, an old enemy, who lay in wait for him. Lanzone and Bulone quarreled in Sandusky, Ohio, four years ago, and Lanzone shot Bulone. On the same evening a brother of Bulone was shot and killed by a business partner of Lanzone.

After he recovered from his wounds Bulone came, with his mother, to Brooklyn to live, while Lanzone and his partner moved quietly to Cleveland. Lanzone decided recently to visit his old home and came to New York, with two friends, to embark. Yesterday, while walking in the Brooklyn Italian quarter, Lanzone met Bulone and threatened to kill him if he told the police of the shooting of four years ago. Lanzone and his two companions then went to Flatbush to spend the night.

Bulone, meanwhile, got a revolver and took up his watch in Union Street at a point near which he thought Lanzone would pass. When Lanzone came in sight, Bulone fired three times, and when his victim fell fired two more shots into the body. Policeman Harry Peterson of the Hamilton Avenue Police Station heard the shots and ran to the scene. He grappled with Bulone, who freed himself and fired another shot into Lanzone's body before he was subdued.

Feeling among the Italian residents of the neighborhood, where Bulone was well known, ran high and police reserves were called to prevent their rescuing the prisoner, who is charged with homicide.

CREDIT BANKS IN PALESTINE.

Samuel Is Negotiating With Financiers for Their Establishment.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (Jewish Telegraph Agency)—Sir Herbert Samuel, High Commissioner for Palestine, has informed the Palestine Advisory Council that he is negotiating with English, American and Egyptian financiers for the establishment of credit banks throughout Palestine, says a dispatch from Jerusalem. Sir Herbert added that he hoped to see these banks operating in the near future.

The Advisory Council is considering the admission of women as solicitors in the Palestine courts. Norman Bentwich, head of the Palestine Judicial Department, and Sir Herbert are said to favor their admission.

The Anglo-Jewish Association at its annual meeting today adopted a resolution thanking the members of the Peace Conference in Paris for securing minority rights for the Jews in Eastern Europe. The association also declared its gratitude to the British Government for accepting the mandate for Palestine and for including the Balfour declaration of Palestine as the Jewish homeland in the Turkish Peace Treaty.

The Burner of Delicious Perfume

WE look to France for the whims of fashion—the turn of a ribbon, the length of a sleeve. And now we have found the inimitable way the French have of perfuming their limousines or boudoirs.

The burner of perfume is a slender object of soft silver plated or gold plated finish, finely made to harmonize with the luxurious furnishings of your boudoir or limousine. In the limousine, it hangs between the windows—where the vase for flowers sometimes hangs. Fill the little tube with your favorite perfume—hold a lighted match to the wick a moment—and from the open top comes the softest fragrance, subtle, scarcely noticeable, like the fragrance of Spring's first flowers.

This is a novel gift that is distinctly different.

SEEK AN ALUMNUS FOR NEW YALE HEAD

COMMITTEE MEETS DEC. 11

Will Discuss Long List, but Decision May Not Be Reached Before Next Spring.

Selection of a successor to Dr. Arthur Twining Hadley as President of Yale University will be discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Yale Corporation in New Haven next Saturday, but members of the corporation do not think it probable that the final decision will be made then.

Samuel H. Fisher, Chairman of the committee of five appointed to canvass for candidates, said yesterday that the reports of the committee members would not be made public even after the election of the new President. They will remain in Yale's archives until history is written.

Mr. Fisher would not discuss the statement of John V. Farwell of Chicago, another member of the committee, that the list of candidates had narrowed down to six.

Scores of candidates have been considered, and one of the first steps was to look over the lists of Yale graduates for prominent alumni in the educational field. It is the desire of the members of the corporation to fill the place with an alumnus if possible, but there is a flood of applications from graduates of other colleges.

Candidates most frequently mentioned for the Presidency are Horace Dutton Taft, brother of ex-President Taft and founder of the Taft School; Dr. Herbert E. Hawkes, Dean of Columbia College; the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in this city; the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Secretary of the Yale Corporation; Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, and Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation and ex-President of the University of Minnesota.

Another namet hat has been brought up in the last few days is that of Dr. Fred Towsley Murphy, a Yale graduate, who has been Professor of Surgery in Washington University at St. Louis since 1911. Henry P. Davison, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, also has been mentioned. All these candidates except Mr. Davison are Yale graduates.

STUDENT HURT IN RUSH.

Columbia Freshman May Have a Broken Back—His Class Wins.

Harold F. Bloomer, Columbia freshman, living at 250 East 240th Street, the Bronx, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital yesterday, suffering from a possible fracture of the fourth spinal vertebrae, received in the annual flag rush at South Field between the newcomers to Columbia and the sophomores. According to Dr. W. H. McCastline, the university physician, Bloomer will probably recover.

Dr. McCastline, who was summoned when Bloomer lay prostrate on the field, found him partially paralyzed and ordered him removed to the hospital at once. An X-ray photograph today will determine the extent of Bloomer's injuries.

Before the injured man was discovered, the freshmen managed to lift the flag, an achievement immediately celebrated in a snake dance down Broadway to 110th Street.

BARS WHOLESALERS' LIQUOR PERMITS

ASKS SALOON SITE FORFEIT

Enforcement Agents Make Large Seizures of Whisky in New York and Vicinity.

George W. Van Note, Federal Prohibition Director for New Jersey, announced yesterday that, so far as he was concerned, no wholesalers' liquor permits would be renewed after they expired on Dec. 31. There are 286 holders of such permits in New Jersey, granted mostly by Mr. Van Note's predecessors, but, he said, only a few had good records.

"The wholesalers have been fooling me long enough," said Mr. Van Note. "Instead of selling to druggists, they are selling to bootleggers. If they obtain permits the first of January they will have to get them over my head."

Samuel Wilson, Assistant State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, recently wrote to Director Van Note urging that no wholesalers' permits be renewed, holding that there was no warrant in the law for granting them. He contended that all liquor for non-beverage purposes should be handled through druggists, liquor for beverage purposes not being permitted at all.

Regulations of the Treasury Department provide that "in the event of the refusal by the Commissioner to grant or renew a permit or if any permit is revoked the applicant or permittee may have the action of the Commissioner reviewed by appropriate proceedings in a court of equity."

Asks Forfeiture of Saloon Site.

A libel for the seizure and forfeiture of a building used as a barroom and the land on which it is located in Orangeburg, Rockland County, N. Y., the property of Peter Stauffacher, on whose premises a still was found in operation, has been filed in the United States Court here by United States Attorney Francis G. Caffey.

The case had its beginning when, on Oct. 15, 1919, Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors George L. Miles and Fred W. Russell seized a stil in Stauffacher's building with all the saloon fittings. The revised statutes as amended, provide in the case of an unlawful distillery that the right, title and interest in the land on which the distillery is situated may be forfeited to the United States.

Stauffacher pleaded guilty and was fined $250. The libel suit is being handled by Assistant United States Attorney John E. Walker.

Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Prohibition Director for New York State, announced yesterday that, beginning today, the department would return to the old method of delivering permits to purchase direct to the vendors, because of many complaints of the new system which had been in operation for two or three weeks.

Prohibition enforcement agents of the staff of Knox B. Phagan, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, seized 250 cases of Kentucky whisky, valued at $20,000, yesterday afternoon at Pier 26, East River, because of irregularity in the papers covering the shipment. No arrests were made pending further investigation.

Seize Three Truckloads of Liquor.

Three truckloads of alcohol, whisky, sherry, gin and coloring matter were seized at a bottling plant at 31 Lewis Street, Newark, N. J., by Prohibition Agents Cosgrove, Armstrong and McGrath. The agents said they found in an adjoining yard thousands of labels marked "Dry Gordon Gin" and "Old Overholt Whisky," with thousands of counterfeit revenue stamps.

Louis Rich of 136 Prince Street was captured after a long chase. Several shots were fired by the agents when several men jumped out of a window as the officers broke in the door with a sledge hammer. The agents said one of the men was shot in the shoulder and another in the hand. Rich will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Mooney today.

Forty-two men who pleaded guilty to selling liquor in violation of the New Jersey Crimes act were fined $1,000 each by Judge Peter F. Daly in Middlesex County Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday. Thirteen defendants, who pleaded not guilty, will be tried this week. Six who had pleaded not guilty changed the plea to guilty.

A mishap to an automobile driven by A. M. Orlando of Boston and occupied by two other men at Bedford, N. Y., early yesterday, resulted in the arrest of the three men for violation of the prohibition law. The automobile had been ditched. Orlando asked a passerby to send some one to give them a hand. Policeman Thomas Wade responded. The officer scented "hootch" and found seventy-two gallons of alcohol in the car. The other two men said they were Jeremiah Aanacone of Sommerville, Mass., and S. A. Verone of Boston.

WOMAN ACCUSES OIL MAN.

C. J. Little Held in $1,000 Bail on Grand Larceny Charge.

Charles J. Little, who lives at the New York Athletic Club, and is accused of grand larceny by Mrs. Dorothy Kinder of 4,517 Magnolia Avenue Chicago, the wife of Raymond Kinder, a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange, was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court yesterday for the Grand Jury. Mrs. Kinder alleges that Little, who is an oil man, operating in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, misappropriated $4,500 which he borrowed from her. Little pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. Kinder, who is a guest at the Hotel Belmont, testified that she gave Little $2,500 last June when he promised to invest the money so that he could pay back this loan as well as $2,000 which she had previously advanced to him. He told her, she said, that the bulk of the money was to go to an engineer in an oil enterprise put forward by the Midland Oil Company of Chicago, of which Little is a Director. The engineer testified that he had received only $1,000 of the money.

After advancing the $2,500 Mrs. Kinder testified she did not see Little again until Saturday. Learning that he was in Philadelphia, she arranged for him to come to New York for a conference. When she asked for her money, she told the court, Little said he was without funds, and she caused his arrest.

Mrs. Kinder testified that she had information that Little had earned $50,000 on investments last year.

White Shadows in the South Seas

By FREDERICK O'BRIEN

AN amazing record of the author's residence for a year among the beautiful, simple, friendly inhabitants of the Marquesas Islands in the far South Seas. It is a fact-story as fascinating as a fairy tale. It is humor, it is adventure, romance, tenderness, with an undercurrent of poignant pathos that sometimes touches the reader to tears.

Not to have read "White Shadows in the South Seas" is to have missed one of the most refreshing and most thrilling sensations of the past ten years. It is the most talked-of book of today.

"Never have I read a book in any language or translation that fascinated me more than Frederick O'Brien's 'White Shadows in the South Seas.'

"Aside from its value as a description of an Eden that is rapidly becoming a Paradise Lost, it is full of thrill, humor, humanity, wisdom and strange beauty."
—Rupert Hughes.

"In 'White Shadows in the South Seas' we have an utterly incomparable record of travel...Not even in 'Omoo' and 'Typee' does one open a richer vein of humor, a finer sensitiveness to beauty of island scenery and the strength and simplicity of primitive character than one finds in these adventures of the 'Master of the Golden Bed' and his valet, 'Exploding Eggs.'"—New York Times.

"If medals were struck off each year for the most fascinating book on each subject, 'White Shadows in the South Seas' would certainly be decorated as the most gorgeous book of travel."—Chicago Tribune.

"The author's friend, 'Exploding Eggs,'
The tales, the graceful sports and dances,
And lovely girls with tattooed legs,
—Arthur Guiterman in Life.

CLARENCE DAY IN THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE SAYS:

"It is my belief that one of the best books of travel that ever was written is Frederick O'Brien's 'White Shadows in the South Seas.' A book to read or dip into continually, when you want a companion. . . . A book any one would want as a present."

A beautiful book inside and out. Profusely illustrated. Price $5.00

Have you any tramps in your card system?

By tramps we mean ragged, homeless cards—the dog-eared Bolsheviki of any card system. They hate work!

The efficiency of your card system is dependent upon the kind of cards you use, just as your automobile engine is dependent upon the kind of oil or the quality of "gas."

Do not use cards of different weights, for the light cards will stick to the heavy cards. Do not buy cards of poor quality, for they will become ragged, and prevent speedy handling.

You cannot buy some of your cards here—some there, and be sure of uniform quality. Nor should you buy cards whose only recommendation is cheapness.

Buy good cards. Buy them from a reputable manufacturer. Library Bureau manufactures more than 2,400,000 cards a day—quality cards, made up in many forms for all classes of business. We know the right card for any kind of record you have in mind.

L. B. cards are carried in stock for many different uses:

THE LONE PINE

SLIPPING away at Christmas time into the Land We Love, we are given a few days and nights to devote to life's faithful friends. To express that friendship we search for gifts with special meaning—recalling boyhood's valiant partnerships—the esteem that has grown under the genial influence of sport—the rugged regard of one real friend for another.

Sentiment is simple, going direct from one heart to another; and the gift which bears it, costing little or much, must express a sympathetic understanding of the hobbies and tastes of the friend that receives it.

This it is, with the approach of Christmas, that makes the Abercrombie & Fitch store The Lone Pine among the nation's shops. It is the sportsman's landmark—the home of the gift of individuality.

Throughout the establishment, with its unlimited selections, each rich in sentiment and merry in intent, there is the genuine thrill of the old-time Holidays, with their jingling sleighbells, their afternoons of sport and evening games around the big log fire.

For young men and old men, women that love the outdoors and women that love those that do, boys and girls of all degrees—for every friend and his friend, there are appropriate gifts.

Declares Employers' Association Always Let Robert Brindell Have His Own Way.

Counsel in the case of George Backer, wealthy building contractor, on trial before Judge Otto Rosalsky and a jury in General Sessions on the charge of perjury, will sum up today. Edmund L. Mooney, counsel for Backer, will take about two hours, and Special Assistant District Attorney Emory Buckner will sum up briefly. The case may go to the jury late in the afternoon.

In opening his cross-examination of Backer yesterday, Mr. Buckner offered him an opportunity to make any statement to the jury he desired, saying he would "suspend the rules of evidence" for that purpose. Mr. Mooney objected and Mr. Buckner asked whether Backer desired to make any statement concerning "Thirty-third Street," the name used in building circles for the Building Trades Employers' Association.

"Only this," said Backer, "that Brindell and 'Thirty-third Street' were hand in hand. They let him have his own way. They settled things his way on ten minutes' notice. They were general contractors, and the more a job cost the more they got."

The witness said the story he told the Lockwood committee of having been friends with Robert P. Brindell for years was not "very true." This was in reply to questions concerning his relations with Brindell, especially as to the $25,000 Ephraim B. Levy swore he gave Backer to pay Brindell so that a strike might be terminated by the labor leader.

Backer denied that he told Levy the $25,000 the latter gave him was to go to Brindell for calling off a strike. He also denied reporting to Levy that Brindell would require $60,000, and, later, that he would "settle" for $25,000.

Asked why he told a story that he lost Levy's first payment of $15,000 at the racetrack, Backer said he thought it was an outrage that he should be summoned before the Lockwood committee without a chance to consult counsel, and he wanted to gain time.

Backer said that after Brindell became "boss," last January, everybody had to pay him tribute. As he was not called upon to do so, he declared, he felt himself favored. He claimed credit for the exposure of Brindell before the Lockwood Committee. He explained that he met Brindell several days after his testimony before the Lockwood Committee to find out if Brindell was "sore" at him or not, and "what he intended to do." All that Brindell said on hearing Backer's explanation was, "You told the truth," the witness added.

Backer admitted that in a talk with Samuel Jones on April 14, before his private talk with Brindell, Jones might have said that he thought Brindell would settle with Levy for money. Jones "talked money," he said, but he could not remember the amount.

John L. Hay, a manufacturer of cast iron, of Newark, appeared as a character witness for Backer.

After the jury filed out of the room Samuel Untermyer appeared before Judge Rosalsky and made an argument in connection with the perjury charge and the testimony of Backer before the Lockwood Committee.

HOLD BOY FOR $4,300 THEFT

Philadelphia Youth, 14, Awaits Extradition Here for Crime.

Elliott Michener, 14 years old, who disappeared from Philadelphia ten days ago with $4,300 which, he says, he had stolen from the office of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, was remanded to the custody of the Children's Society yesterday by Justice Hoyt in the Children's Court pending the preparation of extradition papers by the Philadelphia authorities.

When the boy, who was arrested Saturday night in the Pennsylvania Terminal was arraigned Carl Wir, a Philadelphia detective, asked that he be turned over to him. Justice Hoyt refused the request, saying that although the boy admitted the theft, it would be necessary for the detective to produce a warrant.

"What is the charge against me?" inquired the boy when he heard the Court's announcement.

"Oh, is that all?" commented the boy in an undertone.

ROBBED IN SHELTER HOME.

Woman Head of Second Offenders' Club Is Beaten by Burglar.

Mrs. Lillian McDonough who, with her husband, Captain Michael McDonough, of 1 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, conducts a shelter and home for second offenders, known as the "Up and In Club," was twice attacked yesterday and the second time beaten unconscious by a burglar. When the iceman called about 10:30 o'clock in the morning, Mrs. McDonough noticed a man standing in the street. A little later she started to the second floor of the building and met the man on the stairway carrying two fur coats and a grip. She asked him to explain his presence, and the intruder felled her with his fist and kicked her.

Mrs. McDonough ran up to the third floor and had barely time to summon her husband, an attaché of the Federal District Court, before she was again set upon by the burglar. Captain McDonough found his wife bound and gagged and $60 missing but the burglar overlooked $190. Mrs. McDonough was unconscious. She has been placed under the care of her physician. Mrs. McDonough said she did not recognize her assailant as any of the members of the club.

POLICE ARE CHARGED WITH OPPRESSION

Democratic Club Complains That Detectives Have Interfered With Members.

COURT HEARINGS TODAY

Two Police Inspectors will appear this afternoon in Magistrates' Courts to answer allegations of police oppression.

On complaint of M. Michael Edelstein, attorney of 111 Broadway, who appeared for the Independent Democratic Club, Houston and Norfolk Streets, Inspector William A. Coleman of the First Inspection District will be before Magistrate Francis X. McQuade in Essex Market Court. Mr. Edelstein charges that members of the club had been molested by detectives and other policemen. David Kedossky, secretary of the club, said that the police had been coming into the club rooms and arresting the members, evidently trying to stop the clubmen from playing cards, although the games had been merely social affairs.

Inspector William F. Boettler of the Third Inspection District has been summoned to appear before Magistrate Douras in the West Side Court.

Samuel J. Seigel, an attorney, alleges two dectives from Boettler's staff went to the apartment of Mrs. Bertha Garvin of 237 West 107th Street and took Mrs. Garvin and seventeen others to the West 100th Street Station on a charge of disorderly conduct for engaging in "a card game and using boisterous language to the annoyance of neighbors." All were discharged in court.

The attorney said that since then a patrolman had been stationed in the apartment day and night. Mr. Seigel asked the Inspector to withdraw the guard, but was told it would remain.

Assistant District Attorney Carlino, opposing a summons, declared the Inspector was well within his rights and asserted that several complaints had been received from other tenants.

GUY TRIES TO AID CASSIDY.

Favors New Trial for Slayer—Barry Threatens Executioner.

Supreme Court Justice Charles L. Guy filed an order in the office of District Attorney Martin of the Bronx yesterday to show cause why James P. Cassidy awaiting execution in Sing Sing, should not be granted a new trial. The application will be heard before Justice Tierney in the Bronx Supreme Court at 10 o'clock this morning, and if the decision is favorable to the prisoner his lawyers believed the three men who were sentenced with him will benefit.

Cassidy, with the others, was convicted by Judge Mitchell in January, 1919 of killing Otto Fiale, a ticket agent at the Intervale Avenue station of the subway. The four men are to be executed Thursday night.

In his order Justice Guy urged that Governor Smith grant a stay, adding that it was outside of his jurisdiction to do so himself inasmuch as no fraud had been committed upon the court.

James J. Barry of Schenectady, for whose aunt Cassidy worked when a boy and who himself knew Cassidy well several years ago, has undertaken to fight for a new trial, together with Thomas J. O'Brien of 258 Broadway, this city. They already have obtained seven reprieves from Governor Smith, and yesterday sent him a telegram in which they requested a further delay in the taking of Cassidy's life to permit the Supreme Court to decide the motion and to permit his appeal to the Court of Appeals to be heard if the motion is denied.

Mr. Barry said that if a stay is not granted and Cassidy is executed he will hold the State executioner, John Hulburt of Auburn, personally responsible for putting to death a man known to have committed a crime without realizing his deed.

NETS $7 PROFIT ON $2 FINE.

Peddler Passes Raised Bill in Court and Gets Good Change.

A peddler who was fined two dollars for violation of the corporation license provisions by Magistrate Francis X. McQuade in Essex Market Court yesterday paid the fine and made a profit of seven dollars on the deal. He tendered a counterfeit ten-dollar note in payment of the fine and the clerk accepted it, returning to him eight dollars.

There were thirty push-cart peddlers in the court on similar charges and they were fined two dollars each. Later, in getting the receipts ready for deposit in a bank, Isaac Rice, the chief clerk discovered that a one-dollar bill had been raised by the pasting of numerals "10" over the figure ones engraved on the bill. The police are looking for the peddler.

ARREST IN $466,000 HOLD-UP

On a lead obtained through a book found in the headquarters of the Canine Club in East Eleventh Street, detectives yesterday arrested Joseph Amoruso, 27 years old, a plasterer, of 225 East 107th Streett, on a charge of being one of three hold-up men who a week ago robbed two messengers, employed by Kean, Taylor & Co., bankers, of $466,000 worth of Liberty bonds in Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn.

Amoruso was questioned by District Attorney Lewis in Brooklyn. Later it was announced that Austin Young, one of the bank messengers, had identified Amoruso as the robber who fired a shot during the hold-up. The police said that Mrs. Sophie Dowisky of 68 Metropolitan Avenue, who had witnessed the hold-up, also had identified Amoruso as one of the robbers. Amoruso denied any connection with the robbery.

When Detectives Mayer and Brown were searching Amoruso's apartment, they said, Morris Belogowolsky of 216 Seventh Street walked in. He was taken in charge as a material witness.

Earlier in the day Magistrate Walsh in the Bridge Plaza Court released Joseph Di Gregario and Pietro Barbacco, proprietor of an East Eleventh Street barber shop. Assistant District Attorney Snyder said the police had not been able to connect them with the crime. Antonio Di Gregario, head messenger for Kean, Taylor & Co., was held without bail for further examination next Thursday. Mr. Snyder said the case would be submitted to the Grand Jury today.

WILL CONGRESS WORK OR DAWDLE?

What is right and what is wrong in Congress? Senator HARDING, in taking his farewell of the Senate yesterday, bespoke for the next Administration a helpful relationship with the opposition party, which he declares is "sometimes insistently wrong." The Democrats in the Senate and in the country were not "insistently wrong" about the meaning of the League Covenant. They were right; upon the incontestable authority of the League itself it has been proved that they were right. The Republicans were insistently and desperately wrong. Which party is right in respect to the country's need of an immediate revision of the revenue laws, a revision that will provide money for the Government in some way less destructive of enterprise, less harmful of industry and trade, less burdensome to the people than the present excess profits and individual income taxes? The Democratic President and the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, Democrats of prominence in Congress have dwelt with emphasis and insistence upon the need of immediate legislation as imperative. On the Republican side the talk is altogether of doing nothing during the short session, of postponing the subject of Federal revenue until Congress is called to meet after the 4th of March. Who is right, who wrong?

We rejoice to see that Mr. HARDING aligns himself upon the side of right, for we cannot see how the words he used yesterday can be construed in any other way than as a reference to tax revision. He would have the House and the Senate join in making the next three months "fruitful rather than wasted months." He continued: "There is so much to be "done and we have already had so "much of delay that I should like "unanimous recognition that there "are no party ends to serve, but "precious days are calling for service "to our common country." By no stretch of imagination can it be supposed that the Senator was referring to the League of Nations; even though there has been "so much of delay" in respect to that most important of all subjects, he would not have referred to it in those words. Unquestionably, the next most important subject is that of the revenue laws. We hope we are right in this opinion, we hope that Mr. HARDING will use his now necessarily very great influence with the members of his party in Congress to get them to buckle down to the work of freeing the people of the country from the oppressive exactions, from the injustice, from the dangerously harmful effects of the income tax laws. The Federal Government will need a great income; it is not easy to see how it can get along with less than $4,000,000,000 annually for the next two or three years; but public opinion in the country is rapidly taking form in favor of substitutes for the income taxes that will provide ample revenue without strangling industry.

The Republicans of Congress have little to say about this aspect of revenue legislation, but are voluble upon the subject of high customs duties. There are in Congress Republicans grown old in service who would be unable to understand, even after two or three more wars, that an old-fashioned Republican tariff would smite our industries like the plague. There are many Republicans newly come into the service of their country as lawmakers who burn with the desire to do something for their districts by boosting the tariff schedules. They are new bottles into which the old wine of protectionism has been poured. They have no new thoughts, they speak the old language. If Senator HARDING'S adjuration is to be heeded, if the coming three months are to be fruitful rather than wasted, these Bourbon Senators and Congressmen, old and new alike, must be persuaded to take a different view of their duty and the country's need. If the short session is to be devoted to the tariff, its time will be not merely wasted, but flagrantly and hurtfully misused.

If the revision of the income tax laws is postponed until the extra session, the fiscal year will end before the subject is disposed of. Yet the new laws must apply to the business of the calendar year 1921. It is essential to the prudent conduct of business that corporations and individuals should know at the earliest possible moment under what system of law they are to be taxed. If a sales tax is to be enacted, and the opinion of business men is turning more and more toward a sales tax as the best substitute for the excess profits tax and the higher surtaxes on individual incomes, then manifestly manufacturers and merchants, all men engaged in producing or buying and selling, should know without any unnecessary delay the incidence and rate of tax. That is the great subject as to which there has been "so much of delay," that is the field of legislation in which the session of Congress which began yesterday is called upon to perform a "service to our common country" second to no other in importance—a service which it cannot defer without failure in its plain duty.

CONSTANTINE CALLED BACK.

The Greek plebiscite favors the recall of CONSTANTINE by a majority that would have contented even NAPOLEON III. That the vote would go in his favor was obvious from the day of the Parliamentary elections, but his friends naturally feel a little more confident in inviting him back, with this expressed mandate to support them. For the Powers to obstruct his return by force, after this demonstration, would be both improper and imprudent.

But there is a difference between the application of force and the withdrawal of confidence. France and England have no right to forbid CONSTANTINE'S return, but the Greeks have no right to insist that France and England continue military and financial support, now that Greece looks like a bad investment. Many men who voted against VENIZELOS, many even of the supporters of CONSTANTINE, would no doubt like to stick to VENIZELOS'S foreign policy and try to realize the Great Idea. But it cannot be realized without help, and CONSTANTINE'S record has not inclined foreign Governments to regard his character as a good security.

So he will come back, amid the waving of olive branches and the strains of celebratory hymns, to try to persuade the army to attack the Turks once more, to look into the Treasury and think up methods of meeting the bills. The crowds in Athens cheer enthusiastically for the former Mrs. LEEDS, now the Dollar Princess of Greece. The lady has a good many dollars, but not enough to fill that void in the Treasury. CONSTANTINE may once more turn out to be an expensive luxury.

THE ARGENTINE FLURRY.

The bitter-end Senators at Washington were a trifle hasty in asserting that the withdrawal of the Argentine delegates from the meeting of the Assembly at Geneva meant that the League of Nations was disrupted and destroyed. A little calm study of the news over Sunday would have put the event in a truer light. It is one thing for the delegates from Argentina to quit Geneva in offended pride. It is quite another thing for the Argentine Government to give up its membership in the League. That can be done only by the method prescribed in the Covenant. It states at the end of Article I.: "Any member of the "League may, after two years' no"tice of intention to do so, withdraw "from the League." Argentina formally and officially entered the League. Till she follows the lawful way of getting out, in the League she must remain.

This does not mean, of course, that her representatives must attend the meetings of the Assembly. If Señor PUEYRREDON chooses to take his toys in a huff and go away to Paris, there is nothing in the Covenant to prevent him. His conduct, however, is fairly open to scrutiny. What prompted his rash and open challenge to the League? What motives led him to take a position which was at once seen to isolate Argentina from all the other nations represented at Geneva, and which speedily became a subject of suspicion and then of ridicule?

The answer lies partly in the quality of the head of the Argentine delegation. Señor PUEYRREDON is a young man. He says "never"—a word which, Mr. BALFOUR has remarked, only the very young use in politics. The eloquent Argentino is also fully aware of his own importance; he is high-strung, sensitive, ambitious. To his bold self-sufficiency it seemed natural and easy to summon the League to do his will, on pain of being deprived of his society. When the older heads took him aside and showed him that what he was proposing was contrary to the procedure laid down in the Covenant, he resented the idea that a man such as he could be bound by "technicalities." Evidently a hard man to do business with, this Señor PUEYRREDON. He seemed to expect that other nations would join him in his pettish departure, but they were content to leave him alone in his glory.

Taking up his specific proposals, the one to make the Assembly supreme over the Council, and to enable it to decide everything by a majority vote, would obviously have the effect, if not the intent, of wrecking the League. Not without reason did the Covenant make a careful distribution of power between the Council and the Assembly. There was a tacit drawing upon the experience of the United States in framing a constitution under which rich and populous States could work with those having less wealth and population. The plan of the Argentine delegation to have the entire Council elected by the Assembly—instead of only four out of the nine, as at present—would require not only an alteration of the basic law of the League, but a disregard of those compromises and safeguards which alone made the League possible.

Still more objectionable was the amendment offered by Señor PUEYRREDON making all self-governing States "automatically" members of the League. No one doubted where this looked. It was to Germany. Her application for membership in the League had not been pressed at Geneva. The reasons were plain. She could not yet qualify under the existing eligibility clause, which stipulates "sincere intention to observe its international obligations." The German attitude toward the Versailles Treaty is not in accord with that provision. Moreover, Germany knew that she could not command the two-thirds vote of the Assembly necessary to election under the Covenant as it stands. Hence it is entirely clear in whose interest the Argentine scheme was put forward. It necessarily revives unpleasant memories of German machinations at Buenos Aires during the war, and of the way in which President IRIGOYEN resisted the demand of the Argentine people, as expressed by both houses of the Argentine Congress, that their country be arrayed alongside the United States in the war against Germany.

Fortunately, it does not seem necessary to pursue this quest of suspected motives. All the indications now are that the Argentine plan either to dictate to the League or to break it up has been a complete failure. The League has not lost its composure and is going on steadily with its work. And all that Argentina has done is to place herself in an isolation not at all splendid.

THE FARMERS' APPEAL TO CONGRESS.

The farmers appeal to Congress against unsympathetic treatment by Secretary HOUSTON on behalf of the Treasury, and Governor HARDING on behalf of the Federal Reserve. With due respect it may be said that it is an appeal from those who know to those who know less, and the danger is not remote that the country may suffer from the action of those who fancy that their edicts are economic law. The prospects seem best for some plan like Senator CAPPER'S to abolish gambling in futures, or like Senator HITCHCOCK'S to appropriate $60,000,000 Federal Reserve funds for direct relief of the farmers. Admitting for argument that nothing better could be done, and assuming that it had been done long ago when the effects would have been better than now, what would have been the result to the farmers and the country? The answer may be found by looking at what happened where the farmers have had their way.

The farmers rule North Dakota, and twenty banks have suspended in that State alone. Seven banks have suspended in Oklahoma, and there have been sporadic failures in other States where farmers' finance is fancied, such as Iowa and Montana. Have the farmers benefited to such an extent that the embarrassment of the banks by excess of accommodation to them need not be regretted? On the contrary, the farmers are worse off than they would have been if the prairie bankers had imitated the Federal Reserve and the Treasury. They hold at $1.35 wheat which they could have sold for $2.15 to $2.40 at their country stations, if they disliked the prices on the city exchanges. Can the country stand the diversion of Federal Reserve funds for similar uses? And what reason is there to think that, if the thing were done, the farmers would benefit any more than in the unhappy record referred to? The real trouble with the farmers is set out in the statement in THE ANNALIST by the President of the Guaranty Trust Company that there have been produced 2,000,000 more bales of cotton and 300,000,000 more bushels of wheat than we can ourselves consume.

These are the plain facts in the case, and they make ridiculous the statement on Sunday by BENJAMIN MARSH, Director of the Farmers' National Council, to the Chicago Federation of Labor, when he said that there is a "criminal conspiracy to drive "down the prices of farm products "way below the cost of production," and that "the Federal Reserve sys"tem now is controlled by the big "predatory financial interests. * * * "The financial interests—23,000 per"sons out of our 105,000,000—are as "determined to crush the farmers as "they are to crush labor." It is difficult to understand how honest and intelligent men can believe such nonsense. The fact that they do believe it is no reason for allowing them to have their way, harming both themselves and others.

Consider next Senator CAPPER'S bill to put an end to "gambling" in farm products by closing the city exchanges to all but "farmers, dealers and manufacturers." The business is to be done by amateurs, all professionals being excluded. Option trading is the source of the farmers' troubles, and it is to be stopped for the farmers' benefit, regardless of the detriment to other interests. Under the option system all traders buy whenever they sell, and sell whenever they buy, insuring their profits at each step and separating the risks of the operator from the other risks of the later processes. If "hedging" is stopped, the farmers will find that a lower price will be paid for their crops to offset the greater risk made necessary by the Senator's method of stopping gambling. There could not be a surer way of delivering the farmers over to some financial monopoly, perhaps a "combine" of elevator buyers, than to close the exchanges.

WELLS IS NOT PERDITA.

That Mr. WELLS, in his defense of Bolshevism, has excited the high-comedy raillery of HENRY ARTHUR JONES and drawn a riddling fire of criticism from a fellow-Socialist, JOHN SPARGO, need not lessen our interest in what he writes about Russia. Mr. WELLS is one of those people who would disappoint if they were not so uniformly and so luminously disappointing.

There are mortals who have the faculty of being what they are supremely. Of Perdita, Shakespeare makes Florizel say:

When you speak, sweet, I'd have you do it ever.
. . . When you dance I wish you
A wave o' the sea, that you might ever do
Nothing but that.

But Mr. WELLS is not at all like Perdita. When he does anything he generally makes you wish he was doing something else. If he writes a history of the world, you perceive that his eye for the startling and the picturesque is that of a born journalist. If he writes as a journalist, one recognizes with equal clarity that his method is that of fiction. If he writes novels, the conviction is borne home that the man is essentially a publicist. And when, at rare intervals, he delivers himself as a publicist, the conclusion is inescapable that his opinions are superlatively private. He is no less supreme in his faculty than Perdita, but his faculty is for always being something else.

It is a faculty easily underrated, and was possessed by one far greater than the ingenuous heroine of "The Winter's Tale." Like Falstaff, Mr. WELLS is not only witty in himself, but the cause that wit is in other men. Quite as admirable as the power of thinking is the power of rousing thought. Paradoxically enough, those who have told the grim truth about Bolshevism most convincingly are those who journeyed to Moscow as on a sacred pilgrimage of adoration—the Bertrand Russells and the Wilhelm Dittmans. Having gone to pray, they returned to scoff. When Mr. WELLS entered Russia it was with the intention to write a farce, "The Shaving of Karl Marx," and by the irresistible law of his being he emerges as a sober champion of Bolshevism—in such sort that the world delights to deride him. Never before has his genius, and the nature of it, been so manifest.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT TO THE SOUTH.

Representative TINKHAM of Massachusetts has an adequate but somewhat malicious sense of humor. No sooner is Congress reassembled than he offers a resolution for an investigation of the alleged disfranchisement of negroes in Southern States. He is eager or pretends to be for the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments and for a reapportionment of seats in the House, not in proportion to the population, but in proportion to the population that votes. He marshals familiar statistics. Thus the total vote for the twelve New Jersey Representatives in Congress was 338,000 in 1918, while that for the twelve Georgia Representatives was 59,000. Woman suffrage is going to make this evil case worse. Mr. TINKHAM utters the good old Force bill talk about "inequality!" "injustice" and so on.

These whacks at the Solid South tickle irresistibly the Comic Spirit. Solidity was broken in the last election. The Republicans not only carried Tennessee, but they cast a considerably larger vote than usual in several States. In some localities a sacred tariff, in some the abhorred League of Nations, in all the high crimes and misdemeanors of the Administration had their part in seducing the faithful. In the North the prominence and pernicious activities of Southern Democrats were held up as a sufficient reason for voting the Republican ticket. In the South, which had been stuffed full of honors and offices for seven years, there was a considerable Democratic disgruntlement. Now, before the Republicans are fully in power, they begin to make faces at their Southern friends and allies. They propose to reward the South for being no longer solid by greatly and permanently diminishing its power in national legislation. Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend!

There is an irresistible irony in the whole transaction. The sulky Southern Democrats, who had so much from the Administration, and some of whom, it must be admitted, were so much of a drag upon it, are thanked for their Republicanism of fact or velleity by a kick in the head. The Republicans, who have been nursing such sweet dreams and hopes of enlarging their party in the Southern States, promptly begin to resolidify the South. Wise, old Oxenstiern!

FRIENDS OF FREEDOM.

Sunday night was a great night for the Friends of Freedom. Friends of Freedom for India, for Ireland, for Egypt, for Mesopotamia, for South Africa, indulged in elocution and resolution. An Indian Friend recommended a "holy alliance of all op"pressed peoples against Great Brit"ain in co-operation with Soviet Rus"sia to destroy British imperialism." He said that "Germany was never an enemy of India." Now, as in the war, all these impatient patriots seem to be fond of Germany, but of course Soviet Russia is their dearest friend. At one meeting Mr. WILSON, Mr. LLOYD GEORGE and Mr. BALFOUR were hissed, and those beloved friends of freedom, organized to destroy free government and civilization, LENIN and TROTZKY and the Soviet autocracy, were wildly cheered. Senator NORRIS of Nebraska, one of the heroes of opposition to the Armed Ship bill, cried in thunder tones that President WILSON and all other officials responsible for the expedition of American troops to Russia should be impeached. Freedom must be more than little surprised by these singular friends.

On the fringes or in the heart of all these noisy demonstrations against Great Britain, enthusiasm for Germany and enthusiasm for the Russian Communists and their propaganda are conspicuous. The sincere friends of autonomous government in any possession of Great Britain must be pained and disgusted with some of the company they are forced to keep. Among these friends of freedom how many were not friends of Germany when the freedom of the world was at stake? Soviet Russia is an absolute negation of freedom. It is not freedom, but an irreparable loss to it by the destruction of the British Empire, that many of these motley fanatics seek; and they want to help Russia and Germany. The United States, whose hospitality they abuse, knows who were its friends and who its enemies in the war, who are its enemies and friends now. They were not and are not Egyptian or Indian Nationalists, or Sinn Feiners of Ireland. These foreign animosities and this preaching of Bolshevism in the name of freedom irritate the majority of Americans and tend to blind them to whatever of merit there is in the causes dishonored by such advocacy.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Scotch Sunday Recalled.

What Sunday was in Scotland, or at any rate in Glasgow, something less than thirty years ago was revealed in THE TIMES on Sunday. The revelation took the form of reminiscences of boyhood by a man who is now a New Yorker. His were not happy memories, and while the pictures he painted of a dreadful day in which, churchgoing apart, there was nothing to do but drink, so everybody drank, probably were too dark, and were true of a class rather than of a people, still they were worthy of study here and now.

That is not because the sometime Scotchman's descriptions would be duplicated in the United States as the result of any Sunday restrictions, here and now that are even imaginable, but because there inevitably would be, here or anywhere else, like inconsistencies between theory and practice if our extremists brought about the passage of such laws as they want.

Innumerable references to "a Puritan Sunday" are heard and seen, but that Sunday in any approach to literalness today is next to unthinkable. Nobody wants it—not even those who are clamoring for it. They would be among the first to protest against such interferences with personal liberty as those which the Puritans for a while endured, simply because those same interferences were in effect, and for them, an expression of the community's general inclinations and beliefs. It was not long, even in darkest New England, before other ideas caused, first, restlessness, then resistance, and finally the "blue laws" were either repealed or ignored—the latter action, unfortunately, being more frequent than the former. That explains why on the statute books of all our States there are still laws quite as "blue" as any which the Sunday observance people now are proposing as something new.

Restrictions Then Were Real.

To see what Sunday can be when everything in the shape of amusements, recreations and relaxations is barred and banned, it is not enough to remember the Glasgow of thirty years ago. It is necessary to read, say, BUCKLE, who searched the records of an earlier age in Scotland and read—fearsome task!—innumerable sermons preached by men who claimed and long exercised a practically limitless power over the lives, the conduct and, as much as they could, the very thoughts of their parishioners. The theologians of the days which BUCKLE studied so minutely were not, of course, as black as they appeared to his unsympathetic mind. The clergy had virtues which were invisible to him, as well as the monstrous vices he saw so clearly, but his book nevertheless is worth reading, if only to balance those of the writers, a great company, who could, and can, see only the side to which he was blind.

The fact remains, however, that not only Sunday, but every day in the week, then, was what to almost every man now alive would be intolerable. And at that very time Scotland, though a theocracy of the sternest kind, contained as many murderers and robbers, probably, as any country in the world, and presented a spectacle little indeed inspiring to modern imitation. And while improvement did not come because the rigidity of Sunday observance decreased, the two did go along very amicably together.

But Would the Police Permit It?

Of all the foes of England that gathered and orated in the Hotel McAlpin of Sunday as Friends of Freedom for India and friends of the friends, perhaps the most interesting was one SALENDRA NATH GHOSE, a dusky and eloquent person who, to the great satisfaction of his variegated hearers, promised the almost immediate expulsion from India of her present rulers.

The expulsion, it seems, is to be effected by an army of 50,000,000 men, all well armed, equipped and maintained out of India's inexhaustible resources.

Mr. GHOSE did not explain why there has been such a long delay in organizing that army. From the beginning of recorded history India has been ruled by foreign conquerors who followed one another in an endless series, and always it was a foreigner, never an Indian, that put the alien out and took his place. The British have remained longer than did most of their predecessors. Even if the worst that is said about their rule were true, it has been vastly better in every particular than that of their best predecessors, and Mr. GHOSE well might be apprehensive as to what would happen to himself and his brothers in blood and religion if the army of which he dreams really came into existence and carried out the program he assigns to it.

At its head, certainly, would be a man with a name much like SALENDRA NATH GHOSE, and have the books which the British taught him to read made him, as a Hindu, eager to live under a Mohammedan overlord? As a matter of fact, such products of British rule as he, including the more eminent RABINDRANATH TAGORE, are a strangely ungrateful lot, and in themselves the best of proof that the British, instead of being too harsh as masters, have been unwisely kind.

Patriotism of the Irish-Born.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of John Reynolds, as I interpret it—and perhaps my interpretation is erroneous; I am sure I hope so—is full of insinuations that Catholic patriotism in these United States is not of the true American type and brand. If the typical American patriot must be a man built along the lines of Mr. Reynolds, then I for one would be proud to say that the Catholics—and in particular I refer to the Catholics of Irish blood—are not true patriots. But I feel that to be a staunch and true American one need not of necessity be possessed of the thoughts and views of Mr. Reynolds.

I feel that the Catholics of this country—and for the moment, as I have said, I refer to those Catholics who are of Irish birth or descent—have in every walk of life and in every scope of national activity demonstrated their blood to be as red, their skin as white, their veins as blue as the red and the white and the blue in the glorious flag that all of them have ever and always served so well and so nobly and in defense of which so many of them have made the supreme sacrifice, have offered up their all.

I desire to say frankly and candidly that I am not greatly attracted to the President of the Irish Republic, Mr. DeValera; that I am not a member of any organization the purposes of which are to engage in Irish activities in this country; and that I most emphatically and sincerely denounce and deplore the inexcusable riot on Fifth Avenue on Thanksgiving Day. But as an American citizen who yields to no one—not even Mr. Reynolds—in devotion to flag and country as an American citizen, further, who is proud of being a descendant of native Irishmen, I do object—and feel justly so—to this impudent, insolent, and unwarranted attack of Mr. Reynolds—and such I deem his letter to be—upon the Roman Catholic Church and upon the Irish of this country.

The Church's Attitude.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The attitude of the leaders of the Roman Catholic Church in New York City toward the undoubted right of any American citizen or organization to fly the British flag upon suitable occasions is only another illustration of the hopeless narrowness and short-sightedness of these eminent gentlemen and their followers.

The day is coming in our free country, and incidents like the recent insult to Great Britain and to the United States only serve to hasten its coming, when the alien hierarchy and its supporters will be called upon to answer, honestly and squarely if they can, this question, Are you Americans first or are you not?

E. H. CLEVELAND, M. D.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having been a subscriber and reader of your paper for some six years, I want to tell you that one of the greatest and most valuable things you have done is the publishing of the facts and truth about the Fifth Avenue riot, Thanksgiving Day. So long as we have courageous newspapers like yours, that will "let the people know," America is safe and will not be cowed by an un-American mob incited by a foreign-dominated hierarchy.

GIFTS.

No month goes by with empty hands and vain—
Each brings its gift of beauty or of joy,
And each the right proportion of alloy
Needed for strengthening the golden chain
Of blessings which they weave; since it is gain
That o'er the sun the storm-cloud often drifts,

September's fruit is fair and purple-dyed;
October passes not till it flings wide
Its royal robes about us; and, complete,
November, with its frosty smile and sweet,
Beholds our stores of heaven-blest garnering—

But glad December knows a gift more blest;
Carol and laughter dwell upon its tongue.
Forever holly-crowned, forever young,
Set high above, in its white glory drest,
All other seasons; now is manifest
To man His Love who on the grave earth smiled,

M. Ferdinand Denis of Paris is showing his collection of fine furnishings and old Continental china at the American Art Galleries prior to the sale next Friday and Saturday. The aspect of the galleries presents an instructive contrast to the picture made by the recent collections of old English pottery and furniture. The graceful trail of the ornamental is over all—over the porcelains, charming Saxe decorated with dogs and lions and cupids; Empire liqueur bottles with enticing labels, "Anisette," "Noyaux," "Huile de Vénus," "Rhum de la Jamaique," "Kirsch de la forêt noire"; delicate Sèvres with pencilled flower sprays and trellises; over the boule escritoires and marqueterie coffrets with ormolu and with underglass paintings; over the clocks designed to divert our thoughts from the flight of time by their amazing embellishments; over the glass, Bohemian with polychrome and gold, with lapis blue on top and white beneath, with engraved landscapes and medallions and half-medallions and arches; Venetian "with luxuriant adornment in gold"; over the mirrors with their paintings of bagpipers and harbor scenes and pastel miniatures.

It is all immensely pretty and fine, and some of the furniture and clocks are of the rarest type. The preface to the catalogue reminds the public that it is now difficult to procure in Paris the treasures of the eighteenth century, and also that the new law applying to furniture of a date prior to 1830 and to the work of painters, engravers, sculptors, draftsmen and decorators who have been dead over twenty years, acts as a further deterrent, as an exportation tax varying from 15 to 25 per cent. is placed upon such objects as are permitted to leave the country.

Rare and choice books from the collection of Robert Pariser and other consignors were sold last evening at the Anderson Galleries. E. B. Springs paid $3,050 for the original London edition of John J. Audubon's "Birds in America," four volumes, elephant folio, 1827-28.

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach gave $460 for John Calvin's rarest book, "An Abridgement of the Institution of Christian Religion," Edinburgh, 1586. Gabriel Wells obtained for $520 a copy of "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," by Charles Dickens, the first edition in parts, London, 1836-37.

The session brought $15,971.50. The sale will be concluded today.

DIPLOMACY TO AID BUSINESS

Secretary Colby Says World Economics Is as Essential as Politics.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Diplomacy can no longer be mainly concerned with political questions, "but must devote greater attention to far-reaching economic issues," Secretary Colby declares in a memorandum accompanying his estimates of appropriations for the State Department for 1921-22, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury and made public today.

Secretary Colby estimated that $11,983,848.94 will be necessary for the maintenance of foreign relations, an increase over the previous year of nearly $3,000,000.

The United States, Mr. Colby said, finds itself in keen commercial competition with other nations which are reviving and intensifying their efforts "to gain foreign markets; to occupy the markets formerly controlled by enemy powers and to attain a higher degree of economic production." He adds that for that reason "an adequate staff of technical experts" in the foreign service is needed.

"Lack of funds to pay for needed help in the Consular Service abroad has brought about deplorable conditions, the Secretary asserts, adding that while "exigencies of diplomatic and consular work demand that our representatives be men of exceptional ability and attainments," the service is losing many of its most efficient men through failing to "provide them with an appropriate standard of living."

The aim of the department, the memorandum says, while giving "effective purpose and direction to diplomacy should afford greater facilities for supplying more precise and better digested material to the Department of Commerce, which is in direct and continuous contact with the business world, and which is charged with the dissemination of commercial information."

DECORATES GEN. NIVELLE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Secretary Baker today decorated General Nivelle, of the French Army, with the Distinguished Service Medal, by direction of the President for "exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service to the United States."

N. Y. U. RAISES FACULTY PAY

Another salary increase for professors and instructors has been voted by the council of New York University, it was announced yesterday. This is the second general increase made within a year and becomes effective as of Sept. 1, 1920.

No schedule of salaries in the several grades has been definitely adopted, but the individual salaries, as recently voted, average a little more than $5,000 a year for professors, about $4,000 for associate professors, a little more than $3,000 for assistant professors, and a little over $2,000 for instructors.

SAYS SCHOOL BOARD 'GAGS' ITS LECTURERS

Dr. William Carter Resigns After Warning to Avoid Jewish and Irish Topics.

Director Charges Speaker With Lack of Judgment and Will Accept Resignation.

Charging that the Board of Education is seeking to put a muzzle on free speech, the Rev. William Carter of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, has tendered his resignation as a lecturer on "Trends of the Times" to Ernest L. Crandall, Director of the Bureau of Public Lectures, in a letter made public yesterday. The controversy which resulted in the resignation was precipitated at a lecture by Dr. Carter in Erasmus Hall High School, on Nov. 24, when he made references to the Russian Jews in the course of a discussion of immigration.

Complaints regarding his utterance, according to Dr. Carter, were made to the Board of Education, and on Dec. 2 Mr. Crandall addressed a letter to the lecturers assigned to discuss the "Trend of the Times," in which he said:

Warns of Jews and Irish.

"Two great groups of our people just now are in a highly sensitized condition, psychologically, almost amounting to hysteria. I refer to those having either Jewish or Irish blood. Unless we belong to one of these groups, we may find it difficult to understand them. What is even more dangerous is to fancy we understand them when we don't. In point of fact we don't and we can't unless we have been lashed with the same lash. Most of us haven't.

"We have embarked on a campaign of free speech. Does free speech, however, mean that we must talk about all things at all times regardless of the wisdom or unwisdom of such procedure? There will be many temptations to touch questions some angle of which will needlessly hurt or inflame. These temptations will come chiefly in the current events, explanations, or in the open forum discussions. It will take courage to avoid these tangles sometimes, for we shall of course be accused of dodging. In my opinion, however, it is the part of valor as well as discretion just now to avoid every topic that is loaded, as these are, with political social and psychological dynamite.

"I have appealed to you in the name of the 'cause.' What is the cause? Not free speech, surely. That is only a means to an end, and a means which all too many of our undigested citizenry exalt into an end. The cause is a completer America. That means completer assimilation of difficult ingredients. Let us stick to those themes that will help along these lines and avoid all that might tend to hinder that process. Let us beware of the dangerous process of putting 'new wine in old bottles.'"

In his letter to Mr. Crandall submitting his resignation Dr. Carter said he regarded this circular letter as a "further infringement upon the rights of free speech and the culmination of many restrictions that the board has sought to lay upon me personally," and added:

"You suggest in your letter that we refrain from discussing the 'Jewish and Irish' questions. Why? Are these not current events? Do these not show 'the trend of the times'? Why, then, are we to be gagged and muzzled in regard to these particular things when you definitely said in your written instructions at the beginning of the course: 'Each lecturer shall be free to express his own convictions on any subject, save a religious topic, even though such a subject be a controversial one.' It was on this basis and this basis alone that I consented to serve.

"You say we are not to despise the aphorism: 'Meat for strong men, but milk for babies.' Are we to presume that you class the Jews and Irishmen as babes? I think Jews will resent this, and I am sure Irishmen will! Imagine an Irishman sitting down to a diet of 'mush and milk,' even in a Board of Education lecture!

"No, the trouble is not with the Irish. They are not babes. They don't want to be 'coddled.' They don't want to be fed on 'mush and milk.' They want 'meat for strong men,' and next thing to a fight the thing they like best is good, strong argument—if it is only fair and just."

Will Accept Resignation.

Mr. Crandall said yesterday afternoon that he had just found the letter on his desk, and would answer it at length after he had had time to read its contents, and that Dr. Carter's resignation would be accepted at once. He said it was quite unwarranted to draw any inference that he had criticised Dr. Carter for any strictures on the Hylan administration, and added:

"In two of his lectures, on Nov. 18 and 24, Dr. Carter made statements regarding the Russian Jews that raised a storm of protest. It is not necessary to go into these charges at the present time, but they were so serious and presented by such responsible persons that the Superintendent of Schools directed me to discontinue Dr. Carter's services if these allegations were substantiated."

When the statement of Mr. Crandall was called to the attention of Dr. Carter last night he said it was "perfect folly to appoint lecturers to speak on current events and then ask them to leave out the things that are being discussed every day by the people and the newspapers. He repeated that such action tended to stultify not only the Board of Education but the lecturers themselves. Dr. Carter said the protest was made by only six Jews and by a rabbi who was not at the lecture.

WOMEN ALDERMEN WANTED.

15th Assembly District League Also Wants "50-50" Voice in Parties.

The League of Women Voters, Fifteenth Assembly District, in annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Lewis L. Delafield, 20 West Fifty-eighth Street, yesterday, discussed proposals that women be elected to the Board of Aldermen and that they share "fifty-fifty" with the men in the control of political parties. All the speakers emphasized the non-partisan character of the league.

"We women should exercise our power as voters," said Mrs. Charles Louis Tiffany, "but we cannot become a political power unless we organize. We are not a woman's party, but as an organized body we can instil fear and respect into the hearts of the legislators. We should be taken into the councils and take active part in the nominating of candidates, standing fifty-fifty with the men."

Mrs. Tiffany referred to Miss Garrett Hay as "our great boss and our great steerer," and Miss Hay, saying there was "good in all parties," hoped the women never would be "so blind as to vote a straight ticket." She proposed to have women run for members of the Board of Aldermen, "not because they are women, but because they are the right people."

Mrs. Edgerton Parsons was elected to succeed Miss Charlotte Delafield, resigned, as Chairman of the league for the Fifteenth Assembly District.

CHURCH COUNCIL FOR JOINING LEAGUE

Communication to Harding Expresses Hope That Way May Be Found for America to Enter.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which has been in session here since last Wednesday, closed its quadrennial meeting late this evening by adopting a "message to the churches" which calls upon the 20,000,000 members in the thirty Protestant denominations that compose the council to try to solve the present world problems by a renewal of personal religion. Its call was "repent, believe, follow."

Today the council met in historic Park Street Congregational Church.

Governor Coolidge, who was to have been the chief speaker at a banquet at the City Club this evening for 2,000 men, sent word early in the day that he was "too tired out" to come. The speakers were Dr. Henry van Dyke of Princeton, N. J., and the Rev. Dr. Alexander Ramsay of London. Because no women could be admitted to the club, a dinner elsewhere was held for the women delegates.

The council adopted a report on prohibition which was submitted by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Resident Bishop of the Southern Methodist Church in Birmingham, Ala., which asserted that the "enforcement of national prohibition was not a political issue, but a plain patriotic duty."

The report calls for the appropriation by Congress "of whatever amount may be necessary for the effective enforcement of national prohibition"; the enactment of "a law to prohibit American citizens from engaging in liquor traffic in foreign countries" (aimed especially at concerns engaging in the liquor trade in China), and the extension of Federal prohibition "to the Philippine Islands and all the territory to which the Eighteenth Amendment applies."

After suggesting that Congress enact a law which shall define misconduct in office by Federal officials refusing to enforce the prohibition law and shall punish a violation of the proposed measure by forfeiture of office, the report expresses hearty sympathy with "temperance workers in all lands and our desire to co-operate with them in every suitable way to banish from the entire world traffic in intoxicating liquor and debasing narcotics."

After reviewing in detail the present perplexing world problems, the "Message to the Churches" says:

"We welcome, therefore, the proposal for a League of Nations which shall be in truth an association of free peoples for mutual helpfulness in the tasks of peace, and we call upon our own nation to join with other nations in moving along this new pathway of hope.

"Above all, we must show what it means for the individual human life. Home and business and the nation and race will be what men and women who compose them make them. A self-centred Church cannot rebuke the selfishness of business. A self-complacent Church is helpless before the arrogance of race, a Church at war within itself is impotent to stop the rivalries of the nations. When men see Christians forgetting their differences in common service, and not until then, they will believe in Christ's power to break down the barriers between classes and between races.

"We welcome, therefore, the voice that comes to us across the sea from our fellow Christians in Lambeth, joining with us in calling the Church to fuller unity. We reciprocate the spirit of this the most Christian utterance. We believe with them that the first step toward unity is that all those who love our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ should join in discharging the common duties whose obligation all alike recognize."

The Council authorized its Administrative Committee to present to President-elect Harding and the United States Senate a statement setting forth the profound interest of the Churches in the moral and religious principles underlying the League of Nations, and expressing earnest hope that some acceptable way might be found for American participation in such a League.

Another resolution adopted states that "the Council is devotedly desirous that we as a nation should do all in our power toward allaying international suspicion and promoting world peace and, believing gradual disarmament to be a requisite toward this, respectfully requests our Government to set an example in this respect and to co-operate fully with the Governments of the world for the achievement of general disarmament."

The Council by resolution extended its "warmest fraternal greetings to all our sister Churches in Europe, both in allied lands and in those countries with which we have lately been at war, invoking God's richest blessings upon them and assuring them of our constant interest and prayer." This was adopted in place of a resolution introduced last week asking that fraternal greetings be sent to the Churches of Germany.

The council passed the following resolution in regard to anti-Semitism:

Whereas for some time past there have been in circulation in this country publications tending to create race prejudice and arouse animosity against our Jewish fellow-citizens and containing charges so preposterous as to be unworthy of credence,

Be it resolved, That the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, impressed by the need at this period of our national existence for unity and brotherhood, deplores all such cruel and unwarranted attacks upon our Jewish brethren and in a spirit of good-will extends to them an expression of confidence in their patriotism and their good citizenship and earnestly admonishes our people to express disapproval of all actions which are conducive to intolerance or tend to the destruction of our national unity through arousing racial divisions in our body politic.

"WRITS KING" FAILS AGAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 6.—John De Tiere of Manhattan, a murderer, who has been in the Matteawan Asylum for Insane Criminals for eighteen years and is known as the "King of Writs" because he has applied for fifteen writs of habeas corpus since he has been locked up, was again in the Supreme Court here today.

When Harry K. Thaw was at Matteawan, De Tiere learned from him how to draw up petitions for court writs. His latest application came up before Justice Platt, in Special Term, when he applied for an order directing the asylum authorities to confine him in the Dutchess County Jail, so that he could consult with counsel.

Dr. Moore, Superintendent of the asylum, said De Tiere's main object was to get out of Matteawan for a short time to enable him to write articles denouncing the asylum and its workings.

Justice Platt dismissed the writ, and De Tiere filed another petition, which is made returnable before Justice Seeger at Newburg next Saturday.

PLAN NEW LINE TO EUROPE.

Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. Announces Channel Port Service.

The passenger and freight service between New York and the Channel ports will soon be increased by the entry of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company into the North Atlantic trade, it was announced yesterday. The company will inaugurate a ten-day service between New York, Southampton, Cherbourg and Hamburg, which will be operated by the liners Orduna, Orbita and Oropesa. The two last named are new vessels of 15,000 gross tonnage, with a speed of 17 knots, and the Orduna made a record for herself by running the submarine and mine zones throughout the war without a scratch, while under charter to the Cunard Line.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company is the oldest British shipping company, and received its charter from King William IV. in 1835, which gives the Captain and officers the right to wear sidearms on board ship. Among the lines controlled by the company are the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, Lamport & Holt, Union-Castle Line to South Africa, Elder-Dempster Line to West Africa, and others. The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company will enter the North Atlantic Conference, of which the principal American and foreign steamship lines are members. The date for the starting of the new service has not been announced.

Sanderson & Son of 26 Broadway are the agents of the company in the United States.

Miss Taylor has been resting since her return from London late in the Summer. Shortly after reviving "Peg o' My Heart" here, Miss Taylor will appear in a film version of the play.

Duci de Kerekjarto's Third Recital.

Duci de Kerekjarto, a young Hungarian violinist of extraordinary popular attributes and equally extravagant aberrations, gave his third recital last evening in Carnegie Hall, assisted by Francis Moore, in Tartini's D-minor concerto and two works by his own former master, Hubay, including variations on a Hungarian theme, Opus 72, and so-called "Czardas" or dance scenes entitled "Hejre Kati." Mr. Kerekjarto, whose début fell on Election Night in New York, had obtained the use of the hall, solidly booked for months to come, through the courtesy of Berthold Neuer, who held it for the Ampico Piano Company. In recognition of this fact, the violinist gave several pieces for which he had "recorded" his own piano accompaniments on the mechanical instrument, and there were other groups of solo reproductions by Rachmaninoff and Levitzki.

QUITS BOARD OVER WOMAN.

ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 6.—Immediately after Mayor William A. Lord, yielding to the urgings of local women's clubs, appointed Mrs. L. Stowell Clark, a school Commissioner to succeed Charles L. Tyner, Sidney M. Colgate, President of Colgate & Co., manufacturers of toilet articles, resigned as President and member of the board.

In a statement commenting upon the resignation, Mayor Lord said he long had favored the appointment of a woman member of the board, which hitherto has been composed of men only, but that Mr. Colgate "was unalterably opposed" to it.

Mr. Colgate said he wanted to diminish some of his activities. He deplored the loss to Mr. Tyner and, while reluctant to admit that the appointment of a woman had led directly to his resignation, said he believed the other members of the board agreed with him that a board of men "work along more easily." He made it plain that he had no objection to Mrs. Clark personally.

He was Judge Advocate General from July 13, 1917, until March 30, 1919, and was decorated for heroic service when, in the battle of the Hindenberg Line south of Cambrai in September, 1918, he took charge of the Second Battalion of the 106th New York Regiment when other officers were disabled or killed.

LIGHT COMPANY ASKS RISE.

The Rockland Light and Power Company, which serves all of Rockland County and which charges 14 cents per kilowatt hour for electric current and $2 per thousand cubic feet for gas, appeared before the up-State Public Service Commission yesterday to press its application for permission to add to its bills a charge for meters at the rate of 2½ cents a day. Counsel for the company said that if the service charge was allowed the company would be earning only 2.6 per cent. on its original investment.

The company's finances, it was said, are in a serious condition, and that unless the earnings are increased it will be impossible to make necessary extensions and improvements.

GEN. BULLARD RECOVERING.

Hope Felt That Golf Ball Blow Will Not Affect His Sight.

The condition of General Robert Lee Bullard, commander of the Department of the East, who was hit in the eye by a golf ball on Saturday afternoon, was reported yesterday as much improved, with the likelihood that his sight would not be impaired.

"The pain has left the eye," said Captain B. F. Caffey, aid to the General at Governors Island, "and the General is resting comfortably. The eye, however, still is swollen, and for that reason we are unable to say as yet whether the vision has been affected. It is likely that it has not been impaired."

HOPPE CONQUERS COCHRAN WITH CUE

SCHAEFER MEETS DEFEAT

STANDING IN NATIONAL BILLIARD TOURNEY.

Player.	W.	L.	HA.	HR.	PC.
W. Hoppe	1	0	18 4-22	101	1000
W. Cochran	1	1	21 1-19	92	.500
J. Schaefer	0	1	17 15-19	92	.000

Tonight's game—Hoppe vs. Schaefer.

Willie Hoppe came within the proverbial ace of suffering the first defeat that he has sustained in five years in championship play at the Hotel Astor last night. Playing in the second match of the annual national championship 18.2 balkline tournament before a crowd that virtually filled the grand ballroom to capacity, the man who has held the championship for fifteen years skidded from the straight and narrow and his opponent, Welker Cochran, almost sent the more or less well-known dope sprawling for the full count. Hoppe finally managed to win by the close margin of 400 to 370, but it was not until twenty-two innings had been consumed. Hoppe averaged 18 4-22, one of the poorest averages he has made in title competition in years. Cochran's average was 16 18-22. Hoppe's high run was 101 and Cochran's 92.

Cochran earned the right to meet Hoppe in the evening match by defeating Young Jake Schaefer in the afternoon's match by a score of 400 to 338. The matinee performance was almost as long drawn out, the game lasting nineteen innings. Cochran averaged 21 1-19 and his best run was 88. Schaefer averaged 17 15-19 with a high run of 92.

The fact that both games were so long drawn out and devoid of anything that even remotely resembled consistently good billiards or exceptionally high runs may be attributed to the fact that both sets of balls used were found to be cracked. The ivories had been newly rolled and were passed as perfect, which they were before play started, but in the afternoon a draft swept through the room and the balls became chilled. Later the room became almost unbearably warm. The changing atmosphere was declared responsible for the cracking of the balls. There was no draft noticeable in the evening, but when the game had finished Hoppe carefully examined the balls. He complained that they had been bumpy. Cochran supported him in this claim, and Charley Peterson, the referee, said that he had noticed that the ivories were misbehaving. Examination proved that the second set was also cracked. The players will use new balls in their matches today.

Time and again during the afternoon and evening games it was noticeable to the spectators that the balls were rolling off. This caused frequent lineups and gave the players no end of trouble in their delicate manipulation of the ivories. There is not the slightest doubt that the conditions had a material effect upon the outcome of the games, so that they lasted much longer than championship matches of 400 points should last.

All Three Erratic.

All three players were erratic. This was an unusual condition for Hoppe. As a general thing, the champion is steadiness personified. Even though there have been times when he has not piled up record runs, he has been consistent in his scoring. Last night there was nothing consistent about his work. As much as this was true of Hoppe's work, so much more was it true of Cochran's. Had it not been for his unsteadiness, there is not the slightest doubt that he would have taken Hoppe into camp and would today be leading in the standing of the players with an excellent chance to tie Hoppe in the final standing and cause a play-off to decide the championship.

The last time previously that Hoppe has been guilty of such poor billiards in championship play was five years ago in Boston, when Koji Yamada succeeded in defeating him. Afterward Hoppe said: "At first I was at a loss to understand it. I noticed that the cue ball was not acting properly. It seemed to me that I was hitting it accurately, but I could not control it. You noticed that in the first two innings I did fairly well and seemed to be getting along, but thereafter I could not accomplish anything. I tried close billiards, but that was out of the question, so I was compelled to resort to open table playing, a sort of slambang style. Then I discovered that the ball was cracked."

Aside from the fact that he, too, was seriously handicapped, Cochran was guilty several times of playing the wrong shot. Not once, but a half dozen times, when Hoppe was floundering around, unable to find his stride, Cochran played shots that were meant to be safeties in the event of his missing. Had he not been so intent upon leaving Hoppe safe he might have fared somewhat better, and might even have succeeded in defeating the champion.

Hoppe, too, for the first time in many pallid moons was not sure of himself, and when Cochran gradually crept up on him and finally, in the sixteenth inning, succeeded in overhauling him, Hoppe resorted to safety play, and it was seldom that he left Cochran anything but the most difficult shots.

Horemans Among Spectators.

Among the spectators at the afternoon match was Edouard Horemans, the Belgian player, who has come to this country to play Hoppe for the world's championship. He studied every move by Cochran and Schaefer. After the match he refused to make any direct criticism, but said that both players were very efficient performers. Horemans was not among those present in the evening, but his secretary, F. J. L. Derks, occupied a box seat.

There was scarcely a seat vacant when George Gordon Battle, the eminent New York lawyer and President of the New York State Billiard Association, made the opening address. His speech on the development of billiards was enthusiastically received.

Cochran won the bank but missed the opening shot. Hoppe ran 19 before he stubbed his toe and had to sit down. Cochran managed to get three, and then Hoppe showed the first real billiards of the match. He ran 101 points before he missed on a massé shot. The 101 points were not made as Hoppe usually makes them. There was not so much of the short draw and the line nurse, but more of all around billiards—one, two and three cushions, force follows, massés, spread draws and the like. It was the kind of billiards that causes the gallery to break out in spontaneous and prolonged applause.

Lacks Usual Confidence.

But to those familiar with Hoppe's style it was apparent he was not himself, that he lacked his usual confidence. His second ball, which is to say his position play, was decidedly off. As the game progressed this became more and more apparent. At the outset of his run of 101 Hoppe had gathered the balls within three shots, but it was not five shots later that he had to drive the first object ball the length of the table, and frequently he was compelled to make regular exhibition massés. These are things that Willie Hoppe does not ordinarily have to do. As a rule his position play is so perfect that he is confronted by nothing but the easiest shots.

Hoppe seemed to lack all of his customary confidence. He was not at all sure of himself. After his run of 101 in the second inning until he made his run in the seventeenth canto, Hoppe was guilty of the poorest billiards he has played this season. The balls were inclined to be a bit bumpy, but this was not altogether responsible for his or for Cochrane's four showing. They played poorly.

Opportunity knocked continuously at Cochran's door, but the young man from the Pacific Slope was incapable of sustained effort. Bad judgment more than weak execution cost Cochran the game.

Hoppe Gains Early Lead.

In the first five innings Hoppe gained a lead of 54 buttons. Although it was apparent even that early in the game that he was off form, it seemed that he was destined to win fairly comfortably. At the end of the fifth round the score was: Hoppe, 169; Cochran, 115.

It was then that Hoppe was guilty of the worst billiards he has played in a championship match in five years. Not since Koji Yamada defeated Willie in this city has Hoppe been as far off his game. As the veteran Maurice Daly remarked: "It will be a long time until Hoppe plays as poor a game. Cochran had many chances to win."

From the fifth inning through the sixteenth Hoppe could do very little with the balls. In those eleven rounds Hoppe scored 49, an average of but little more than four. It was in the sixteenth that Cochran caught and passed Hoppe. It was the first time Cochran had been in front, and it seemed to peeve Hoppe a bit, for in the seventeenth he made 90 and again assumed a good working margin.

That Cochran did not go out and put the game on ice while Hoppe was floundering around, unable to get going, was due in no small measure to the fact that Willie spread quite a bit of "oil" on the troubled waters. When the champion missed he left Cochran very little to shoot at. Cochran, too, until the twenty-first inning, devoted more time than he should have done to playing safe.

Cochran Runs 92.

In the twenty-first inning Cochran cut loose and made his best run of the day, a cluster of 92. It was good billiards; in fact, next to Hoppe's 101, in the second canto, it was the best billiards of the game. He might have run out the game but for an unfortunate line-up that caused him to play a two-cushion shot out of the corner.

It looked very much as if Hoppe would run out the game in his twenty-first inning. He needed forty-five points and he started out as if he intended to get them. But after he made eleven points the balls lined up on the short rail at the foot of the table. All three of them were frozen to the cushion. Hoppe tried to massé his ball through the first object ball, but failed. He was fortunate in leaving the balls safe. Cochran confronted a direct line-up. He tried a force massé, but it failed. Then Hoppe, in his twenty-second inning, made the thirty-four more points that he needed to clinch the game.

Welker Cochran defeated Young Jake Schaefer in the afternoon game by a score of 400 to 338. The winner averaged 21 1-19 while Schaefer averaged 17 15-19. Cochran played much better billiards than his rival. He seemed to have better control of the balls and seldom got the line-ups that kept Schaefer from making a better score. Schaefer played like a man who was "cold." He was erratic, and while he made many good shots during the game he was far from being as consistent as Cochran in his scoring. The averages show that neither of the players was at the top of his game; a fact which may be attributed to the new cloth, the new balls and a slight draft which blew into the Grand Ball Room and had a tendency to keep the balls chilled.

Cochran seemed to have a better idea of the table and the condition of the balls than Schaefer, and to this his victory can be attributed. Schaefer played spasmodic billiards and seldom was able to get the balls rolling favorably. His position play was his greatest fault. The balls continued to line up on him and he was compelled to play massé and one-cushion shots in preference to position shots, with which Cochran was able to make his runs uniformally high.

Cochran Makes Mistakes.

Cochran, on the other hand, might have won by a much wider margin had he been a little more careful in his judgment in getting the balls out of balk. In the eighth inning his run of 84 ended when he failed to drive the second object ball out of balk. In the ninth inning he again was guilty of the same error. He had made 51 points and had the balls in perfect position and was trying to ease the second object ball over the balkline when it failed to roll far enough, and he sacrificed any further chance he had to score in that inning. Both of these openings gave Schaefer a chance to start runs, for he found the balls in perfect position for close manipulation. At these times his execution was very good and it looked as if he might materially cut down the lead that Cochran had gained, not through particularly good billiard playing but through lapses on the part of Schaefer.

Schaefer won the bank at the start. The son of the late "Wizard" gathered the balls quickly and, while his stroke seemed to lack much of its accustomed smoothness, he was able to hold the balls together in the lower left hand corner for a run of 28. It was all close work and was productive of some pretty single cushion shots and delicate massés. He finally missed by fouling the red ball.

Cochran seemed possessed of a wealth of confidence as he stepped to the table for his first inning. He found the balls in good position. He was in good stroke and soon was launched upon a robust run that netted him 88 points before he missed on a bank shot after the balls had lined up on him and were in such position that a massé was impossible. Cochran showed fine judgment of speed. Not more than twice during the run was he compelled to drive either of the object balls the length of the table.

Schaefer seemed to lose his stroke entirely after his first effort and for the next six innings he was able to accomplish next to nothing. The balls rolled badly and a series of line-ups greeted his effort. He counted but 24 points during those six discouraging rounds, his best run being nine.

In the eighth inning, however, he recovered his stride and managed to click off 59 buttons before a kiss deprived him of a difficult single cushion carom. He followed in the ninth with a cluster of 44. Until his fortieth shot Schaefer had command of the balls, but then they got away from him and finally, after his forty-fourth shot, they were spread as widely as the confines of the table would permit, one object ball being in a corner at the head of the table while the other nestled at the foot. He had then made a total of 155.

By the time the tenth inning was reached Schaefer was playing much better balkline than Cochran. In the eighth, ninth and tenth rounds Schaefer amassed the decidedly luscious total of 195 points by making three runs of 59, 44 and 92. During the same time Cochran had collected 138. Schaefer's run of 92 in the tenth was the best billiards that had been seen up to that time.

Harvard Nine Picks Atlanta As Spring Training Camp

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 6.—The Crimson baseball team will go to Atlanta, Ga., for Spring training, it was announced tonight. The authorities of Georgia Tech have offered the Harvard team the use of the baseball diamond and the gymnasium during its stay at Atlanta, which will be but four or five days, according to plans, and games will be played with Georgia Tech, University of Georgia and probably Oglethorpe University.

The start will be made April 16, and on the return trip a game is scheduled with Columbia at New York on April 23.

GIANTS TO RETURN TO SAN ANTONIO

Alamo City Will Be Training Base in 1921—Yanks Likely to Select Shreveport.

The selection of San Antonio, Texas, as the training base of the Giants next Spring was announced yesterday by Secretary Joseph D. O'Brien of the New York Club. The announcement followed the receipt of a letter from President H. J. Benson of the San Antonio club that the Chamber of Commerce of the Alamo City had agreed to make certain improvements on the clubhouse, as requested by Manager John McGraw.

Lack of sufficient quarters for the small army of players and an inadequate heating system were the only flaws to an otherwise perfect training campaign by the Giants last Spring. Weather and hotel conditions were all that McGraw could desire, and when he said farewell to San Antonio his team was as fit as any team could be. Before starting for home the leader of the Giants was invited to return, but he hesitated owing to the lack of space in the clubhouse. He finally agreed to return if improvements were made, and the decision of the Chamber of Commerce is the result. Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees, who trained several years at San Antonio while a member of the St. Louis Cardinals and later trained his St. Louis teams in that city, always has maintained that the Alamo City is the best training spot in the South.

Further details of the Giants' training campaign will not be announced until Manager McGraw returns next week from Cuba. It is understood, however, that the players will be assembled about March 1. The Giants' manager also has gone on record as opposed to any such jaunt as his team engaged in last year while making the journey from Texas to the Polo Grounds. A few exhibition games are to be played on the homeward route, but probably not more than six or seven. The team will be able to make a longer stay in San Antonio than was the case last Spring.

Business Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankees yesterday received a report from Bob Connery, who was assigned to select a training camp site for Miller Huggins's troupe. Connery spent several days at Shreveport and he sent in a very favorable report on the city, and favorable, in fact, that Barrow declared it probably would be the address of Babe Ruth and supporting cast during the greater part of next March. Connery reported that prominent citizens of Shreveport were enthusiastic about having the Yanks visit their city, and that arrangements had been made whereby the park of the Shreveport club, a member of the Texas League, would be at the disposal of the New York players. In the meantime the Shreveport players would work out on the fair grounds in another section of the city. Hotel arrangements, an important feature of training camp selection, leave nothing to be desired, according to the scout's report.

Connery left Shreveport to arrange for a nearby camp for the Brooklyn club, and if he can find one not too far from Shreveport the Yankee owners will close for the city so highly recommended. Alexandria is the first stop on Connery's itinerary and there is a strong likelihood that it will be the last, as that city has a good park and good hotels. Both Alexandria and Shreveport have been visited by major league clubs in recent years. The two cities are only a few hours apart by rail and it will be possible for the Yanks and Robins to arrange a series of exhibition games in each city before they break camp. It is Connery's mission to find two cities with proper facilities and near enough to provide short jumps for exhibition games.

A strong drift from the eastern seaboard toward Texas is apparent in the training plans being announced for next Spring. The Cincinnati Reds trained last Spring at Miami but the coming March will find Moran's men at Cisco, Tex. The shift of the Yankees and Robins is virtually assured, leaving Washington as the only club to return to Florida of the four which trained there last March. The Senators worked out at Tampa and are expected to go back there. Clark Griffith is in California and no official announcement of training plans has been made. Florida is sure of another team, however, as the Phillies are to train at Gainesville.

Indications now point to Texas being the choice of more clubs in 1921 than any State ever entertained in a single year. Four Texas cities already have been selected for training purposes—the Giants going to San Antonio, the Cardinals to Orange, the Reds to Cisco, and the White Sox to Waxahachie. It is regarded as next to a certainty that at least three other clubs will have camps in the Lone Star State. The Cleveland club has passed up New Orleans and Tris Speaker is supposed to be working on bringing his world's champions to his native State. The St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers are expected to train in Texas, the announcements being held up until managers are named for these two clubs. With the Mackmen training at Lake Charles, La., the Red Sox and Pirates at Hot Springs, and the Yankees and Robins in Louisiana cities not a great distance from the Texas border the majority of major league clubs will be more closely bunched next March than they have been during the training campaign of any previous year. Only the Braves, Phillies and Senators remain in the Eastern section and the Cubs will take the usual jaunt to Pasadena, Cal.

President George W. Grant of the Boston Nationals was a visitor at Yankee headquarters yesterday and he took occasion to ridicule the recent report that Rabbit Maranville is slated to be traded to either the Pirates or the Giants.

"I know that almost any major league club would be glad to make a deal for Maranville," commented Grant, "but I want to say positively that no deal is under way at this time, or is a trade likely to be made. Of course, I would be willing at any time to make a deal that will strengthen the Braves, but the other owners have yet to make an offer for Maranville that would make my club stronger. The position has been made to me recently and I am satisfied that Maranville will be a member of the Braves in 1921. Trading Maranville is getting to be as much of a joke as selling the Red Sox, or selling Hornsby. It is a popular pastime every Winter and each deal is announced without consulting the owner."

Rumors have been in circulation that a joint meeting of major league club owners is to be held here next week, but no official call for such a meeting has been sent out. On Friday next there will be a conference of the major and minor league committees instructed with the task of drawing up a new agreement, this meeting to be presided over by Judge K. M. Landis. The National League committee consists of Messrs. Herrmann, Ebbets and Dreyfuss, and the American League trio is made up of Messrs. Navin, Dunn and Shibe. Six minor leaguers will take part in the deliberations.

On Monday next the International League will hold its annual meeting in this city and on the following day the National League will go into session. The annual meeting of the American League will be held during the same week, but the New York owners have not received any notice as to whether it will be held here or in Chicago. These meetings usually are held in the latter city.

NEW JERSEY NAMES SMITH.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 6.—Chairman John S. Smith of the New Jersey Boxing Commission has been appointed by Governor Edwards to represent this State at the coming convention under the auspices of the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Boxing Control in New York City late this month. The convention has been called with a view to organizing a national body for the improvemnet and general regulation of boxing throughout the country.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6.—Pennsylvania State is the almost certain opponent in a home and home series of football games with the Naval Academy, the arrangements being the same as those between the Academy and Princeton. However, State will regard Philadelphia as its home camp for the purpose of these games and the contest will take place there next year if the arrangement is completed. Penn State is a much-valued opponent of the Navy in several branches of athletics. The game will probably be played Oct. 29 or Nov. 5, Princeton playing at Annapolis on Oct. 15. The game against the Military Academy will be played on Nov. 26 and it will undoubtedly be played in New York, as West Point has the naming of the place. The agreement for the games between the Army and Navy teams includes the contests of 1921 and 1922.

JUDGMENT AGAINST MAJORS REVERSED

Baltimore's $264,000 Verdict in Anti-Trust Suit Annulled by District Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The District Court of Appeals today reversed the recent judgment for $264,000 granted by the District Supreme Court against the major baseball leagues in favor of the Baltimore Federal League Club, which claimed a violation of the anti-trust laws, by the use of the "reserve clause" in the players' contracts.

The Appellate Court held that playing baseball did not constitute commerce as defined by United States Supreme Court decisions and that the anti-trust law did not apply. The "reserve clause" imposed restrictions, the court held, which related directly to the conservation of the personnel of the clubs and did not affect the movements of the Federal League clubs. Any ill effect was merely accidental, the court found.

Counsel for the Baltimore Club announced that an attempt would be made to carry the case to the Supreme Court for review.

A verdict for $80,000 was awarded by the jury when the former Federal League club's contention was upheld in the lower court. As provided by the anti-trust laws, the amount of the judgment was tripled and an attorney's fee of $24,000 was added, bringing the total judgment up to $264,000.

THREE-I LEAGUE INTACT.

Cedar Rapids Reconsiders Its Idea of Withdrawing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The Three-I baseball League will remain unchanged next season, club owners meeting here today decided, after the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, club which had considered withdrawing because of the 500-mile railroad trip to Evansville and Terre Haute, Ind., had decided to remain in the league. Efforts to form an Iowa and Western Illinois League, with Cedar Rapids as a nucleus, failed.

Evansville led the league last year in attendance, it was announced, with 52,843 paid admissions. Bloomington, Ill., the pennant winner, ran a close second with 52,502.

The season last Summer was the most successful in the history of the organization. The total attendance at the games played by the eight clubs being 453,165. President Al Kearney reported that the league's financial affairs had been handled so successfully that there was now $7,800 in the treasury. One hundred and forty games will constitute the next schedule, opening the first week in May and running through to October.

It became known today that Joseph Dunn of Springfield, Ohio, who, it was announced yesterday, had signed to manage the Bloomington team at what was said to be "one of the highest salaries paid a minor league manager," would receive approximately $4,000 for the five months season.

KIECKHEFER IS VICTOR.

Qualifies for Finals in Three-Cushion Tourney at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago tonight qualified for the finals for the national three cushion billiard championship by defeating Pierre Maupome of Milwaukee in the last game of the play-off of the four cornered tie for third place in the preliminary matches. Kieckhefer, after losing before the brilliant playing of Maupome in the afternoon game by a 50 to 48 score, came back in the night contest and won 50 to 48 in fifty-three innings. Each man had a high run of six.

The victory game gave Kieckhefer the third place prize of $700, as well as the right to play in the finals against Robert Cannefax, present title holder. Playing with Kieckhefer and Cannefax will be John Layton of St. Louis and Clarence Jackson of Kansas City. The finals will start tomorrow night.

PROTEST IS DISALLOWED.

The protest on the manner of running the recent metropolitan A. A. U. 300-yard championship race at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, entered by S. G. Hosmer, Glencoe A. C. Athletic Committee Chairman, was disallowed last night when it came up for action at a meeting of the local championship committee, of which Herman Obertubbesing is Chairman. The Championship Committee leader announced after the meeting that Mr. Hosmer had submitted his complaint more for the purpose of attracting attention to a violation of the A. A. U. rules than with the idea of protesting the result of the race. The Glencoe official submitted that the race had been run contrary to the rule which demands that lanes be provided for every championship race at any distance under and including 300 yards.

A discussion of the point brought out that its was practically impossible to follow this rule in a strict sense in indoor meets. The difficulty lies in the restrictions in force at the armories where practically all of the meets are held. It is impossible, Chairman Obertubbesing said, to secure permission to drive stakes in the drill shed floors, as is specified in the rule. Efforts have been made, so far as physically possible, to conform to the spirit of the rule in some armories by placing flat boards in such positions as to make them serve the purpose of lanes, and on other occasions the sprinting paths have been marked by kalsomine on the armory floors. Chairman Obertubbesing declared that the A. A. U. officials would continue their practice of endeavoring to comply as far as possible with the rule.

QUINBY FLAYS YALE FOOTBALL METHODS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 6.—Frank L. Quinby, former Yale baseball coach and captain, said in the Alumni weekly today that the university demands drastic changes in its football system, that it is ten years behind the times and far below Harvard and Princeton standards.

"Is there anything wrong with Yale football?" asks Quinby, who praises Al Sharpe. "The undergraduate of tcday may say there is not, but to us older men, six defeats by Harvard in the last seven contests, and two straight by Princeton would certainly indicate that much is wrong. I am not an expert, but since 1891 I have seen practically all of Yale's football teams play in most of the big games and have always followed the game closely.

"Granting all the power and defensive strength of these recent Yale teams, we are below the Prineton and Harvard standard today, as proved by the season's showing. Yale is ten years behind the times in football. We have no team offense worthy the name. At best, the last two Yale teams could score perhaps one touchdown and a field goal in sixty minutes of play, by hard, gruelling, line-breaking plays off tackle from a fake-kick formation, but with no good passes, no hidden ball, no real strategy. The opponent could usually score two or three times, even against our powerful defense, by passes or field goals.

"Some one must be held accountable for Yale's lack of progress since the new rules were effected. Our material is the very best, but I understand this year's team was much overworked prior to the Princeton game and could not do itself justice.

"Wake up, Yale, standing pat on shifting sands is a dangerous policy, get an up-to-date man to lead us. We had one in Al Sharpe, he proved it at Cornell, but when he got to New Haven something happened. The same old Yale ice wagon operated and we lost and changed our leader. We have no system, no patience and we must have both."

HARVARD WON'T MEET ARMY.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 6.—The Harvard football team will not play the Army eleven next year, it was announced tonight. The Army refused to place the Crimson on its schedule for 1921, the Harvard authorities said, as the Harvard team could not promise a return game at West Point in 1922 on account of a Faculty ruling.

Fred Moore, Harvard's graduate manager, said today that it was probable that the request of the University of Indiana for a place on next year's schedule would be granted, the game to be played on Oct. 8.

MOUNTAINEERS SEEK COACH

Athletic Board Reported Dissatisfied With McIntyre's Work.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 6.—West Virginia is on the lookout for a new football coach, according to report here today. Tubby McIntyre has led the Mountaineers to many successes in the past six years, but there are rumors of dissatisfaction over the past season and the Athletic Board made no appointment for the position at this meeting last night.

COACH NAMES TANK TEAM.

Coach Ed Kennedy yesterday named the Columbia swimming team that will face C. C. N. Y. on Friday night in the opening meet of the intercollegiate league season. The coach is still handicapped by the absence of several varsity swimmers and one diver. The chief loss is that of Polk in the 220-yard swim. The veteran is still barred by scholastic difficulties, but Kennedy believes the ban will be lifted before Friday's meet. De Fronzo, a diver, is suffering from a twisted ankle suffered on the football field.

The relay team as nominated by Kennedy will be made up of Crystal, Eberhardt, Bernard and Balback. The first three are veterans of last year, and Balback is a diver who won a place on the American Olympic swimming team. He will also take part in the dives, along with De Fronzo, if the latter recovers from his injury, and a third man yet to be selected. In the 50-yard dash Crystal will swim and Eberhardt will represent the Blue and White in the century. Mahar will be the chief plunger.

Of the championship water polo team of last season four and possibly five veterans will start against the City College aggregation. They will be Captain Kindleberger, Simmons, Salmon and Rogers. The fifth man may be Jack Hyde, last year's Captain. Another promising player is Ed Myers, football tackle. There are twenty candidates for the polo team.

McCARTHY NOW A MANAGER.

Connie McCarthy, for years trainer of Joe Lynch, west side bantamweight, has branched out as a full-fledged manager of boxers. McCarthy has undertaken to guide the ring destinies of Babe Asher, St. Louis bantamweight, and Georgie Brown, a west side lightweight. McCarthy has been partly responsible for the remarkable rise to popularity achieved by Lynch, and despite his interest in a rival ring midget still entertains the belief that Lynch is the country's leading bantamweight.

BOXERS ESCAPE PENALTIES.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—The Cleveland Boxing Commission, at a special meeting tonight, declined to take any action against Pal Moore of Memphis and Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, bantamweights, for the cancellation of their scheduled ten-round bout here last Thursday night.

Tremaine was one pound over the prescribed weight, 119 pounds at 3 o'clock, and Moore, who tipped the beam at about 116, refused to concede the extra weight.

WILLARD'S CHILDREN ILL.

Quarantining of Ex-Champion's Home May Affect His Training.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 6.—Jess Willard's training to meet the winner of the Dempsey-Brennan fight may be interrupted by a quarantine placed today on his home, west of here.

The former heavyweight champion's three children contracted diphtheria and the attending physician quarantined the house. The quarantine will stand until the patients have recovered.

O'Dowd Wins Philadelphia Bout.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul beat Len Rawlins of Philadelphia in an eight-round bout here tonight. The match was hard and fast throughout. Joe Jackson of Philadelphia defeated Johnnie Summers of New York in a fast eight-round semi-final.

Leader—Brocco.

The wildest orgy of bicycle riding ever produced in the first twenty-four hours of a six-day race here closed with midnight last night in the twenty-ninth annual international grind at Madison Square Garden. Jam followed jam with remarkable frequency in that throbbing round of the clock, and made raving maniacs of some 5,000 spectators in the afternoon and 11,000 fans in the evening. Seldom before had Madison Square Garden witnessed such pandemonium as that which was loosed when the orgy of hard riding ended as the first day of the grind drew to a close.

The crowd to a man, and to a woman, too, gave itself up to one of those demonstrations of approving acclaim which are characteristic of the annual race. This outburst, however, in its volume completely overshadowed anything in the memory of the oldest race attendant. Hats and coats were thrown indiscriminately through the smoke-laden air, and newspapers, programs and anything else that happened to be within reach and movable, were sent in showers from the gallery occupants. While the standees in the arena infield danced several assorted jigs and jazzes in an outburst which transformed the Garden into a bedlam.

Brocco Steals Lap Twice.

All the clamor was caused by Maurice Brocco, sensational Italian rider, and his American partner, Willie Coburn, starting at 11:10 and continuing through eleven minutes of furious riding which had the crowd yelling hoarsely in thunderous approval. This pair of cyclists tore over the board saucer at a dizzy pace until they had lapped the entire field. It was Brocco who finished the lap with a broad grin of triumph on his face, madly and recklessly waving a white woolen skullcap which he tore jubilantly from his head in spontaneous response to the acclaim of his admirers. The gaining of this lap by Brocco and Coburn gave the pair their second lap of the day. Early in the afternoon session the two riders went off on a speed spree, which did not end until they had pulled up a complete circuit in front of the field. They held this lead until 10:15 in the evening, when Cesar Debaets and Aloise Persyn, a Belgian team, broke forth in a spectacular dash and, after five minutes of intensive riding, attained an equal footing with Brocco and Coburn. This occurred during the evening sprints for points, and threw the crowd into ecstacies.

After the sprints Julius Vanhevel and Henry Vandenburgh, another Belgian team, started a "jam," in which they almost gained a lap. The coveted circuit was snatched from them, however, when they were within a few wheel lengths of the rear of the field, and Brocco suddenly shot out on the banked track in a mad sprint for a lap.

Team Gains Ground Rapidly.

Round and round the saucer sped Brocco and Coburn in alternation, relieving each other at two-lap intervals, and picking up precious ground with each circuit of the track. When Brocco finally pulled up the proud possessor of a lap margin on his rivals a shout was sent up which must have been heard for blocks around.

After the mad scramble the judges announced that Brocco and Coburn were one lap ahead of one team, two laps ahead of ten other combinations, and three laps in front of two other pairs. The Italian-American team led Debaets and Persyn by one circuit, had two laps each on Egg and McNamara, Verri and Belloni, Van Nek and Miquel, Bedell and Thomas, Taylor and Smith, Byron and Staehle, Piani and Leen, Dossche and Vandivelve, and Spears and Lawrence. The teams of Grimm and Young and the Suter brothers were each three laps back of the mad-riding Brocco and Coburn.

Because of the mad riding the field of fifteen original starting teams has been decreased by the withdrawal of two combinations. Frank Kramer, veteran of the steel mount in sprint races but a failure at the six-day grind, was the first to withdraw. He retired at 10:45, leaving his partner, Willie Spencer, without a mate. Spencer was granted the customary four hours in which to secure a new partner.

At 11:30 Anthony Young, the former amateur, was forced out of the race on the advice of a physician, who warned of possible dangerous results from injuries sustained by Young in a spill in the afternoon. This left Thomas Grimm, Young's partner, without a mate, and he, too, was given the usual four hours respite in which to look for a riding mate. If either Spencer or Grimm returns with a partner they will be penalized a lap for the new amalgamation.

Persyn started the sensational outbreak in the evening which ended with the attainment of the lap and put the team on even terms with Brocco and Coburn. As the riders were easing up after the eighth sprint the Belgian speed marvel suddenly shot away from the rest and tore over the broad saucer at a terrific speed. His first jump carried Persyn about twenty yards in front and he continued without let up until he had a lead of a third of a lap. The crowd was wild and yelled itself hoarse as the Belgian tore over the track in his mad bid for distinction. Debaets relieved him and while not as fast as Persyn, nevertheless held the lead while his mate got a short rest. Revived and strengthened for the task, Persyn soon again returned to the track and resumed his spectacular burst of speed riding while the other cyclists gave pursuit, with Brocco showing the way, alternating with Egg and Spears. Two more Debaets relieved him during the five minutes of sensational riding before Persyn finally caught up with the field. After a short delay it was officially announced that the pair had gained a lap and the crowd almost lifted the roof off the structure with its approving shout.

The session of frenzied riding which resulted in the annexation of a lap by Brocco and Coburn started at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Young Vanhevel was the innocent cause of all the trouble, which attracted every rider in the race to the track while the speed burst was on. At times it was difficult to follow the progress of the cyclists tearing madly about the saucer pursuing ambitious riders whose one great aim was to draw on even terms with Brocco and Coburn. In fact, it appeared that several other teams had held to the flying wheels of Brocco and Coburn as each alternated in the mad riding, but the judges refused to permit gains by any other teams except Brocco and Coburn on the ground that the other cyclists had been guilty of illegal pickups.

Mitchell Given Draw With Britton.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 6.—Pinkey Mitchell, who has stepped into the ranks of the welterweight boxers, held Jack Britton, title holder, to a draw in a ten-round, no decision contest here tonight, according to several sporting writers.

NAME POLOISTS FOR MATCHES IN BRITAIN

Rumsey and Hopping Will Be Held In Reserve—Fifty Ponies to Be Shipped to England.

America is to be represented in England next June by a sextette of clever, hard riding, aggressive polo players, when the international championship matches at the famous Hurlingham polo field. H. L. Herbert, Secretary of the Polo Association of America, yesterday announced that Louis E. Stoddard, Thomas Hitchcock Jr., J. Watson Webb and Devereux Milburn were the regulars selected to represent this country. Charles C. Rumsey and Earl W. Hopping will be the substitutes.

It is probable that the lineup will be in the order named. In the Senior Championships, held last Autumn at Meadow Brook, L. I., Stoddard played at No. 1 on the Rockaway team, while Hitchcock, Webb and Milburn played at No. 2, No. 3 and back respectively, on the Meadow Brook quartette. Rumsey played at No. 1 on the Meadow Brook team while Hopping was at No. 2 on Rockaway.

In polo circles it is believed that were any accident to occur to Stoddard at No. 1, his place would be taken by Rumsey, while Hopping would take the place of either Hitchcock or Webb at Nos. 2 or 3. If Milburn, at back, were unable to play from any cause, it is probable that his place would be taken by Hitchcock, while Hopping would go in the latter's place, or Webb would take Hitchcock's position at No. 2 and Hopping would play at No. 3.

Will Send Fifty Ponies.

Mr. Herbert also announced that fifty ponies were being shipped to England, and that they represent the equine factor of the game nearly as ably as the players do the human factor. The ponies will be conditioned and trained from the time of their arrival by a corps of capable attendants, so that when the American players arrive next Spring all will be in readiness for serious practice to begin.

Mr. Herbert said that grounds and stables have been obtained in England, where the ponies are to be taken and practiced until the season opens. Practice is expected to start next April. According to Mr. Herbert, there is no such thing as underrating the competition the American team is expected to meet in the Hurlingham matches. The British players are known to be top notchers, of the very highest calibre, and their ponies are about all that any polo enthusiast could desire, all of which insures a grand battle for international supremacy next June.

Practically all of the American players, including the substitutes, will keep in practice during the Winter months, some of them expecting to play in Florida, while others are to spend at least a portion of the Winter in California where the game is played throughout the entire Winter. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., who is the selection for position No. 2, is at present a student at Oxford University and it is more than possible he will find time to get in some practice with the American string of ponies when they arrive.

Advices received from England indicate that the Hurlingham-America Cup Defense Committee is actively engaged in preparing for the international competition. Representatives of the committee have visited Ireland with the idea of testing the best available ponies and their quest is said to have been productive of satisfactory results. It is the general belief that the best ponies in all Britain are now in the possession of the players, including those on the British team and others. Practically all of the polo enthusiasts who possess good mounts but are not among the "Big Four", have offered to place their ponies at the service of the committee.

British Ponies in Training.

After a busy playing season most of the ponies that appealed to the British committee were turned out in pasture for a much-needed rest, but many of the ponies already have been sent to the training schools, the chief one of which is at Tidworth, where large schools and downs will facilitate the work of getting the ponies fit.

Members of the British team and substitutes will start in practice as soon as the weather conditions permit, and in order that all the players may get the most practice possible, grounds as near London as possible will be selected for that work. It is expected that this practice will start early in March. On other occasions British teams and ponies have been sent abroad to places where all Winter practice was possible, but nothing of the sort is to be done this year, as it is believed that between March and the middle of June sufficient time exists in which to get both ponies and players up to concert pitch. In this respect the American team will have some slight advantage as regards practice, because of the Winter tournaments in Florida and California in which most of the team will participate.

According to the English Polo Committee's intentions, it will select eight players, thus providing a complete reserve, which it believes is more necessary in polo than in any other game, owing to the possibility of casualties at the eleventh hour.

Eight ponies for each player is considered by the British authorities to be about the required number, although it is a recognized fact that most of the players place their dependence chiefly on three or four ponies at most. But, as in the case of the players, the game has its casualties as regards ponies, too, and eight each is estimated to be a safe number. With eight men, including regulars and substitutes, that means a string of sixty-four ponies in the British ménage.

Seats in Demand Already.

At this early time the Hurlingham executives have been inundated with applications for seats for the international matches, and these applications have come from many countries other than England, including America, Canada and even far-off India, which indicates the interest taken in the event. This advance demand is said to be giving the officials some concern, for it is doubted whether or not the seating accommodations of the club and special stands will meet the demand.

Mr. Herbert, in speaking of the polo situation here in America, said it was in a most flourishing condition, due chiefly to the greatly increased interest in the sport in army circles. He said that at many army posts, particularly in the South, the game was being played extensively, Fort Sam Houston, at San Antonio, Texas, being one of the most active centres, while at Fort Myer, and even at West Point, the game has attracted unusual attention during the last year.

Most of the army posts are represented at the big polo tournament on the Pacific Coast this Winter. While indoor polo differs in some respects from the outdoor game, there being but three men to a side and the playing fields being much smaller, still it is doing more than its share toward popularizing the sport this year, and the tournament held in Madison Square Garden during the National Horse Show demonstrated its popularity by attracting much larger crowds than the management of that show had reason to expect.

At the present time, in the metropolitan district there are many indoor polo teams actively engaged in practice preparatory to the indoor polo season. Nearly every day several teams have their practice at Durland's Riding Academy, while the Riding Club, on East Fifty-eighth Street, also has taken up the game with a vengeance, as has the Riding and Driving Club of Brooklyn, to say nothing of the activities of Squadron A.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6.—Jockey Frank Coltiletti, who made a spectacular ride here a year ago, when he led the riders for the Winter season, is making another effort to outshine his rivals. At the present time he is slightly in the lead, having ridden eight winners. Coltiletti is under contract to S. A. Clopton, who has one of the strongest racing stables here, including as it does, a number of cast-offs from the H. P. Whitney string. With the prospect of so many good mounts, Coltiletti should again make a strong bid for the riding honors.

MARION HOLLINS IS WINNER AT HAVANA

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 6.—The track at Oriental Park today began to show some improvement, but is still in very poor condition. The best time of the afternoon was that of Frascuelo, winner of the fifth race at five and a half furlongs in 1:12 2-5, which is the fastest time here in nearly a week.

The program today was handed over to the cheaper grade of platers, but, despite their inferior class they produced rattling good contests. Marion Hollins, the Eastern mare, making her Cuban début, raced in clever style. Marion Hollins was an odds-on favorite. She attempted to make a runaway race of it by rushing into a lead of fifteen lengths, but in the last furlong began to back up. She managed to hang on long enough to win, however, by half a length. Bulger was fast wearing her down and would have won in a few more strides.

Frascuelo, with Jimmy Butwell in the saddle, brought the odds-on choice down in front in the fifth race, leading a fairly good bunch of mud-runners. Sleepy Dear galloped off with the opening event, winning by four lengths. The second event went to Lui-Meme, second choice, and the third race was won by Liberty Bond. Hocnir won the closing event.

Goldstone and Marty Lou also ran.

Bunga Comes from Behind

Madeline Lillian took the lead turning into the stretch and raced in front the sixteenth pole where Bunga Buck which had been permitted to drop far out of it in the early running, closed with a sudden rush and got up to catch the leader and finish in front by a head.

There was no visable excuse for Parader in the early running, as he was well up with the pacemaker, but at the turn into the stretch Coltiletti allowed him to run out and he lost so much ground that he finished third, two lengths back of the winner. Alcatraz, the other starter, appeared to dislike the going and would not extend himself. He was outrun all the way and trailed in pulled up.

The Floriant Stable had better luck in the fourth race, an allowance affair at six furlongs, in which Redmon scored a handy victory over Lad's Love and Uncle's Lassie, among others. Redmon was a slight favorite at post time over Lad's Love, they having opened equal choices. As the horses turned into the stretch it appeared that Lad's Love was the winner, but Lad's Love swerved suddenly toward the inner rail and not only lost his chance to win the race but was just able to save second place under a hard drive.

Redmon was in front from the start, but after opening up a gap of three lengths he began to tire in the stretch and Lad's Love was fast overhauling him. The latter was within a head of the leader when he swerved. Redmon was able to go on and win by nearly two lengths, while Uncle's Lassie made a strong bid for the place. The Swimmer was weaker handed and was taken wide throughout the race. He closed fast in the stretch, but was too far out of it to catch the leaders.

The six-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds which opened the card went to S. A. Clopton's Dannell, which was by far the best of the ten youngsters that faced the barrier.

Dannell ran in improved form and appeared to be well pleased with the condition of the track. He rushed into a long lead at the start and was six lengths in front of the nearest contender as he turned for home. He was never fully extended and was being eased up at the end. Tom Roach moved up with a rush after the first quarter and took second from Pimlico in a driving finish. Dora W. and Echoland showed plenty of speed for half a mile, but both dropped out of it in the stretch. Dora W. began to sprawl in the stretch and apparently could not run on the sloppy track.

Resist was another mud runner that took advantage of the conditions to register a victory. He scored easily in the second race at six furlongs and won at 4 to 1, while Lancelot, the favorite was not among the first three. Lancelot had the lead for half a mile, but tired badly and Resist moved to the front and drew away without much effort. Opportunity closed fast and took second with Cobald Lass third.

Harvey Smarr was much the best of a field of platers that contended in the mile event and won by six lengths from Madras Gingham, with Nebraska third. Madras Gingham had all the speed for six furlongs, but the winner came from far behind with a rush and drew away easily in the final sixteenth.

The sixth race, also at a mile, went to Rapid Stride which had to be hard ridden at the end to save the victory from Prunes. Poultney was third. Rapid Stride appeared to be an easy winner rounding the turn, but weakened and had to be hustled as Prunes closed stoutly.

Lady Mountjoy accounted for the final event at a mile and a sixteenth by defeating, among others, Miss Filly and Dahabiah II. Search Light III. was in front to the head of the stretch, where he quit utterly and finished last.

The final was to have been played yesterday, but was postponed because of conflicting engagements of the principals. The match will be decided in the best three games out of five.

Three matches in the continuation of play for Class B team honors in the Metropolitan Squash Tennis League will be played this afternoon, the D. K. E. Club meeting the Harvard Club on the latter's courts, the Crescent A. C. appearing at the Yale Club, while the Army and Navy seven is scheduled to oppose the Columbia Club team.

NEW ORLEANS TRACK FAVORS MUDLARKS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 6.—The hopes for a bright day and a better track at Jefferson Park were shattered this afternoon when a steady rain set in and turned the already heavy course into a sea of mud and water. The inclement weather not only kept down the attendance but it resulted in wholesale scratching of entries with the result that the fields were small and the mud larks were particularly favored.

The Maurepas Handicap, a five and a half furlong dash for two-year-olds, was the feature of the card, and this resulted in one of the most conspicious upsets of hte day when S. A. Clopton's Parader, and the Florisant Stable's Ras, both heavily played, failed their backers miserably, while Mrs. M. Dattner's Bunga Buck won at 12 to 1.

Though there were but five starters the field contained some of the best juveniles here, and the race turned out to be a good contest despite the fact that it was a disappointment to the backers of the two heavily supported horses. Ras left the barrier with a rush and gave every evidence of performing as a favorite should. For half a mile he set a fast pace considering the condition of the track. But at that point he decided he had had enough of pace making and began to slow up and gradually dropped back until he finished fourth.

Madeline Lillian took the lead turning into the stretch and raced in front the sixteenth pole where Bunga Buck which had been permitted to drop far out of it in the early running, closed with a sudden rush and got up to catch the leader and finish in front by a head.

There was no visable excuse for Parader in the early running, as he was well up with the pacemaker, but at the turn into the stretch Coltiletti allowed him to run out and he lost so much ground that he finished third, two lengths back of the winner. Alcatraz, the other starter, appeared to dislike the going and would not extend himself. He was outrun all the way and trailed in pulled up.

The Floriant Stable had better luck in the fourth race, an allowance affair at six furlongs, in which Redmon scored a handy victory over Lad's Love and Uncle's Lassie, among others. Redmon was a slight favorite at post time over Lad's Love, they having opened equal choices. As the horses turned into the stretch it appeared that Lad's Love was the winner, but Lad's Love swerved suddenly toward the inner rail and not only lost his chance to win the race but was just able to save second place under a hard drive.

Redmon was in front from the start, but after opening up a gap of three lengths he began to tire in the stretch and Lad's Love was fast overhauling him. The latter was within a head of the leader when he swerved. Redmon was able to go on and win by nearly two lengths, while Uncle's Lassie made a strong bid for the place. The Swimmer was weaker handed and was taken wide throughout the race. He closed fast in the stretch, but was too far out of it to catch the leaders.

The six-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds which opened the card went to S. A. Clopton's Dannell, which was by far the best of the ten youngsters that faced the barrier.

Dannell ran in improved form and appeared to be well pleased with the condition of the track. He rushed into a long lead at the start and was six lengths in front of the nearest contender as he turned for home. He was never fully extended and was being eased up at the end. Tom Roach moved up with a rush after the first quarter and took second from Pimlico in a driving finish. Dora W. and Echoland showed plenty of speed for half a mile, but both dropped out of it in the stretch. Dora W. began to sprawl in the stretch and apparently could not run on the sloppy track.

Resist was another mud runner that took advantage of the conditions to register a victory. He scored easily in the second race at six furlongs and won at 4 to 1, while Lancelot, the favorite was not among the first three. Lancelot had the lead for half a mile, but tired badly and Resist moved to the front and drew away without much effort. Opportunity closed fast and took second with Cobald Lass third.

Harvey Smarr was much the best of a field of platers that contended in the mile event and won by six lengths from Madras Gingham, with Nebraska third. Madras Gingham had all the speed for six furlongs, but the winner came from far behind with a rush and drew away easily in the final sixteenth.

The sixth race, also at a mile, went to Rapid Stride which had to be hard ridden at the end to save the victory from Prunes. Poultney was third. Rapid Stride appeared to be an easy winner rounding the turn, but weakened and had to be hustled as Prunes closed stoutly.

Lady Mountjoy accounted for the final event at a mile and a sixteenth by defeating, among others, Miss Filly and Dahabiah II. Search Light III. was in front to the head of the stretch, where he quit utterly and finished last.

Golf Match Is Played in Wales Over 20-Mile Course

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A cross-country golf match, unique in the annals of the game in South Wales, has just been completed, the players being D. Rupert Lewis and W. Raymond Thomas. The course ran over twenty miles from Radyr, near Cardiff, to Southerndown, on the Glamorgan coast. Doubt had been expressed whether it could be covered in less than 1,200 strokes, one of the conditions being that the rules of golf were to be strictly observed. There were many wagers that at least 1,000 strokes would be necessary. Messrs. Lewis and Thomas won handsomely, doing the course with alternate strokes in 608. Play started on Friday afternoon and finished this afternoon, no play taking place on Sunday. The distance was covered in 16 hours, including intervals for refreshment. At one time the players had to wade knee deep in water to ford a river, and at another they were chased by a bull and saved themselves by jumping a hedge. Twenty balls were lost in twenty miles and the proper penalty was paid.

SEEK MEANS TO AID ROWING AT COLUMBIA

Former Blue and White Oarsmen Will Meet to Discuss Situation and Revive Interest.

Ways and means of helping Coach Jim Rice in the rowing crisis now existing at Columbia will be discussed by old Blue and White oarsmen at a meeting to be held on Thursday evening at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street. Thoroughly aroused by the poor showing made in crew so far this year, the former varsity stars will probably take steps to revive the old Rowing Club or some similar alumni organization that will have power to help the coach and the athletic authorities in meeting the situation.

Representative graduates and undergraduates from other ranks than rowing will also attend the meeting, and the undergraduates will be asked to make a detailed report of the situation on Morningside Heights. A scarcity of candidates, lack of equipment and shells and an almost total absence of interest in rowing are the conditions that will receive most attention. The rowing machines are said to be in poor shape, and there are only three barges and four shells in condition for the Spring practice on the Harlem.

Close supervision of rowing activities by the alumni ended several years ago when the Rowing Club went out of existence. Up to that time a group of graduates had supervised the crew funds, raised necessary money, provided new shells and other equipment and conferred frequently with the coaches. One of the alumni acted as a graduate manager of crew, an office that was discontinued when the Rowing Club was disbanded. Since that time the Athletic Association has taken over that work, a rowing committee from the Varsity "C" Club lending some assistance.

The need of an additional coach to assist Rice is being advocated by The Spectator, which has run a series of editorials on the crew situation. The student editor favors the appointment of an assistant coach, preferably one of the younger alumni, who will serve Rice as John Hoyle served the late Charles E. Courtney at Cornell. The enlargement of the coaching staff, in the opinion of the student paper, is "absolutely necessary if Columbia is to maintain her place in the rowing world." This question will be one of those discussed at the meeting of the alumni.

RUNNERS SELECTED BY COACH MOAKLEY

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Seven Cornell runners who are to cross the Atlantic next week to take part in a dual cross-country match with a picked team chosen from the best varsity harriers of Oxford and Cambridge were announced this afternoon by Jack Moakley, Cornell's famous trainer, who will be in charge of the party, which will sail from New York on the Aquitania next Tuesday. The Cornell team is made up as follows: T. C. McDermott, H. V. Bonsal, N. P. Brown, R. E. Brown, C. C. Carter, Captain J. L. Dickinson and M. E. Richman.

This team differs somewhat from that which won the intercollegiate championship for the Ithacans at New Haven on Nov. 20, but it is regarded, if anything, a stronger all around combination than the title winners and better suited to the longer and more difficult course which the Ithacans expect to have to cover when they meet the Englishmen. The runners were chosen not only for speed but for the endurance and ability they have shown in mastering the sort of cross-country running which is common in England, including water jumps, ditches, hill and dale, plowed land and uncultivated land. The practice of the last two weeks has been devoted largely to special training in this kind of running, and the seven men selected today won their positions by showing superiority in this.

The fastest man on the team is McDermott, who has led the Cornell pack all Fall, but the team as a whole is well bunched, and Moakley's whole aim has been to round out a strong, well balanced team rather than one of individual stars. The team will be accompanied by John T. McGovern of New York, who is an alumni representative on the Athletic Council.

MOORE WINS SPRINT.

The half-mile handicap was won by W. Becker of the Tremont Ice Rink team. Becker started from the 55-yard mark and finished three yards in front of Moore. Moore found the handicap too great to overcome and the effort in this race caused him to withdraw after skating two-thirds of the distance in the two-mile handicap. The two-mile was won easily by Leslie Boyd from the 10-yard mark in the fast time of 6:45 1-5.

Half-Mile Handicap—Won by W. Becker, Tremont Ice Rink; Joe Moore, 181st Street Ice Palace, second; W. Borsted, unattached, third. Time—1:28 2-5.

FINDS EVEN BABIES ADDICTED TO DRUGS

Make Important Arrest of "Peddler" —Official Says Organized Ring Works Here.

Four children, ranging in age from 2½ to 12 years, who were taken from their parents a few days ago because the parents were accused of being drug addicts, have themselves been found to be addicted to drugs, according to Dr. Carleton Simon, Special Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Narcotic Squad. Dr. Simon said yesterday that after the children were taken to the Babies' Hospital they refused food, and their lack of appetite was found to arise from deprivation of the stimulants to which they had become accustomed.

Dr. Simon said the children would be taken to a hospital, where they could receive special treatment. "This is a particularly pitiful case," he added. "Cases of small children who are addicts unfortunately are not rare, however. Luckily it is a simpler matter to effect a cure with them than it is with adults. We know of babies not yet weaned who acquire the habit from their mothers."

An important arrest in the crusade against illicit drug selling was made yesterday, when Charles Phillips, alias "Chuck," was taken by one of the narcotic squad in the Post Office Building. Dr. Simon said that Phillips sold some cocaine to one of his men two days ago. The man was carrying on an extensive traffic around Broadway and Forty-seventh Street, Dr. Simon said, and his detection and capture was the result of months of effort. Other arrests are expected to follow.

Dr. Simon said that he had exact information of a well organized "ring" for drug traffic in this city, conducted by former divekeepers and gangsters. He is carrying on an intensive campaign against the evil, with the cooperation of Federal and State officials, he said. Leaders of the ring, he says he has found, make regular trips in automobiles, distributing narcotics at houses in various districts, where they are sold to the addicts in the neighborhood.

RUMELY DENIES GERMAN AID

Dr. Edward A. Rumely testifying yesterday in the Federal Court case in which he with S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim, lawyers, are charged with concealing from the Government in 1917 the German ownership of The Evening Mail, then under his control, declared that the newspaper was not purchased with money furnished by the German Government.

He explained that he bought the newspaper with money furnished by the late Herman Sielcken, the "coffee king," for the purpose of furthering the policies of the Progressive Party, to present the German side of the war and to obtain the support of business men in this country opposed to the British blockade. He will resume the witness standi when the trial is continued this morning.

Deny Riot at Meyer London Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Reports of a riot at a Socialist meeting here yesterday when Meyer London, Socialist Congressman-elect from New York, attacked the Russian Soviet Government, were proven erroneous by police records and statements from officials of the National Socialist Party today. So many crowded the hall to hear the address that the safety limit set by city fire ordinances was exceeded. The policemen on duty at the hall asked for assistance in clearing the aisles and stairways and when three additional uniformed men arrived, this was accomplished without difficulty.

Read What Dr. McCollum Says

In a very interesting treatise "The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition" you may read:

Genuine Sheffield Milk can now be had at many Atlantic & Pacific Stores as well as 201 Sheffield Stores.

"Mankind may be roughly classified into two groups. One group represented by the Chinese and Japanese and the people of the tropics generally, have employed leaves of plants as almost their sole protective food. They likewise eat eggs and these serve to correct their diet.

"The other group includes the people of Europe and North America and a few others. These have likewise made use of the leaves of plants, but in lesser degree and have in addition derived a very considerable part of their food supply from milk and its products.

"Those peoples who have employed the leaf of the plant as their sole protective food are characterized by small stature, relatively short span of life, high infant mortality. The peoples who have made liberal use of milk as food, have, in contrast, attained greater size, greater longevity, and have been much more successful in rearing their young."

Take a map of civilization and pick out the spots where the big fellows grow, where art and progress thrive, you'll find it a land of milk eaters.

CLOTHING MAKERS BREAK WITH UNION

CHARGES BROKEN PLEDGES

Restriction of Output Up to 50% Ascribed to Union—High Costs Have Closed Most Shops.

6,500 WORKMEN AFFECTED

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—The Clothing Manufacturers' Association of Boston voted today to break all relations with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Agreements between the two organizations, which have governed the employment of 6,500 persons in the clothing industry here, were said to have been abrogated by the workers' union.

Encouragement by its members of deliberate restriction of output, amounting at times to 50 per cent., was charged.

A formal letter of notification sent to the Joint Board, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, declared that a supplementary agreement which expired on Dec. 1 and the basic agreement between the association and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers had been "disregarded frequently" by the latter.

"These agreements," the letter continued, "have proved a decided detriment to the clothing industry in this market, and have so increased the costs of production that today members of our association are unable to manufacture clothing at a price acceptable either to retailer or to consumer, as a result of which practically all of their shops are now closed.

"You have broken both agreements at any time that it suited your fancy to do so. You have disregarded, have failed to enforce, and, so far as you were able, have nullified decisions by the Board of Arbitration. Some of your business agents have been unfair, unscrupulous and untrustworthy. You have allowed and encouraged individual demands for increases in wages by your members. You have allowed and encouraged deliberate restriction of output by your members amounting at times to as much as 50 per cent. You have called strikes, you have brought about stoppages and have caused the manufacturers serious pecuniary loss by your refusal to 'finish out' work, although the basic agreement to which you are signatory prohibits all such actions.

"This association regrets that your actions have made it impossible to continue peaceful industrial relations, and believes that had you shown evidence of a willingness to co-operate it would have been possible to have preserved in this market industrial peace."

The Clothing Manufacturers' Association embraces as members 75 per cent. of the clothing manufacturing firms of the city, and the other 25 per cent. are said to be jobbers subsidiary to them. Included in its membership are two firms which have agreements with the United Garment Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Today's action was said to have no bearing on these agreements.

T. Morelli, assistant manager of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' headquarters here, said tonight that notification of the manufacturers' action had not been received, and no statement would be made until the union had been formally notified of the abrogation of the agreement.

CLOTHING WORKERS REJECT ULTIMATUM

Piecework Proposal Voted Down by 30,000 of the 65,000 Union Employes.

The crisis in the controversy between the Clothing Manufacturers' Association of New York and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America came last night, when 30,000 of the 65,000 members of the union voted to reject the ultimatum of the manufacturers, which specified that piecework should be the basis of any new contract with the union. The decision of the workers was made at sixteen overflow meetings in halls on the east side and in the Bronx, in East New York, and in Newark.

Only about 10,000 of the 65,000 will be directly or immediately affected if the manufacturers make good their ultimatum and install the piecework system, but the manufacture of Spring clothing begins about Dec. 15 and may be greatly retarded if the issue is fought to a finish. Sidney Hillman, General President of the Amalgamated, said last night that about 55,000 of the union members were already out of work due to the shutting down of factories because of the uncertainty of the situation. The others have been working mostly on part-time schedules.

It is the contention of the manufacturers that unless they are permitted to re-establish the piecework system in the industry, which carries with it a slight reduction in wages and the right of discharge, they will be forced out of the market here to seek other fields.

Hillman said last night that a letter embodying the resolutions passed yesterday would probably be forwarded to the Clothing Manufacturers' Association today. The 10,000 workers now employed were instructed at the various meetings to return to work today as usual, and to await, literally, an "overt act" on the part of the manufacturer employing them, in the shape of a new scale of wages or the introduction of piecework. They were instructed in such cases to communicate with the union officials as to their next move. The resolutions adopted by the unionists follow in part:

Whereas the Manufacturers' Association sent an ultimatum to the union announcing that on Dec. 6 piece work will be established in place of week work, wages will be reduced and all safeguards against unjust discharge of workers will be abolished, thus scrapping the impartial adjustment machinery, and

Whereas the Manufacturers' Association has rejected the proposal of the union that the employers' demands should be investigated by a joint committee representing both sides of the controversy, be it therefore

Resolved, That we, the members of the New York Joint Board, A. C. W. of A., in mass meeting assembled on Monday, Dec. 6, 1920, unqualifiedly reject the ultimatum of our employers, and be it further

Resolved, That while we are ready to continue friendly relations with all our employers desiring peace in the industry, we stand ready to use our organized power to resist any attempt to lower our economic conditions or to destroy any of the rights we have acquired by years of struggle, and that we will fight to the utmost in defense of these just rights and the life of our organization.

The resolution of the manufacturers which brought the situation to a climax provided "that the association continue the conference with the union for the purpose of fixing conditions of labor provided the union agrees on or before Dec. 6, 1920, that all workers shall individually beresponsible for a daily standard of production, to be agreed on, and calculated upon base rate prevailing in other competitive markets, and that in the event of failure of any worker to produce such stadard of production the employer shall have the right to reduce wages pro rata or to discharge the worker substantially under-producing."

And it was added that "in the event the association fails to receive an affirmative reply to the above proposal within the time fixed, then the association shall put into effect the proposal aforesaid."

CHARTERS 'AMERICA LEAGUE'

Glegerich Approves Society Opposed to "Entangling Alliances."

Alphonse G. Koelble, an attorney, of 51 Chambers Street, obtained yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Leonard A. Glegerich approval of his application for a charter for the "America League, Incorporated." Among the manifold objects of the organization as set forth are to use its influence to keep this country free from all entangling alliances, particularly with Great Britain; to oppose entrance into any association or league of nations which imposes moral or contractual obligation upn this country to spend a single dollar or use a single soldier to protect, defend or enlarge the territorial dominion of any foreign nation; to promote Americanization, the election of Cabinet members and the judiciary; to decentralize the powers of the President, and to oppose the policies of Woodrow Wilson when they conflict with those of Washingtn and Jefferson.

Mr. Koelble said he had dropped all his German associations when this country entered the war. He is a former Chairman of the Law Committee of Tammany Hall, was formerly President of the German-American Society of New York and honorary President of the German-American Alliance, and on Aug. 24, 1915, returning from Germany, made this comment on the sinking of the Lusitania:

"Germany should continue sinking every ship that carries munitions and if American lives are lost in the process the Fatherland might compensate for them at the rate of $7,500 each, as the Canadian Government did by agreement with this Government when some Americans were wrongfully shot."

FIGHTS HIGHER LIGHT BILLS.

City Prepares Objections to Increased Rate by Three Companies.

Papers in the suit of the city to restrain the three big electric lighting companies from increasing rates about 10 per cent. by adding to their bills the cost of coal above $3 a ton will be ready today, according to a statement made yesterday by Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien. The city will assert that the Public Service Commission acted illegally in failing to prevent the surcharge, and that the companies have no legal right to impose it without permission of the commission.

It was also stated that the city will file with the commission an objection to the Brooklyn Edison Company issuing $8,000,000 bonds to reimburse the company for money spent on extensions and improvement of plant. The objection will contain the statement that the Brooklyn Edison Company is without a franchise to operate in the city streets.

Move to Make Women Eligible For Office in Massachusetts

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Women are to be eligible for offices throughout Massachusetts if Governor Coolidge has his way. He is heartily in favor of the idea since women have received the vote and can see no reason why if they can vote they should not hold office.

Accordingly, following out the suggestion of Governor Coolidge the Special Committee of Revision of the Statutes voted today to recommend an emergency law to make women eligible to municipal offices at current municipal elections.

This move is generally regarded as but the forerunner of legislation to make women eligible for any office in the State. It is introduced in its present form to aid if possible the city elections scheduled for tomorrow and one week from tomorrow in many Massachusetts cities and towns.

EX-KING TO SAIL FOR GREECE FRIDAY

TALK OF SECESSION HEARD

LUCERNE, Dec. 6.—Ex-King Constantine will embark at Brindisi on a merchant ship for Athens probably Friday or Saturday. This decision was definitely reached today.

This morning he received the first direct returns from the plebiscite in Greece on the question of his return to the throne. These were advices from Corfu, and were announced here as stating that the island had recorded itself unanimously in favor of Constantine's restoration.

ATHENS, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Returns from the plebiscite held throughout Greece yesterday which was to decide whether the Greek people would recall Constantine to the throne made vacant by the death of his son, King Alexander, appear to indicate an overwhelming majority in favor of Constantine resuming power.

The vote is being counted as a matter of formality, for the plebiscite was considered farcical in this city and in the country at large. Reports for the nation generally already indicate a majority of 500,000 in favor of the return of Constantine, and claims are made that practically the entire electorate of 800,000 voted for him. Definite returns from Piraeus show 13,000 in favor of Constantine and only 900 against him. Four million ballots were printed for the plebiscite.

All arrangements have been made for the return of Constantine from Switzerland. It is pointed out in this city by adherents of the former King that the Allies "do not understand that the people demand Constantine and are losing time writing notes."

The wild scenes which marked the departure of former Premier Venizelos on Nov. 17 were again enacted last evening in celebration of the result of the plebiscite.

A demonstration was made in favor of Princess Anastasia [formerly Mrs. W. B. Leeds, now the wife of Prince Christopher], and a handsome woman gowned in pale yellow satin appeared on the balcony above the famous Café Debresli. While the people applauded she clasped her hands and cried: "Constantine is coming back!"

"Long live the Dollar Princess!" was the answering shout.

Those engaged in counting the votes quit work last night in order that they might join in the carnival, in which soldiers and women formed rings like children dancing "ring around a rosey," the women throwing confetti over their companions.

It is planned that the liner Patris shall meet Constantine at Brindisi late this week.

Great Britain will extend no further financial aid to Greece in case Constantine returns to the throne, according to a note presented the Greek Government yesterday by Earl Granville, British Minister in this city.

The French Minister also presented a note to the Government demanding the payment of outstanding loans.

Both the notes forbid the issuance by the National Bank of paper money already printed against a loan of 400,000,000 drachmas, which was arranged during the régime of Venizelos.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 6.—As soon as the result of the plebiscite in Greece which resulted in favor of the return of ex-King Constantine became known here, the Greek Patriarch called the Holy Synod and the Lay Council into extraordinary session, and it was decided to dispatch an energetic appeal to Constantine, exhorting him to abandon his claim to the Greek throne in favor of Prince George, pointing out that his return to Greece would not only endanger the position of Greece, but would place the future of Hellenism in jeopardy.

The excitement among some of the Greeks reached such a pitch that there was talk of the possibility of the isolation of Greece and the establishment of an independent Byzantium, including Thrace, Smyrna and Macedonia.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—With the object of refuting "inaccuracies and even injustices with which part of public opinion, misled, continues to accuse me," ex-King Constantine of Greece today suggested in the course of an interview with the correspondent of the Havas Agency at Lucerne that the League of Nations appoint an impartial committee to proceed with a public investigation of the events in Greece during the war.

"The plebiscite which has just been concluded in Greece was a solemn manifestation of the bonds which unite my people to me and is in no way a disparagement of the Entente," said Constantine.

"I do not want to make a political statement. Being a constitutional monarch, I shall leave that to my Government; but it is impossible, both as a man having responsibilities toward my contemporaries and toward history, not to challenge the accusations against me.

"I should like the fullest light thrown on the situation, and I should not offer opposition if the Greek Government went so far as to ask the League of Nations to appoint an impartial committee to proceed with a public investigation. I ask that my accusers act with the same honesty. The time has come for clear up public opinion and establish the truth, which for me represents justice."

ATHENS, Dec. 3.—Little has been heard of the Serbian views of the present situation in Greece, but Serbia, if silent, is watchful. The Belgrade Government so far has made no sign, but I learn that it is following with the closest interest the Greek dynastic drama and the progress of negotiations at the London conference.

The Serbian press does not hide its hostility to the possibility of the restoration of the former Greek monarch. A prominent Serbian statesman now visiting Athens, whose confidence I have enjoyed for years, told me today that his country could hardly be indifferent to what was passing in Greece.

"Frankly," he said, "it seems to me there is a probability of the Balkans once more becoming the cockpit of Southeastern Europe, the League of Nations notwithstanding. Early next year the existing Greco-Serbian alliance expires, and then what is going to happen? It is no secret that Serbia, because of the attitude of the Greek King during the earlier part of the great war, will not renew the alliance. Serbia is bound to protect herself and the territory she won or which was gained for her by England and France. Toward this end there must necessarily be a new alliance on new lines, with a fresh grouping of the Balkan powers, and Greece and Serbia may find themselves in opposing Balkan camps.

"Bulgaria is demanding another port on the Aegean. She may go further and seek to reopen the Macedonian question. Serbia cannot be blind to her own interests, and she, too, may ask for a territorial outlet on the Aegean.

"I wonder if the London conference fully realizes how highly surcharged is the present Balkan political atmosphere, and what a dangerous experiment it is to begin tinkering with one or the other of the peace treaties."

German Dye Firms Prepare to Sweep World; Public Shares Confidence and Offers Capital

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—All big concerns in Germany are going to fortify themselves with large amounts of new capital so as to face the fight for the world's markets.

The most conspicuous feature of the German money market of late has been the fact that of the three chief dye-making firms, Messrs. Friedrich Bayer, Badische Anilin und Soda Fabrik, and the Meister Lucius concern is each calling for 90,000,000 marks of fresh capital. The Anilin Fabrikation Company, another member of the trust which lately announced a dividend of 18 per cent., is calling for an additional 30,000,000 marks. There is, I am told, a rush for these shares, as the public has confidence in the ability of the dye companies, and the latter are equally sure of their future.

A member of the Board of Directors of a well known company, which during the last year multiplied its previous year's profits by six-fold, told me the other day that the dye trust was so certain of the superiority of its productions that it has no reason to suppose any restrictions will bar its activities in the world's best markets. Dye trust agents who have been in England, he said, returned greatly encouraged, and from most other countries reports are altogether satisfactory.

Another big concern, that of Messrs. Franz Rasquin & Co. of Muelheim announced net profits just over three million marks, as against 600,000 marks last year, and it increased its dividends from 30 to 40 per cent. The firm's report states that it "has large orders in hand at good prices."

In order to speed up the dye business the trust is unloading its interests in the Merzburg and Opau Chemical Manure Works onto a new company with 500,000,000 marks capital, and the trust arrangement, made in August, 1916, to expire in December, 1965, has been extended so as to remain in force. The capital of the trust, formed of seven companies, will be 962,800,000 marks. Four of the chief firms of the trust employ nearly 1,000 research experts.

Regarding foreign trade, the trust is pressing its export department to obtain relief from export restrictions and the Government is doing all it can in its own way. I learn that reports, even from such places as Venezuela and China, are very satisfactory. In Venezuela German dyes are pushing out American products, while China took, in the three months of April, May and June, half the amount of the aniline dyes that England imported in six months. Holland is another market in which German dye firms are doing exceedingly well. During the first half of the present year Holland imported from Germany nearly 18,500,000 florins worth of all kinds of dyestuffs, which at the present rate of exchange means about 380,000,000 marks. Of that amount aniline and tar dyes accounted for 4,500,000 florins, against 180,000 florins for the first half of last year.

It is a curious fact that some German dye firms are running on coal from the United States. German dye firm agents who have been to the United States report an extremely cool reception, and it is recognized that there will still be a fight for the trade there.

PARIS ZOO MONKEYS MADE HAPPY AGAIN

PARIS, Dec. 6.—Inmates of the French Zoological Gardens were among the war sufferers in France. Rations were cut down, cages unheated and damp crept in through cracks in concrete walls. The lion Whisky, former mascot of the Lafayette Escadrille, is already afflicted with rheumatism as a result. Some fell victims last Winter to pneumonia contracted in draughty dens.

Privations pressed especially hard on the monkeys, accustomed to tropic suns. Some two months ago the unhappy creatures were shivering in the first chills of Autumn when an elderly gentleman halted before their cages. "It's regular cruelty," he said sharply to the attendant, "to keep the animals in a cage like that. It's damp, dirty and cold. Why don't you get it repaired?"

"Very well," said the old gentleman, "go fetch the head director. I'd like to talk to him."

Convinced that he was dealing with a crank, the attendant at first refused, but finally fetched one of the higher officials.

"This place is in a shocking state," broke out the old fellow immediately. "Why don't you fix it up properly?"

Rather nettled, the official replied curtly:

"We've had war in this country, and if you think it so easy to provide 500,000 francs needed to put the Zoo in good order you'd better pay it yourself."

"That's just what I purpose to do," said the visitor and, drawing pen and checkbook from his pocket, he wrote a check for that amount and then turned rapidly away and left the gardens.

The official was quite annoyed. The signature on the check was illegible and he was convinced that he was the victim of a practical joke. However, a few days later he mentioned the matter to the head Director, who looked at the check, laughed, and put it in a drawer with a remark about its being indeed "monkey money"—the French equivalent for the expression "fairy gold."

A few days ago the Director's secretary was putting his boss's papers in order when he came upon the check. Asked what he should do with it, the Director replied casually, "Oh, send it along to the Ministry," meaning the Ministry of Public Instruction, under whose charge the French Zoo is placed. "In that way we'll get rid of it, at any rate."

Within twenty-four hours he was dumbfounded to receive a peremptory note from the Ministry asking why he waited so long to transmit the check signed by Basil Zaharoff, reputed to be the richest man in France, part owner of a great English armament works and organizer of the recent Anglo-Persian oil flotation which has just been made in France in reply to the formation of a French company by the Standard Oil.

RUSSIAN OFFER TO CHINA.

Far Eastern Republic Proposes to Rectify "Outrages" of Treaties.

PEKING, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—M. ourin, head of the mission sent here by the Far Eastern Republic of Siberia, sent a memorandum to the Chinese Foreign Office today proposing a resumption of trade relations. Such resumption, M. Yourin suggests, should be on the basis of a revision of the old Czarist treaties in a manner to rectify the "outrages against China," with new agreements guaranteeing equal opportunities to each country.

M. Yourin proposes restoration of the consular service, but the abolition of consular jurisdiction. "I am confident," M. Yourin says, "the Chinese Government is able to insure its jurisdiction in keeping with its judicial conscience."

Discouragement of the "illegal claims of the Russo-Japanese Bank to the Chinese Eastern Railway" is asked by M. Yourin, and consideration of improvement of rail and water transport between China and Siberia.

Liabilities Fixed at $6,396,000—Notes Worth $4,264,000.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—The liabilities of Charles Ponzi were estimated tonight at $6,396,000 and his assets at $1,593,834.12 by the appraisers who have been investigating the "get rich-quick operator who recently was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

After a conference with the receivers the appraisers said their total included all the Ponzi assets except those connected with the Hanover Trust Company which was closed last August.

The investment value of the outstanding notes against Ponzi was given by the appraisers as $4,264,000, to which the 50 per cent. interest promised was added.

BERNE, Dec. 6.—Extreme Socialists in Europe, who have hitherto been branded as Bolsheviki, have sent delegates to Berne from Austria, Germany, England, France and other countries to take counsel together and define their present position. Having definitely rejected the Second Internationale and being unable unconditionally to adhere to the Third Internationale of Moscow and Lenin's twenty-one articles of faith, which they stigmatize as too arbitrary, they are nevertheless determined to carry on and organize class warfare and are uncertain how this had best be done.

It is a singular coincidence that a Russian Soviet Government mission whose object is ostensibly commercial should be now at the Swiss frontier endeavoring to obtain permission to enter Switzerland for the alleged purpose of buying agricultural machinery and electric motors and engaging Swiss engineers and electrical experts. The Swiss Government has not yet given it permission to enter the country because of its uncertainty whether the mission is really commercial or merely to get in touch with the international Socialist gathering in Berne.

Lenin already has asked to be allowed to send delegates to this congress, but the Swiss Government has refused to allow them to enter the country.

SOCIALISTS FOR SOVIET.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Resolutions adopted tonight by the Socialist National Committee declared the party is heart and soul with the Russian Soviet Government and in favor of affiliating with the Third Moscow Internationale. The resolutions point out, however, that the party has not accepted the terms made by the Third Internationale when it asked the Socialists to affiliate.

Mrs. Bertha Mally, New York member of the Resolutions Committee, introduced a resolution denouncing the policy of Lloyd George in Ireland and it was passed.

ENTENTE WARNS GERMANY.

Sends Note Objecting to Speeches In the Occupied Territory.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—A joint British, French and Belgian note has been handed to the German Government, protesting against speeches recently made in the occupied territories by members of th German Government as calculated to cause trouble and bring the execution of the Versailles Treatyp into question.

Chancellor Fehrenbach and Dr. Simons, the German Foreign Minister, have recently returned from a visit to the Rhine provinces, where they delivered speeches in which not only the internal policy of Germany was discussed, but matters closely connected with the treaty of Versailles were brought to the front in such a way as to be considered by the Allies as the prelude of a concerted effort to obtain revision of the treaty.

De Pauw Student Is Near Death—Mystery Over Wounding.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Dec. 6.—Miss Hilda Barney, a student at De Pauw University, member of a sorority and daughter of a prominent Boston family, is near death as the result of a bullet wound received on Saturday night. W. P. Sackett of Greencastle is alleged to have fired the shot. Mr. Sackett told President George R. Crose of the university that he had fired a revolver in the drive to scare off prowlers at the time Miss Barney was shot.

President Grose said that Miss Barney, accompanied by Mark Bills, a fraternity man and captain of the university basket ball team, had strolled to the "old stone wall," a lovers' rendezvous, famed in the traditions of the university.

They were sitting on the wall, which, is in the rear of the drive ending in Mr. Sackett's garage, when a shot was fired. A second later Miss Barney fell with a bullet in her side. Bills called to the Sorority House and summoned a physician. President Grose summoned medical aid from Chicago and notified the girl's parents to hasten to Greencastle.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 6.—For some time past persons of all nationalities returning from Germany have been warning the world with ever increasing vehemence that the great majority of the German people are too underfed to endure the coming Winter, even if they could keep their homes warmed, whereas, on the contrary, their homes are mostly unheated. Today Professor F. W. Foerster, well known not only as a man of sceince, but on account of the moderation and courage of his attitude during the war, warns the civilized world through the medium of the Neus Zuercher Zeitung that unless help on a large scale can be given to Germany immediately disaster must overtake her and Europe.

"Besides holding solemn conferences, eminent financiers of all countries absolutely must meet to discuss the desperateness of the food conditions in Central Europe," he says. "Before their proposals can be acted upon experienced organizers throughout the civilized world must collaborate to undertake relief measures on a large scale in order temporarily to check the underfeeding in German towns and cities. The impending starvation of millions of people during the Winter could is heartrending, and there could indeed be no finer way of celebrating the first consolidation of the League of Nations in Geneva than by taking extensive measures to help Central Europe.

"Should Germany continue to suffer so acutely from underfeeding she will develop into a terrible powder magazine, threatening all Europe, as will appear every day more clearly."

Dr. Foerster contends that it is useless to expect Germany to renabilitate Europe by her labor because she is fast becoming, if she hasn't already become, too nervously and mentally exhausted and too physically weak to do so, even with the best will in the world. Again, he insists on what observers have said that her mental exhaustion and hopelessness expose her to every kind of mental epidemic, such as Bolshevism, and cause the German people to listen to wild utterances to which in normal circumstances they would be far too sensible to pay any attention.

British and American Quakers have done much for German women and children, but while grateful for their efforts, Dr. Foerster says these are merely a drop in the ocean. Neutral medical men who have visited various parts of Germany lately bear out Dr. Foerster, and one doctor narrates, without surprise, that an American lady belonging to an American Quaker commission sent to Berlin, fainted in a dispensary at sight of the state of Berlin children who had been brought in wrapped in newspapers and in an indescribable condition owing to underfeeding. The condition of new born and older children is so distressing that a Berlin physician has gone the length of seriously addressing parents and telling them that in the present circumstances it is their duty not to bring children into such a world.

Dr. Foerster asks the public not to accuse him of propaganda, and few who know his attitude during the war would be inclined to do so.

URGES POLISH-GERMAN COMMERCIAL TREATY

Sensation Is Caused in Warsaw Political and Financial Circles by Grabski's Proposal.

WARSAW, Dec. 2 (Associated Press).—Poland's only salvation from the present depression arising from her economic situation is a commercial agreement with Germany, says a memorial presented to the Polish Cabinet by Ladislas Grabski, who recently resigned as Minister of Finance. In this statement, which has caused a sensation in political and financial circles, M. Grabski contends that until such an understanding is effected Poland cannot begin properly her reconstruction program.

As M. Grabski is leader of the National Democratic Party, the platform of which has always been anti-German, the memorial has attracted all the more attention. Some newspapers sympathize with his views, emphasizing the necessity for the conclusion of a commercial treaty with Germany in the near future and disregard of political and territorial controversies.

Germany at present is holding up exports to Poland by way of pressure to induce the latter to make concessions regarding transit in the Danzig Corridor. This question is now under the consideration of Polish and German missions. The Germans desire free use of the railroads across this neck of land for communication between East Prussia and Germany proper.

In certain districts of Upper Silesia, where there is a shortage of mining machinery, the Germans refused to sell, knowing that such machinery cannot be obtained in Poland and hoping to influence the impending plebiscite there in favor of Germany. The only commercial shipments from Germany to Poland at present are explosives for mines, these having been arranged for A. B. Barber of Portland, Ore., chief of the American Technical Mission, which is acting as an advisory board to the Polish Government. He has given assurances to Germany that these explosives will be devoted only to commercial uses.

The Polish mark continues to drop a few points daily, being quoted at present at 570 to $1, which is the lowest point as yet reached. In an effort to reduce Poland's expenditures Jan Steczkoscki, who succeeded M. Grabski as Minister of Finance, proposes the reduction of Poland's army, which, it was announced recently, is costing the Government 5,000,000,000 marks per month. He would increase revenues by a new system of taxation and the encouragement of Polish exports, which are far below normal, owing to the low rate of exchange, difficulties encountered in purchasing raw materials outside the country, lack of transportation and other problems inseparable from the situation of the new republic.

Ex-Kaiserin's Condition Is Improved

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 6.—Augusta Victoria, the former German Empress, who has been suffering for several weeks from heart attacks, is still in a serious condition but is so much improved that her children who were summoned from Germany are returning home. Prince Oscar and his wife left Sunday and Prince Adalbert with Chaplain Dryander, who was the ex-Empress' pastor in Berlin, are expected to leave today.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, Dec. 4th, 1920, on shipments sold out, ranged from 11.00 cents to 21.00 cents per pound and averaged 15.11 cents per pound.—Advt.

Agreement With d'Annunzio Has Been Reached, Rome Hears

ROME, Dec. 6.—A dispatch to the Epocha from Fiume says that an agreement with Gabriele d'Annunzio has virtually been concluded as a result of the visit of the special commission sent by the Chamber of Deputies to wait upon him last week. The dispatch adds that the islands of Veglia and Arbe will be evacuated and that Italy will recognize the Regency of Quarnero.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Advices from Trieste say, according to the Milan correspondent of The London Times, that d'Annunzio recently handed to General Auiglia, commander of the Italian regular forces, a note couched in moderate terms with reference to the application of the Treaty of Rapallo, which it is believed was considered at the conference Monday between Premier Giolitti and War Minister Bonami. Later General Capello left for Fiume.

Monument Given by American Will Be Dedicated Tomorrow to Their Heroism.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—On the eve of the dedication of the monument to the memory of the heroes of the "Bayonet Trench" at Verdun a new and probably authentic story has been told of how they met their end. It has been believed that while moving up to attack, rifle in hand, through the shellholes and shifting mud of that most desperate of all battlefields between Thiaumont and Douaumont, they were buried alive as the result of the explosion of some great shell.

It was that story which was told to George F. Rand when he visited the famous trench and saw the bayonets of the men of the Third Company of the 137th Regiment who had died there still protruding through the earth. Moved as others had been by the story of their fate, he declared his intention to build over the trench a monument which would perpetuate their memory. A few days later, it will be remembered, he was killed while flying to England. His executors, however, carried out his wish and a massive monument in cement has been built over the trench which will protect it for as long as that tragic line of bayonets lasts.

On Wednesday President Millerand, with Ambassador Hugh Wallace,, will dedicate it to the memory of the fifty-seven heroes known to rest there, and though the story now revealed of how they met their end differs from that told to Mr. Rand and at that time believed it only serves to glorify the memory of the men there buried and makes fitting the great monument erected to them.

Even now there are two versions. One which is signed by Lieutenant Foucher, a survivor of the Fourth Company, 137th Regiment, is accepted as the official version. To some extent his version agrees with the legend which has grown up about the trench. But it differs in that he says the rifles and bayonets were laid on the parapet of the trench at the moment when it folded in and buried the men alive. These were days of grenade and bomb fighting and the bayonet was held as a weapon in reserve, ready on the parapet, in case of an attack. Lieutenant Foucher also states that their fate overtook the men on June 11, 1916.

The second account is by Lieutenant Polimann, now, as he was before the war, a priest in charge of an educational institution in Bar le Duc. Polimann was a Lieutenant of the Fourth Company, 137th Regiment, but on the evening of June 11 he was ordered to take command of the Third Company, of which all the officers had been killed. His orders were to fight where they stood and his men obeyed to the letter. On June 12 they still held the position which the bayonets now mark. Three attacks were made by the Germans from the direction of Douaumont. But still they held on and even took twelve prisoners. On each side, however, ground had been lost and the survivors of the Third Company were completely isolated.

On the morning of the 13th Lieutenant Polimann, seeing the Germans preparing a new attack, signaled for the artillery barrage. He obtained it, but no other support. After forty-eight hours of continuous fighting, without supplies and when they had exhausted every cartridge and every grenade, the men could do no more, and the survivors, among whom was the Lieutenant, were taken prisoner. Fifty-seven, their dead, lay in the trench, which had gradually, under shellfire, collapsed over their bodies, many of which still remained upright against the parapet. What happened afterward is supposition, but the Lieutenant's theory of how the bayonets came to protrude through the earth is that the Germans hurriedly filled in the trench over the dead, and to mark where they lay, having no other means of doing so, placed beside each man his rifle upright, so that the bayonets protruded through the ground.

It would seem that Lieutenant Polimann's story is more likely to be exact as he was with the company until the end. If it is, it serves only to make more fitting this monument to those men of Brittany, Provence and the Vendée, for the fight they made has seldom been surpassed in heroism.

Lithuanians Release Miss Graczyk and Miss Wasilczyk.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Miss Martha Graczyk, Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Mary A. Wasilczyk, American relief workers, reported held on the charge of espionage in Lithuania, have been released, the State Department was advised today from Warsaw.

Their soldier chauffeur took the wrong road, driving them into Lithuania when they intended to remain in Poland, and relief work documents they carried were viewed with suspicion by the Lithuanians. Explanation by American Commissioner Young at Warsaw obtained their release.

LEHIGH VALLEY MUST DROP COAL

Supreme Court Finds Railroad's Subsidiaries Violate Anti-Trust Law.

AFFECTS FOUR COMPANIES

LOWER COURT IS REVERSED

Case Was Second and Last Brought by the Government Against Big Anthracite Companies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad case, the second and last of the great anthracite anti-trust cases, was won today by the Government. The Supreme Court, in the unanimous opinion of the seven members participating, held that the existing combination of the railroad and its principal subsidiary companies was in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act and, reversing the lower court, ordered entering of a decree dissolving the combination and redistributing its stocks, bonds and properties so as to make each component part in fact independent and competitive.

Specifically named in the order of dissolution were the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, Coxe Brothers & Co. and the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill Railroad Company. The court dismissed the bill so far as it named the New York & Middle Field Railroad and Coke Company, the G. P. Markle Company, the Girard Trust Company and individual defendants, including the late George F. Baer, Daniel Reed, Eden B. Thomas, Lyman D. Smith, E. T. Stotesbury, George F. Baker and other officers and Directors of the defendant companies prominent in the financial and railroad world.

Upholds Government's Contentions.

The opinion of the court, as read by Justice Clarke, sustained in unequivocal language practically every contention raised by the Government in its brief. It was held that the Lehigh Valley Railroad, through the coal company of the same name and other subsidiaries, monopolized the production, transportation and sale of anthracite coal from mines located along its lines, that this monopoly was sustained through illegal preference to the subsidiaries and that the organization of the Coal Sales Company was in fact a mere device to circumvent the so-called commodity clause of the Interstate Commerce act, which forbids a common carrier to transport coal in which it has any interest.

KLAW ASKS AUDIT OF 'FROLIC' BOOKS

"FOLLIES" ALSO INVOLVED

Plaintiff Alleges Partners Are Taking More From Theatrical Venture Than They Should.

Marc Klaw, in litigation with Abraham L. Erlanger, his former partner, over their theatrical interests, alleged in affidavits filed in the Supreme Court yesterday that Erlanger and Florenz Ziegfeld were receiving from the "Midnight Frolic" and "Ziegfeld Follies" more than they were entitled to, and that they were trying to squeeze him out and acquire his fourth interest in both corporations for almost nothing. Justice Giegerich granted an order directing the two corporations to show cause tomorrow why the books should not be examined.

Mr. Klaw alleged that when he returned from a European trip on Sept. 10 he found he had been dropped as Director of the two corporations, and that payments of $625 a month to him from each had been stopped. He said payments to Ziegfeld had been increased from $1,250 a month to $1,833 from the "Midnight Frolic," and that Erlanger and Ziegfeld together were receiving $29,500 a year as "salaries," but in reality as part of the profits. He also alleged that Ziegfeld got $10,000 a year as manager. He alleged that payments to Ziegfeld from the "Follies" were increased from $1,250 to $2,458 a month, and Erlanger's share to $837.

The papers show the payroll of the "Midnight Frolic" for the week of Sept. 11 was $9,650, of which $5,125 went to the principals, $2,056 to the chorus and the rest to the management. The payroll of the "Follies" for the week was $13,088 to the company and $3,300 to the house. It is alleged that the rental of the New Amsterdam Theatre, controlled by Mr. Erlanger, was increased from $1,500 to $3,000 a week.

"MEFISTOFELE" SUNG AGAIN.

Gatti-Casazza exhibited to the Metropolitan's Monday night subscribers last evening his recent revival of "Mefistofele," as on the preceding Monday he had shown them his other chief production thus far, the new "Tristan." In the case of Boito's opera, an Italian director may have held a special pride in glorifying his compatriot's work on the theme of "Faust," less familiar than at least one of two extant French adaptations of Goethe's poem. Of that literary source, indeed, Boito's version, both text and music, still represents perhaps the "most complete" version of the story.

In restoring "Mefistofele" to the stage Mr. Gatti has admittedly achieved as fine and massive a spectacle, notably in the "Brocken" scene, as can be recalled in his thirteen seasons in America. A second hearing of the music on this occasion confirmed most impressions of the recent première: Mr. Gigli, Mme. Alda, Miss Easton and Mr. Didur were again the protagonists, with Mmes. Perini and Messrs. Bada and Paltrinieri, and Mr. Moranzoni conducted.

People's Liberty Chorus Sings.

The People's Liberty Chorus held its third "guest night" at the High School of Commerce last evening, with Christmas songs by the advanced unit of the chorus, assisted by Rosalie Miller, soprano. Yvette Guilbert was another guest, and Mrs. Henry P. Davison acted as hostess. The organization, modestly begun five years ago, is now said to number 500 voices, in various popular groups, under the direction of Lorenzo Camilleri.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mount Holyoke College's Vesper Choir will sing Christmas carols in Aeolian Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 21 for the benefit of the Mount Holyoke Alumnae $3,000,000 endowment fund.

Toscanini and the Scala Orchestra will make their only appearance in New Jersey at the Newark Armory on Jan. 12.

Francis Rogers's Song Recital.

Francis Rogers has long been known as one of the most accomplished and artistic of New York singers, and his song recital is one of the highly appreciated incidents of the season. He gave one yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall; a large audience heard it and applauded. He presented a program comprising a group of old airs in Italian and French, a group of German Lieder in English, and one by Russians and Americans, also in English.

Mr. Rogers's voice is not one of the great voices; it is not notable for sensuous beauty, resonance or power; nor was it in its best condition yesterday. His art, however, has been cultivated and developed in latter years to a high pitch of refinement and potency; and it gave his singing yesterday a value and a beauty of the finest sort. It was in many ways a balm for ears battered by the violence of inartistic methods, the use of main strength, that are so widely prevalent.

In nothing did Mr. Rogers develop his skill and artistic discrimination, his understanding of style, more than in his first group. Command of legato, control of breath and of the long and molded phrase were throughout in evidence; in the air from Handel's "Orlando" Sorge Infausta, ease and finish in the florid passages; sustained at even tone in the "Care Selve" from "Atalanta" a beautiful mezza voce and skillful use of the head voice were shown in the charming air by Paesiello, "Nel Cor più non mi sento," (which he had to repeat), as well as in many others of his songs. In the beautiful old French songs "L'Amour de Moi" and the "Pastorale"; and in this last and the well known "Bois Epais" from Lulli's opera of "Amadis" his finely finished phrasing was admirable.

Mr. Rogers was somewhat more successful in this music of an elder time than in the Lieder, where a more personal and passionate utterance is needed. Yet there were charm and variety of expression in his singing of these things, as well as polished and clear enunciation of the English text. Schumann's "Dedication" and "Venetian Song" (to Tom Moore's verse) he had to repeat; in the latter he gave a delightful comic touch, and there was a skillful bit of phrasing that concealed an awkward joint between text and music that may be partly due to the English, but that Schumann at times was not guiltless of. Mr. Rogers's conception of Brahms's "Sapphic Ode" is somewhat cool and leaves little room for smoldering passion. In the same composer's "Eternal Love" his means for expressing the depth and power of the emotion were not equal to his perception of them.

Sergei Radamsky, Tenor, Heard.

Sergei Radamsky, tenor, was heard for the first time in Aeolian Hall last evening in a program out of the usual order. To classic Giordano's "Caro Mio Ben" he added three Spanish novelties from Osma's cycle, "Cantares di Mia Terra," and many pieces from Russian art and folk songs, including Rimsky-Korsakoff's arrangement of a lullaby "said to have been sung to Dargomizhsky by his nurse," and a "Revolutionary" air arranged by Edna Sheppard, who accompanied at the piano. Among songs of English or American origin was a new one, "Beyond Rathkelly," by H. O. Osgood.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Woman to Woman," by Michael Morton, will be placed in rehearsal Thursday by A. H. Woods. Wilette Kershaw will have the leading role.

"The Ghost Between," a play by Vincent Lawrence, was acted for the first time at the Garrick Theatre, Washington, last night with Taylor Holmes as its star. Laura Walker and Glenn Anders were others in the cast.

Extra matinees of "The Bat" will take place at the Morosco Theatre on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 30 and 31.

"The Rose of Washington Square," a musical comedy by Charles McClure and Mrs. Harry L. Cort, will be produced out of town soon.

Margaret Wycherley will have the leading role in St. John Ervine's "Mixed Marriage," which will be presented at the Bramhall next Tuesday night.

good Home meals at fair prices

I'VE come to the conclusion that most people like simple, substantial, well-cooked meals. I don't think they really want the usual extensive menus.

So I am introducing at Hotel Bristol a new plan—cooking more nearly like good home fare than you ever tasted in a hotel. Fixed price meals—a simple, tasty luncheon at 50 cents and a good, substantial dinner at $1.00.

Bear in mind that these meals are inexpensive because they're simple—no pretense at elaborate menus. And because they're simple, we can afford to buy the best; and our cooks can do justice to it because they cook only these dishes on the menu.

Drop in some time and have luncheon or dinner. We believe that you'll like it. And while you're here let us show you some of the cozy two-room suites with bath that we have available as Winter homes.

Company Cites Operating Loss at Public Service Commission's Rate Hearing.

It was made evident at yesterday's hearing on the application of the New York Telephone Company for increased rates in this city before Commissioners Charles B. Hill and George R. Van Namee, of the Public Service Commission for the Second District, that the city will fight to prevent the company charging off about $500,000 a month as "depreciation." This was one of the things brought out by the cross-examination of H. A. Trax, chief accountant for the company, on the items appearing on the exhibits taken from the company's records. The interrogator was Assistant Corporation Counsel M. M. Fertig, and he told Chairman Hill that the amount for depreciation was a book account and that so far as the company had explained it might as well have "written a million dollars on its books."

Mr. Trax was questioned concerning the exhibit showing investments in stocks and bonds amounting approximately to $103,000,000. The witness said the companies issuing the securities were "system" companies, operating under license of the Bell Telephone Company, owner of most of the patents. These companies, Mr. Trax said, were subsidiary companies of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and this company is now the owner of the Bell Telephone Company.

The inquiry then reached the revenue returns of the company. The gross revenue for 1920, partly estimated, according to an exhibit, was $49,041,000, but the tables had an entry of $2,167,000 which was deducted from the actual earnings. This sum represents part of the actual earnings of the New York company, but it is charged off as paid to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as a license fee for the use of instruments. With this sum added the total gross revenue, the exhibit showed, was $51,178,000. Gross revenue for 1921, including estimated license charges of $2,349,000, was estimated at $55,476,500. The increased earnings are based upon extension of service.

The company in presenting its case dwelt upon the increased cost of operating caused by the high prices of material and labor. Under the present rates the company contends it is losing $74,000 a month. The figures submitted include some $450,000 spent for advertising. One item was for about $260,000 spent in a campaign to promote public sentiment favorable to the company.

The hearing will be continued Monday morning.

Discarded Marked Ballots Believed to Have Caused Action.

Eight persons were named in indictments handed up to Judge John F. McIntyre in General Sessions yesterday by the August additional Grand Jury investigating alleged ballot frauds on Election Day. Pending arraignment of the indicted this morning, their names were not disclosed.

The indictments were returned as the result of evidence presented to the Grand Jury by Assistant District Attorney James Garret Wallace and by Attorney General Newton, who testified to an investigation which his office had made. It was reported that the indictments grew out of the finding of twenty-six ballots at a sewer entrance at Forsythe and Stanton Streets the morning after Election Day. Twenty-four of the ballots had been voted for all the Democratic candidates, one was blank and the other seemed an attempt at a split ticket.

GIRL'S $100,000 SUIT BEGUN.

Plaintiff, Partly Paralyzed in Malbone St. Wreck, Weeps in Court.

The trial of the suit of Miss Marie Castellani of 2,764 Haring Street, Sheepshead Bay, for $100,000 damages for injuries received in the Malbone Street disaster on Nov. 1, 1918, was begun in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday before Justice Isaac M. Kapper.

Miss Castellani is 19 years old and a dressmaker. She was brought into court in a wheel chair and was assisted to the witness stand. She wept as she told the jury that she spent nine months in hospitals after the wreck and, as a result of her injuries, was partly paralyzed.

The New York Consolidated Railroad does not deny responsibility, but is contesting the amount of the award. The trial will be continued today.

Because he refused to answer certain questions by a Bronx Grand Jury relative to his employment and his various activities, W. Edward Cope, a publicity man, was committed to the Bronx County Jail for an indefinite period by Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney yesterday. In addition a fine of $250 was imposed.

Cope had been questioned by a Bronx Grand Jury since Dr. Julius Hammer of 1,488 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, was sentenced to a term in Sing Sing for manslaughter.

The arrest of Dr. Hammer followed the death of Mrs. Marie Oganesoff or Riverside Drive.

The Trend Toward Public Utility Investments

During the war public and railroad securities were in much the same position. There has been a distinct improvement in the position of rails, and now there is an undeniable trend in favor of public utilities on the part of investors as a result of stabilized earning power and the present attitude of public service commissions.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The stock market and the commodity markets moved in opposite directions yesterday, and the movement was somewhat spectacular in each. The nine-cents-per-bushel rise in wheat, making a total recovery of 28 cents in hardly more than a week, was in reality the most significant of the day's incidents, but the decline on the Stock Exchange attracted considerable attention. It occurred after many stocks had advanced at the opening, notably the more highly speculative oil stocks, of which Mexican Petroleum was bid up 4½ points in a series of small-lot purchases.

Pressure on the market, which was quite evidently of professional origin, began with the railway shares. These stocks were sold down without much discrimination, but with Reading and Southern Pacific the principal marks of weakness. After the first half hour the selling extended to the whole market. Mexican Petroleum fell 11⅛ points from its early high price, and net declines of 1 to 4 points occurred in most of the other active industrial shares. Except in so far as the market may have chosen to take account of the probable tightening of money during the next four weeks, there was no obvious reason for the day's movement. It was apparently conducted by professional groups who believed the speculative position to be uncertain in itself and likely to be sensitive to either disappointed expectations or unfavorable news. Call money loaned again all day at 7 per cent; this being the fourth successive day on which that rate has been uninterruptedly maintained.

Foreign exchange markets were irregular and unsettled, with rates on Spain, Italy and Berlin especially weak. More interesting than this movement was the day's decline in silver, which at London again touched the year's low level of 43⅛d., first reached on Nov. 30, and which went at New York below the year's previous minimum. The case of the silver market is perhaps fairly summed up by one of the London bullion houses in the remark that "falling world commodity prices and rumors of financial difficulties in the very countries which have largely profited by the war" have hurt the market for silver bullion, "which also is a commodity whose value was unduly enhanced by the late world crisis."

The London Economist's average English commodity prices as of Dec. 1, published yesterday in THE TIMES, emphasizes all recent testimony as to the worldwide scope of the readjustment. The English average, like our own, reached last Spring its high point for 1920 and for the whole war period; but the subsequent decline was considerably slower in England than in the United States. During November, however, the fall in average prices was much the largest of any month in 1920, and the total decline from the British maximum of April 1, which had been 14⅛ per cent. up to the beginning of November, now works out at 21 per cent. Even allowing for different methods of computing the average this is a much less considerable fall than has occurred in the United States, for which Bradstreet reckoned the percentage of decline from the year's high level to Nov. 1 as nearly 25, and for which the New York Federal Reserve Bank figures out a decline between May 17 and Nov. 22 of 33½ per cent.

The computations of our own average prices at the end of November have not yet been published; but when that single month was marked by such individual net declines as 10 per cent. in copper, 17 in coffee, 19 in iron, 22 in wheat and 23 in cotton, with the percentage of decline in the same commodities from the year's highest ranging from 22 to 63 per cent., it is evident that the average decline from the year's highest will be a formidable figure. Probably it has been greater than has occurred in any other important commercial country. The Federal Reserve Board's bulletin for December, summarizing the reports from the various reserve banks, gives its judgment regarding this readjustment of trade and prices that "the process is as yet incomplete" and that "some lines of business may be expected to pass through a still further period of reorganization." This by no means necessarily signifies, however, that for the time the readjustment of prices in a considerable number of our staple industries may not have run its course.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Market for Most European Currencies Dull and Lower—South Americans Up.

The major currencies in the foreign exchange market were dull yesterday, sterling advancing fractionally early in the day and then reversing itself for a net decline of slightly less than a cent in the pound. French francs and the other continental allied exchanges also were down slightly from Saturday's final quotations. The Central Europeans, notably German marks, were heavy, but the Scandinavian rates displayed strength. In the others, some of the South American quotations exhibited marked firmness. The rates on Argentina, which have been moving upward for the past fortnight, again advanced and there appeared to be a strong undertone occasioned by rather good buying.

In a period of deflation, such as we are now experiencing, commodity prices decline, resulting eventually in lower interest rates and higher prices for bonds.

We therefore recommend at this time the purchase of sound long term bonds in order that prevailing high interest returns may be secured over a long period.

Safeguard Your Income

Many people will have smaller incomes in 1921 than they had in 1920 or 1919.

Meet this situation by buying fixed interest bearing securities yielding 7% to 8% or more and off-set any possible reductions in your business income by an increase in your income from investments.

Central Union Trust Company of New York, Trustee

A letter from Mr. M. S. Sloan, President of the Company, copy of which will be furnished upon request, is summarized as follows:

Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., does all the electric light and power business in the Borough of Brooklyn (except the Twenty-ninth Ward), City of New York, serving a population estimated at over 1,600,000. The number of customers served has increased from 33,973 on January 1, 1913, to 125,524 on January 1, 1920, and to 153,546 on November 1, 1920.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The increasing demand for Brooklyn Edison Service has necessitated the expenditure for additions, extensions and improvements from October 1, 1912, to October 31, 1920, of over $21,500,000.

Against this additional investment only $13,500,000 par value of securities have heretofore been issued. The proceeds of this issue will be used further to reimburse the Company for expenditures so made and to provide funds for additional similar expenditures.

SECURITY

The General Mortgage Bonds are the direct obligations of Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., and are secured by a mortgage on all its real and personal property now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to $11,996,000 underlying bonds. The General Mortgage closes the mortgages securing these underlying bonds, no more of which may be issued. (The provisions restricting the issuance of additional Bonds are outlined in the President's letter.)

EQUITY

Junior to the General Mortgage Bonds, there are outstanding $1,645,000 Debenture Bonds and $17,355,000 Capital Stock. Dividends have been paid at the rate of 8% per annum since 1904. The present quoted prices for these securities indicate a market equity over and above these General Mortgage Bonds exceeding $15,000,000.

EARNINGS

For the year ended June 30, 1920, Gross Income was more than 2.18 times the annual interest charge on all General Mortgage Bonds outstanding, including this issue, and all underlying bonds. Gross Income for the five years ended December 31, 1919, averaged more than 3¾ times the interest on the entire funded debt outstanding during that period.

The table below shows the growth of the Company's earning power and the favorable relation between income and interest charges on its funded debt:

BRITISH GOLD HERE MAY BE FROM INDIA

$25,000,000 RECEIVED LATELY

The $25,000,000 gold which has been received in this country from England in the last two or three weeks is supposed to have come originally from India, according to advices just received in the financial district. Further, the gold is being sent here, it is reported to liquidate a debt which the British Government owes to the Argentine Government, which falls due about the first of the year. No confirmation of either of these reports could be obtained yesterday, but the banking community believes them to be accurate.

Advices from India received in banking quarters yesterday state that gold is now selling in the Bombay bazaars at slightly more than a 5 per cent. discount, and that substantial amounts, said to be between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 already have been shipped to Japan. The yellow metal, the report continues, now is finding its way to New York via London and, it is intimated that more than the $25,000,000 thus far received may be expected.

In explanation of this movement of gold, it was pointed out that the high rates of Indian exchange ruling last Winter had caused a reversal of the normal Indian favorable trade balance, with the result of recent violent breaks in the exchange rates, culminating in the gold export movement. As the balance against India was almost entirely in favor of Great Britain, most of the gold exports were now being made for British account, with some of the metal going to Japan and some coming to this country.

Regarding the British debt to Argentina, the reports were vague. It was said that during the war Great Britain had contracted a debt of approximately $100,000,000 with Argentina in the form of a grain credit. This is understood to mature about Jan. 1. But, the report continued, only about half of this would have to be supplied in the form of new money, as it was understood that British interests advanced $50,000,000 to the Argentine last May to liquidate the $25,000,000 and £5,000,000 Argentine Government five-year 6 per cent gold notes which fell due at that time.

Cabled reports from London last May said that a group of London banks had agreed to furnish Argentina with funds sufficient to meet the May 15 maturity, the loan to extend for seven or eight months. Bankers here now believe that maturity of that short loan was timed to offset the maturity of the British debt to Argentina, and they are inclined to the opinion that the gold now coming from England is to make up the balance.

Argentine exchange, which was very weak all Fall, has been recovering in the past fortnight. In the middle of November the rate was as low as 33.00. A week ago it had recovered to 34.25, and yesterday it was up to 35.375. Parity of exchange is 42.44 cents to the Argentine paper dollar, so that the rate still stands at a heavy discount in this market. Payment of the British debt here, it is thought, would help Argentina considerably, by placing her in much needed "dollar funds."

RESERVE BANK TAKES OVER SUB-TREASURY

HIS RECORD IS PRAISED

Secretary Houston and Aid Ask Building Be Kept as National Memorial.

The United States Sub-Treasury, at Wall and Nassau Streets, yesterday ceased to exist as a Government institution. The functions of the Sub-Treasury hereafter will be carried out by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, which yesterday took title to the building. The Federal Reserve Bank will maintain its fractional currency department in the Sub-Treasury Building and two offices will be reserved for the use of Treasury officials.

Martin Vogel, retiring Assistant Treasurer, held an informal reception in the building yesterday, which was attended by Albert H. Wiggin, James Brown, Gates W. McGarrah, Walter E. Frew, Stephen Baker, William Woodward, Lewis L. Clark, John W. Platten and others.

A committee of the employes of the Sub-Treasury presented Mr. Vogel with a copy of resolutions expressing their appreciation of his kindness and courtesy during his administration. Most of the employes, numbering in all 120, will be transferred to the Federal Reserve Bank, but a few of the older men, who are nearing the time when they will be eligible for retirement on the pensions provided for Government employes, will be retained on the Treasury Department payroll.

Mr. Vogel, in laying down his duties as Assistant Treasurer of the United States, made a plea for the preservation of the Sub-Treasury Building as a national memorial. In this he has the support of David F. Houston, Secretary of the Treasury, who in a letter to Mr. Vogel said:

"You are quite right in urging that the Sub-Treasury Building be preserved. I shall do everything within my power in that direction."

Referring to Mr. Vogel's letter of resignation Secretary Houston said:

"You leave the service of the Treasury only because the historic institution of which you have been the head during seven eventful years will disappear by act of Congress. You have the distinction of being the last Assistant Treasurer at New York and of having served in that most important post during the period of the World War. I cannot sever our official relations without expressing my sincere appreciation of the efficient and effective work you have performed. You have handled the tasks assigned you ably and well.

"I note the tribute you pay the employes who have served under you and I shall be pleased if you will convey to them my thanks for their devotion to the interests of the Government."

During the administration of Mr. Vogel the Sub-Treasury handled checks and cash valued at more than $21,000,000,000, exclusive of railroad bonds held as collateral against loans made to the carriers by the Government. At one time there was in the vaults of the building more than $100,000,000 silver. Most of approximately $1,000,000,000 gold and this has recently been transferred to the Assay Office.

COTTON PRICES RISE IN FIRM MARKET

An unexpected rise at Liverpool and a better spot market in the South helped the local market for cotton futures yesterday. First prices were up 15 to 35 points, and after a brief reaction during which some over-Sunday selling played an important part, the trend was steadily upward until the last hour. On the maximum rise prices were up 50 to about 70 points net, but in the final hour 15 to 25 points of this was lost. However, the market closed firm and with a good undertone.

The rise at Liverpool was a pleasant surprise to most observers, but it followed as more or less of a natural consequence to last week's heavy selling, which undoubtedly was overdone, just as the selling here was overdone the week before. Trade advices from abroad were better yesterday and the reports from Egypt also were more encouraging.

Trade reports of a domestic character were negative—neither very bad nor very good. The Southern spot markets, where they were changed at all, were up 50 to 75 points, and the local spot market showed a gain over the week-end of 40 points to the basis of 16.70 for middling, the best seen since the recording of the 15.50 minimum a week ago last Saturday. All of the spot markets were quiet, but there seemed to be a marked improvement in tone.

A feature yesterday was what looked like a new "speculation for the rise" in the making. A number of brokers who usually act for Wall Street and local commission houses were active on the buying side, and appeared willing to take contracts even at the day's best figures. This movement, it may well be, will have effect before many weeks are past.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, up 40 points to 16.70c for middling upland; sales 200 bales.

Consolidations to Wait.

Inquiry as to the date on which the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for a consolidation of railroad companies into several systems in compliance with the Transportation law might be expected, uncovers the sentiment among railroad leaders that its publication will probably not come for some time. Nothing definite, further than that the plan is being worked out, has been obtainable, but the opinion is general that the chief effort made now by operators and the I. C. C. alike will be to restore railroad credit. The presentation of a consolidation plan by the Commission now, which would be the subject for a great many hearings at which different railroad company representatives would give their views, would only serve, in the opinion of many, to becloud the issue regarding more pressing problems.

Illinois to Be Test Case.

Until the Public Service Commission in New York State appealed the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission with relation to railroad rates in the courts in this State, it was believed that the New York dispute would be the test case in the interstate-intrastate rate dispute. Now it appears that the Illinois case will prove the test. In Illinois the railroad companies appealed to the Federal Courts for an injunction restraining State authorities from interfering with rates established by the I. C. C. for the country. In the Wisconsin ruling—the most recent in this matter—the Commission says that interstate rates should prevail, as there is no difference in the cost of furnishing transportation in that State as compared with neighboring States. Fourteen additional cases in as many States remain to be heard by the Commission. So far the cases have been disposed of at the average of one a month. It is expected that those to follow will move more rapidly.

CONGRESS ASKED FOR $4,653,856,759

ARMY LOWER, NAVY HIGHER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Estimates of $4,653,856,759.36 for the maintenance of the Government during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922 were submitted to Congress today by Secretary Houston of the Treasury Department. The estimates fall short by $211,000,000 of the amount asked for 1921, which was the largest sum ever asked for peace-time expenditures. Estimates for the current fiscal year are:

Legislative	$19,292,433.95
State	13,683,528.94
Treasury	1,624,483,894.98
Independent Offices	250,079,746.00
District of Columbia	26,419,644.99
War	938,227,587.26
Panama Canal	16,187,255.40
Navy	696,763,767.47
Interior	366,305,513.42
Post Office	2,399,020.00
Postal Service	585,406,902.00
Agriculture	53,739,384.00
Commerce	29,976,481.00
Labor	10,835,585.75
Justice	18,606,792.30

The cost of the Postal Service, $585,406,902, will be deducted from the total estimates because the expense will be paid by revenues received by the department. This deduction leaves an ultimate balance of $4,068,449,857.36. The sum of $1,300,776,360.87 for permanent annual appropriations is included in the total of $4,653,856,759.

While the War Department estimate is about $270,000,000 less than the amount asked last year, the increase for the Navy Department is practically $145,000,000. Secretary Baker wants $699,275,502.93 for the army, Military Academy and National Guard this year. Last year he received for these $394,700,577.70. Secretary Daniels asks for $658,522,231.47. Congress gave him $24,325,498.40 last year. The Army Air Service would cost $60,000,000, according to the estimates. Navy aviation needs $35,000,000, Secretary Daniels estimates.

It costs some $8,000,000 to run Congress, Senators and Representatives receiving about half of this for pay and mileage.

The United States Shipping Board asks for $147,898,520, as against $442,500,000, which it received last year.

Pensions take up $265,190,000 of the amount asked by John Barton Payne, Secretary of the Interior. The War Risk Insurance Bureau should cost $160,000,000, so Secretary Houston of the Treasury Department reports.

Items in the State Department's request are $1,799,000 for diplomatic salaries, $1,250,000 for the contingent expenses of foreign missions, $3,884,000 for consular salaries, $1,500,000 for their expenses and $1,000,000 for the "entry of aliens into the United States."

The expenses of the American section of the Inter-American High Commission are placed at $30,000.

Attorney General Palmer wishes $300,000,000 for the enforcement of the national prohibition act and $2,650,000 for the detection and prosecution of general crime. Prohibition enforcement as well as the enforcement of the narcotic law will cost $7,500,000, according to Secretary Houston. The salary list of the Prohibition Bureau would come to $5,135,300, as against $1,657,405.55 expended in 1920.

Under the head of "Miscellaneous," the salaries and expenses of the Alien Property Custodian's division are estimated at $564,582. The expenses of the Interstate Commerce Commission are put at $5,574,000; of the Federal Trade Commission at $1,055,000, and of the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation $35,000.

The salaries and expenses of the Federal Housing Corporation total $1,240,000. One of the largest items under the various boards is that of the Vocational Education service, $78,000,000.

The annual permanent appropriations totaling $1,300,776,360 carry details such as $265,754,000 for the sinking fund and $922,650,000 for interest on the public debt.

The Interior Department wants $25,686,000 for the reclamation service; the War Department $68,000,000 for army engineers' work on rivers and harbors, $35,676,000 for fortifications and $71,476,000 for military posts, and the Department of Agriculture $666,000 for stamping out the pink bollworm.

Carrying on the Work of a Charity

To see the development of a charity, to watch its growing power for good, to aid in its maintenance, and to provide for its future advancement, are things which are dear to many men.

If you desire to accomplish these objects, the services of our Trust Department can be of great value.

By creating a trust now you make your intentions effective at once, and see the results of your benevolence during your lifetime, without giving your personal attention to the details of investment, reinvestment or administration.

Your benevolence need not end with your lifetime—it may be continued when you are gone, carrying on your philanthropy through years to come.

MAY SUE CUNARD CO.

Charterers of Freighter Rammed by Aquitania Upheld in Court.

Federal Judge Mayer yesterday gave Gaston, Williams and Wigmore the right to sue the Cunard Steamship Company for $1,700,000 damages for the loss of the services of the freighter Lord Dufferin, which the company chartered from a Canadian corporation of the same name as the plaintiffs. The freighter was rammed on Feb. 28, 1910, just east of Liberty Island by the Cunard liner Aquitania, which ripped off a piece of her stern. She sank in twenty minutes and her load of white sugar was destroyed.

The Canadian Company has a suit pending against the Cunard Company for $1,000,000 for the injury to the vessel and it was contended that the local concern had no standing in court because it only chartered the vessel and that any claim for damages should be presented by the owners.

In his opinion Judge Mayer said that it was the duty of the Admiralty Court to administer justice and not to turn away a suiter without remedy.

No Injunction for Western Union.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Western Union Telegraph Company today lost its fight for an injunction to restrain the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company from removing its telegraph lines from the railroad's right of way, when the Supreme Court refused to review the decision of the lower courts.

PAYNE FOR A POLICY ON INTERIOR AFFAIRS

PRAISES POWER SURVEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Need of a far-sighted Government policy with respect to many of the country's internal affairs is emphasized in the annual report of Secretary Payne, made public today at the Interior Department. Lack of a definite aim was said to affect particularly the administration of activities in Alaska, in dealing with the Indian tribes, in preservation of the national parks and forests, and again in handling the greater reconstruction problem of maintaining a high agricultural production.

While Mr. Payne criticised the uncertainty which he said surrounded many activities, he commended as a strong constructive step the action of Congress in making possible the "superpower survey" of the region between Boston and Washington with a view to the development of a unified system of power generation and distribution. This investigation, made under the direction of the Interior Department, will be completed and the committee's report given to the public about next June, the Secretary said, adding that he believed it would deserve public confidence.

On the subject of Alaska, the Secretary said the primal problem was transportation, and advocated the operation of a Government-owned steamship line in order to insure development of the territory's resources.

The Government railroad in Alaska, to be a total of 540 miles in length, will be completed and in operation in 1922, Mr. Payne reported.

Wants Roads in Alaska.

In connection with Secretary Payne's discussion of Alaskan transportation, Governor Riggs, the territorial executive, urged the establishment of a tonnage tax on all shipping to and in the territory and building up with the fund thus raised of "regular and reasonable service upon equitable rates and schedules." He advocated also Government appropriations for the construction of a scheme of highways to serve as feeder wagon roads to the Government-owned rail lines.

The Governor's report declares that intoxicating liquor is finding its way into Alaska from British Columbia in large quantities and "bootlegging seems to be increasing as private stocks of liquor are exhausted." The Governor reported that "distillation processes were becoming well known," adding to the menace which he said existed.

Secretary Payne advocated passage of the Smoot Rural Homes bill which he said would give the Interior Department an opportunity to do much important work in farming development.

The Government had spent to June 30 a total of $125,000,000 on reclamation projects, the Secretary reported, and approximately 2,150,000 acres of land have been made ariable through the reclamation efforts of the Government.

Discussing the Indian question, Mr. Payne urged that citizenship be extended to all Indians and said their children should, where possible, be educated with the white children and "encouraged in every way to become a part and parcel of our national citizenship."

The policy of issuing fee patents to the Indians for their lands was strenuously opposed by the secretary who declared that to continue "thus placing them in a position to sell is, in my judgment, fraught with the gravest dangers and will inevitably pauperize thousands."

During the last fiscal year, the general land office allowed entry of 16,434,491 acres of Indian and other public land, an increase of approximately 4,500,000 acres over the previous year. More than 11,800,000 acres were patented in the year, an increase of 1,000,000 acres over 1919.

Discussing the National Park System, Mr. Payne said that a number of projects involving the use of national park lakes as storage places had been pressed, but that he had opposed it on the ground that it meant the establishment of a precedent which would eventually lead to the commercialization of the national parks.

Work of the Bureau of Mines during the year included the extension of assistance at twenty-seven mine accidents, seventeen at coal mines and ten at metal mines. The bureau also trained 10,177 miners in first aid and mine rescue work in the twelve months as compared with 9,781 in the previous year.

ERIE DISREGARDS RATE INJUNCTION

ACTION MAY DELAY TRIAL

Attorney General Says Time Fixed by Court Was Too Short for Personal Service.

OLEAN, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Temporary injunctions issued by Supreme Court Justice Cropsey of Brooklyn restraining all railroads operating in New York State from raising their intrastate rates and the declination of Justice Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck of the State Supreme Court to vacate the injunction failed to halt the Erie Railroad Company, which made a 20 per cent. increase effective here yesterday. The local ticket agent said today that he took the action following an order received from the company's headquarters in New York City. The increase has been effective on the Pennsylvania Railroad since Nov. 29. Rates on the Pittsburgh-Shawmut & North Railroad have not been raised.

The Erie Railroad has not been served with notices of injunctions restraining roads operating in the State from increasing their intrastate rates in conformity with the recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was said at the office of the Erie's general counsel here today when informed that the Olean agent had put the higher rates into effect.

"We held up a few days on hearsay information that temporary injunctions had been issued," it was added, "but, no papers having been served on us, we went ahead with our program."

At the Pennsylvania it was learned that the general office in Philadelphia was handling the matter of intrastate rate increases in New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Several of the railroads operating in New York State, including the Erie, have not been served with personal notices of injunctions granted to the State restraining the roads from raising their intrastate rates as authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Attorney General Charles D. Newton said today, when informed that the Erie Railroad had put the new rates into effect.

Mr. Newton said that when the injunctions were obtained from Supreme Court Justice Cropsey, the court gave the Attorney General's office only four days in which to serve notice of the injunctions on the railroads on the theory that the roads would be given "constructive notices through the press."

"It was impossible," said Mr. Newton, "to have personal notices served on all of the railroads operating in the State in so short a period. The Erie is one of the few roads which have failed to comply with the order and we will immediately ask Justice Hasbrouck to extend the time of service in the show cause order so that personal service can be made upon any delinquent road."

Deputy Attorney General Edward G. Griffin, who obtained the injunctions from Supreme Court Justice Cropsey, said the action of the Erie Railroad might cause the Attorney General's office to make some changes in its plans to hasten the case to trial.

"The Attorney General, to expedite matters, consented to try the case on the merits next Saturday before Justice Hasbrouck in Kingston," he said. "Of course the failure of some of the defendants to co-operate with the Attorney General in hastening the case to trial will interfere with that plan, and probably we will have to wait until we get all of the defendants in court before we can proceed before Justice Hasbrouck."

Mr. Griffin said that the Attorney General's office had been informed three or four small roads had put the new rates into effect but had rescinded them when attention was called to the injunction proceedings.

SEE FUEL SHORTAGE ENDED.

Operators Make Record-Breaking Anthracite Shipments.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 6.—Record-breaking shipments of coal leaving here for the last two days caused anthracite operators to predict today that all shortage of coal for domestic uses would be ended this week and that with this plentiful supply will also be abolished the speculators and profiteers who are blamed for extortionate prices in many cities.

The numerous long trains which left the big classification yards here today, some of them containing as much as 3,000 tons of coal, hauled by one locomotive, lent color to the declarations of the operators.

While mild weather is cutting down the demand for domestic sizes, it is also helping in increasing the output. Reports today, however, showed that several hundred cities and towns were short of fuel.

Experienced mine employes from all over the country who entered war industries are returning home and thousands are being added to the payrolls of the companies each week. Fifty men have returned to Shenandoah alone. Many of them worked at Detroit, Altoona and Philadelphia, where industries that employed them have closed.

Queens Traction Fare Hearing Ends.

The Public Service Commission's hearing on the application of the Manhattan & Queens Traction Company receivers to increase the fare closed yesterday and a decision is expected today or tomorrow. When the application was filed in August, 1919, the city prevented action by a writ of prohibition, but the Court of Appeals decided that the commission had jurisdiction. A request by the city yesterday for further delay was denied.

What a Big New England Bank Writes About Credit Insurance—

A leading New England Bank, has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co. as follows:

"Regarding Credit Insurance, would say that we believe a merchant or manufacturer should insure his accounts receivable for the same reason that he insures his merchandise against fire—to guard against loss.

"Almost all merchants suffer some loss each year through failures and this normal loss, of course, cannot be insured; but at times, under abnormal, unforeseen and yet constantly recurring conditions, such loss may become great, and even embarrassing, and ordinary business prudence should lead a merchant to provide against this contingency."

This bank makes it very clear why they endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

Manufacturers and wholesalers, it will not obligate you to write or phone for the full particulars.

CHICAGO WHEAT IN AN UPWARD JUMP

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Sentiment in wheat was bullish and prices advanced readily, the top, at 4:30 P. M., showing 28@29¼ cents above the recent low point. There was sufficient in the news to cause shorts to cover freely, several large local lines being taken in and offerings being light a good part of the day, although on the extreme bulge a great deal of profit taking was in evidence. The close was within 1@1¼ cents of the best price, with net gains of 8@8½ cents.

Further small bank failures in various sections had little effect; and, while there was some selling on Harding's speech, the offerings were quickly absorbed. The belief that Congress will pass legislation favoring holders of grain, and the purchase of around 50,000,000 bushels of Australian wheat by England were the main bullish influences. The bill to impose an import duty of 30 cents per bushel on wheat attracted considerable attention. The trade also had a story to the effect that Henry Ford was asking for offers of hard Winter at an Illinois point, which led to the supposition that he was going to back the "buy a barrel of flour" movement. A cargo of 230,000 bushels of Manitoba was loaded at Fort William today for shipment to a Chicago mill.

Exporters refused to follow the advance in futures, and no sales abroad were reported. Premiums at Winnipeg, however, advanced 2 cents to the basis of 20 cents over December for No. 1 Northern. The visible decreased 22,000 bushels for the week and is 43,127,000 bushels against 87,250,000 bushels last year.

Corn decreased 1,037,000 bushels, and is 4,597,000 against 1,631,000 last year. A feature in corn was the persistent buying of December and selling of May by Armour, which narrowed the spread to 2¾ against 4½ at the finish Saturday.

Reports from Kansas indicate that farmers are selling cash wheat freely. Arrivals at terminals for the day were 1,822,000 bushels, or 74,000 bushels in excess of a week ago and 34,000 more than last year. Shipments were 895,000 bushels against 1,005,000 a week ago, and 658,000 last year.

Receipts of corn were 633,000 bushels, or 186,000 less than last week and 633,000 less than last year. Shipments were 325,000 bushels, or 43,000 less than last year.

HEARST INJUNCTION ON SHIPS SET ASIDE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The injunction against the Shipping Board forbidding the sale of former German passenger liners, issued by the District Supreme Court on application of William Randolph Hearst, was set aside today by the District Court of Appeals.

Subsequent action by Congress authorizing sale of the ships, the court said, made the question involved as to the board's powers a "moot" one.

Justice Bailey, in the District of Columbia Supreme Court on May 10 granted a permanent injunction against the sale of vessels belonging to the United States Shipping Board.

The injunction was obtained on application of William Randolph Hearst, suing in his capacity as a taxpayer. The Shipping Board at once entered an appeal.

In June the Shipping Board announced that it would disregard the injunction and offer for sale the Leviathan, converted German liner Vaterland. The board considered that the New Merchant Marine act nullified the injunction by giving to the board authority to dispose of its entire fleet.

Government May Bring More Indictments Against Miners and Operators

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 6.—That there will be no abandonment by the Government of its prosecution of coal miners and operators for alleged violation of the Lever act was the conclusion drawn from the special instructions which Judge A. B. Anderson gave the Federal Grand Jury when it convened today.

Following the impanelling of the jury, Frederick Vannuys, United States Attorney, announced that when the present coal cases come up for trial on Jan. 10 the Government will move for a continuance, the Grand Jury being engaged in making further investigations bearing on further reported violations.

"Since the report of a former Grand Jury in this matter," said Judge Anderson regarding the coal cases, "the Government claims to have obtained evidence which may warrant additional indictments and the inclusion of additional defendants."

Persons close to Federal affairs believe the local authorities intend to go ahead with the original case, involving 125 miners and operators, and strengthen it with additional indictments. It was thought that the present indictments will stand and that further action will be through additional true bills.

PUT BAN ON CRIME FILMS.

Pennsylvania Censors Want No Glorification of Evildoers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 6.—Moving picture films that glorify crime or make criminal careers or adventures fascinating or alluring will henceforth be barred in Pennsylvania, the State Board of Censors announced today.

Films in which criminals are shown as heroes of education and refinement, who live in luxury and persistently defy and outwit the authorities by their superior wit, resources and audacity, even though in the end they are caught, are seriously objectionable, the board decreed, especially where they are shown in the end to make merely perfunctory professions of reform, while reaping rich harvest and attaining great rewards in spite of their criminality."

OPEN MEN'S APPAREL SHOW.

Merchant Tailors, at Waldorf, Display Only Conservative Styles.

The second annual exhibition of "gentlemen's correct apparel" opened yesterday in the famous old Waldorf-Astoria barroom, under the auspices of the Merchant Tailors' Society of New York. The models shown are most conservative in cut and material, and the members of the society assert that they will discourage all fads and extreme styles introduced by individuals.

Only the very sombre shades are shown for business suits, and comfort has been the chief consideration in designing them. The fancy pockets and odd lapels which were shown a year ago have been completely supplanted by more conventional modes. There are no important changes in the evening clothes.

Czechs to Give Jews Full Rights.

CARLSBAD, Dec. 5 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The executive of the Jewish National Council in Czechoslovakia has submitted a memorandum to President Masaryk in which they request that the Government should insure the Jews full political and cultural rights. In reply, President Masaryk stated that he considered their demands entirely justified and would see that they received every consideration.

Gray Goods Sales Small.

Gray goods sales were fairly numerous in this market yesterday, but they were small for the most part. December-January deliveries were again the most sought for, and printcloths business for those months included sales of 39-inch 80 squares and 68-72s at 10¾ and 9½ cents, respectively. For the same shipments buyers paid 8 cents for 38½-inch 64-60s and 7 cents for 60-48s in that width. Sheetings transactions for the day embraced the selling of 5-yard goods at 7½ cents and 5.50s at 6¾ cents.

Where Bargains May Come From.

A wholesale clothing representative states that it is exceptional for a shipment to go through to a customer without some loss of the merchandise sent. Instead of diminishing, he believes such robberies are on the increase. A suggestion he had to make was that in every case where merchandise is offered at ridiculously low figures an investigation should be made to establish the source of the goods. In this way, he explained, it would not be so easy to find an outlet for stolen property. He added that it would probably be a great surprise to many business men to know the extent of the underground traffic in stolen merchandise.

Character of Clothing Buying.

In some quarters of the clothing trade it has been noted that the most active purchasers for Spring are the representatives of leading retail stores, and that the small buyer has not been so generous with his orders. Among other houses, it is explained that the retail trade as a whole is not disposed to place much more than half of the quantity of orders sufficient for Spring needs. Road orders are being received from the smaller dealers, and the larger retailers have visited the market, but chiefly for the purpose of looking around. The general opinion is that anxiety will stop present orders confirmed and the remainder of the business placed.

What a Reduction Means.

There is too often a tendency on the part of buyers, according to the sales representative of a woolen mill, to forget that, while there may be a 50 per cent. reduction in raw materials, it is not possible to make a similar concession on the price of finished goods. The raw material reduction, he pointed out, can be applied only to the raw material and not to labor. "If we compute the labor cost of a yard of goods at a dollar as 60 per cent. of its total cost," he explained, "there remains 40 cents as the cost of wool or yarn, dyes and other materials. Take 50 per cent. off the cost of the material and it amounts to 20 cents. That 50 per cent. represents only 20 per cent. reduction on the total cost. Therefore, the woolen buyer cannot look for 50 per cent. off the price of finished goods when there is a 50 per cent. decline in raw materials."

Price Comparisons on Garments.

Complaint has been heard from some retail garment buyers that prices on the lines opened for Spring do not show suitable reductions. The manufacturing view is that if the buyer compares the new prices with those which rule for "distress goods" there might be some basis for the criticism, but the wholesalers do not believe such a comparison should be made. The opinion is held, moreover, that much of the surplus merchandise offered has no real outlet beyond special sales and therefore cannot be classified with the fresh lines prepared for the new season. For that reason it is the contention of manufacturers that a 20 or 25 per cent. reduction over last season's prices ought to be ample.

One of Them Is Satisfied.

At least one of the well-known manufacturers of women's dresses has no great fault to find with the fact that retail buyers are not falling over each other in their efforts to purchase Spring garments at the present time. "Excepting for lines meant for the Winter resort trade," he said yesterday, "there isn't a reason in the world why Spring dresses should be offered to the retail trade as early as this. The resort stuff, of course, is different, but its appeal is confined to a limited number of high-grade stores. It won't be Winter for two weeks yet, according to the calendar, but, figuratively speaking, flowers are blooming and birds are 'tweeting' in half the showrooms in town. The buyer is justified in waiting."

How Sales Have Shrunk.

The experience of a prominent fancy goods and notions concern which promises to end the year very well in comparison with some of the other concerns in the some line gives a pretty good indication of the slump in business that has taken place in this line in the last eight or nine months. From Jan. 1 to April 1 the house in question did double the business it did in 1919 for the same period. June 1 found the current year's business still ahead. On Oct. 1, the 1920 sales were practically on a par with those for the first nine months of last year, but since that date they have steadily been losing ground. The total decline for 1920, unless the drop takes a spurt between now and the end of the month, will be about $50,000.

Wholesalers Should Start Now.

Regardless of whether it is time yet for the retail trade to start buying for Spring, the assertion was made here yesterday that there is a very good reason why wholesalers of merchandise in which the style element enters should begin their operations without much more delay. This reason is that in 1921 Easter will come on the earliest date for some time—March 27—and that, unless the jobbers start getting their stuff together pretty soon, some of their retail customers are going to get caught short right when they will need goods most. In the millinery field appreciation of this fact is becoming apparent, but it is not so apparent, from all accounts, in some of the other trades where style is a vital part of the merchandise handled.

Figuring on Fall, 1921.

In the ready-to-wear lines, as well as in the textile material markets, it is felt that the present difficult conditions will be considerably augmented when it comes time to prepare plans for the Fall 1921 season. The problem now, it is explained, centres chiefly on liquidating surplus stocks and arriving at prices which will prove attractive to retailers and consumers. The price movement is almost generally downward. But, when Fall plans become necessary, it is pointed out that prices may harden in some commodities and thereby create a more complex situation. The real thought behind this conjecture made concerning the future course of trade is that the price pendulum swung too swiftly downward and passed the true value level. This will make small advances necessary, it is thought, and the problem for next year will be to see just what increases can be safely taken without once more provoking a consumer strike or another cessation of industry.

The Structure Was Completed Two Years Ago for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

A lease aggregating practically $1,000,000 for a period of twenty-one years was closed yesterday by the Fox Film Corporation on the new four-story structure recently completed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, at the northeast corner of Tenth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, a plot 100 by 175 feet. The building was completed two years ago from plans by Necarsulmer & Lehlbach. The lease calls for a net rental of $47,000 a year, in addition to taxes and operating expenses.

The building contains more than 50,000 square feet of floor space, the lower stories being constructed to carry 300 pounds to the square foot. The ceilings are from twelve to fifteen feet high, insuring excellent light.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company decided to release the building in view of the fact that its new plant at Cumberland, Md., costing $10,000,000, is nearing completion, and because of the large increase in the use of trucks and the popularity of the company's product, which makes it necessary to arrange for a number of service stations throughout the city where service can be given quickly to truck owners who would find it inconvenient and expensive to drive to one central station for replacements.

The legal matters were in charge of Moses & Singer, counsel for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, while Saul E. Rogers and Alexander S. Kempner represented William Fox and the Fox Film Corporation. L. J. Phillips & Co. and A. N. Gitterman were the brokers who negotiated the lease.

On the block above the Fox Film Corporation opened a short time ago its big studio building, with executive offices on Tenth Avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets. It is rumored that other moving picture interests are seeking sites in the vicinity, as the labor situation outside of Manhattan has caused considerable trouble.

Commercial Leases.

The Brown, Wheelock Company, Inc., leased the eleventh floor in the new fifteen-story building at 5 and 7 Dey Street to Middlebrook & Borland, now at 46 Cedar Street, for a long term of years.

George R. Read & Co. have rented to Sigmund Eisner & Co., uniform makers, the first floor at 126 and 128 Fifth Avenue for C. A. Gould, owner, represented by Carstein & Linnekin.

Joseph P. Day leased for the New Jersey Macaroni Company the plant at Cliffwood, N. J., to the Erdman Color Company. The property consists of a two-story brick mill building and several additional buildings, on a plot 200 by 200.

The Columbia Graphophone Company closed a lease for eight floors in the new Gotham National Bank Building, facing Columbus Circle at Broadway and Fifty-ninth Street, at an aggregate rental of more than $1,000,000.

The lease is of unusual interest, indicating, as it does, the uptown trend of business and the importance of a central business location, from which it is possible to reach all points of the greater city in a minimum of time.

Henry H. Bizallion, President of the Gotham National Bank of New York, made the following statement: "The Columbia Graphophone Company is one of the many downtown firms that has recognized the importance of Columbus Circle as a new centre of business. To date, leases have been signed with a number of firms whose former location was below Canal Street. If the demand for space continues at its present rapid rate, this building, which is the highest of all business structures north of Forty-second Street, will be entirely rented at the time of its completion, Feb. 1, 1921."

RENT LAWS UPHELD IN TWO DECISIONS

EVICTIONS ARE REFUSED

Individual Right of Dominion Extends Only So Far as Community's Welfare Permits, Court Says.

Two important decisions upholding the new rent laws were handed down yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Leonard A. Giegerich, who denied writs of peremptory mandamus to two real estate concerns who sought to compel a Justice of the City Court to issue dispossess warrants. Justice Giegerich held the new laws to be constitutional, declared they were within the police powers of the State and maintained they did not deprive persons of their property without due process of law, as had been asserted.

The cases were those of the Durham Realty Company against Olga J. Weil, a tenant, of 490 West End Avenue, and the Brixton Operating Corporation, against David E. Levey, a tenant of 120 West Seventieth Street. The real estate concerns asked Justice Giegerich to direct City Court Justice Edward B. La Fetra to show cause why he should not be ordered to issue dispossess warrants against the tenants.

Justice La Fetra, prior to the appeal to the Supreme Court, had declined to issue dispossess warrants because he held that the September rent laws prevented him from taking such action.

In his decision in the case of the Brixton Operating Corporation, Justice Giegerich spoke of the cessation of construction during the war, and the fact that rents went up "by leaps and bounds" with the resulting overcrowding which culminated in "great social unrest and discontent."

Thousands of Families Menaced.

"A panic fell upon the people because those threatened with eviction could find no other place to go and there was danger that thousands of families would be turned into the streets," he said. "At this juncture the new laws were adopted."

Continuing, Justice Giegerich said he would decide the question on the broad ground of constitutionality, and held that the statutes in question were within the police power of the Legislature, and were valid.

Discussing the contention that the laws deprived persons of property without due process of law and that they impaired the obligation of contract, Justice Giegerich pointed out that in the consideration of constitutional questions it must be remembered "that the meaning of the words 'police power' and the meaning of the word 'property' are not and cannot be fixed and unchanged. The two concepts are more or less in conflict, and as one is enlarged the other is sometimes correspondingly diminished. The one represents the right of the community to protect itself. The other represents the right of the individual to dominion over such things as are permitted by the State to be subjects of ownership."

"But the individual right of dominion," he continued, "extends only so far as the welfare of the community permits it to extend, or probably it would be more accurate to say so far as the preponderant public sentiment of the time deems that the welfare of the community can safely permit it to extend.

"As industrial and economic conditions change, and indeed as public sentiment changes, the idea of property changes with it and the correlated idea of police power changes. In general, it may be said that as population becomes more dense and concentrated in very large cities, with the corresponding increase in complexity of organization made necessary to support so large a population in so small an area, the police power is enlarged and individual property rights, in many cases, have to be correspondingly diminished and curtailed in the public interest.

Shares in General Benefits.

"Whatever injuries an individual may suffer in the diminution of his property rights are, however, deemed to be made up to him by his sharing in the general benefits which the regulations secure to the community of which he is a member.

"As might be expected, a distinct progress is to be observed in judicial decisions, and perhaps nowhere in a more marked degree than in the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, toward broader recognition of the police power.

"In the present case I think it must be said that the legislative power was fairly exercised. That a 'public emergency' existed there can be no doubt. The statute recites that such was the case, and the facts abundantly sustain the recital."

The court called attention to the fact that landlords were not deprived of the income from their property, but were only prevented from collecting an unjust and unreasonable rent. It was true that the scarcity of dwelling space was the fundamental evil, but there was another and more urgent evil, and that was the impending eviction of thousands of families. He recognized that there was room for argument as to whether the Legislature adopted the best means to attain the end sought, but the selection of the means he held to rest with the Legislature and not with the courts.

The second decision, in the case of the Durham Realty Company, mentioned the decision in the Brixton case. Both applications were denied with $50 costs.

THREE TRUSTIES DISAPPEAR

NEW HAMPTON, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Three honor prisoners—Cornelius Shea, Frank Motto and Thomas Mulroy—of the New York City wall-less reformatory at New Hampton Farms got up from their bunks ahead of the rest of fifteen "trusties" at the Greycourt honor camp early today and walked away.

Henry O. Schleth, the new Warden temporarily in charge to extend the honor system, was notified of the escapes at 5 o'clock in the morning, when Instructor Michael Mohen missed the fugitives. Schleth spread the alarm and sent out posses of keepers, who scoured the country, but did not find the runaways.

BOMB WRECKS TOWN STORE.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Following the explosion of a powerful bomb that wrecked a three-story building owned by Michael Trecella, at 101 Lexington Avenue, Mount Kisco, the police there detained this morning Anthony Geneva, walking delegate for a local excavators' union. The police believe that a labor war Trecella waged against the union may have led to blowing up the building in which he and eleven other persons were asleep at the time. Geneva was held as a material witness.

The village was violently shaken at 11:55 o'clock last night when a bomb, evidently placed against the front of Trecella's store, exploded. The whole front of the store was wrecked, and every window in the building, as well as several in adjoining buildings, was shattered. Trecella and his children, and another family on the top floor, were thrown from their beds. They fled uninjured, in nightclothes. Trecella, a merchant, also is in the contracting business. Lately he had been importing non-union laborers to Mount Kisco in a war with the local union.

Besides Geneva, Chief of Police Cregier detained two other men as material witnesses.

Pet Schemes

Mr. T. was named executor of a will. The will provided a legacy for a dependent and unmarried daughter. Mr. T. invested this legacy in a half interest in a patent for putting wire on corks—a pet scheme of his. As trustee he had no right to make an investment of this character. Only costly litigation saved the daughter from losing her legacy entirely.

Mr. R., manager in an optical store, "played the market" in a small way. He was lucky. On the death of his father, Mr. R. received the entire estate, amounting, with life insurance, to $33,000. He left the store "to make his pile in Wall Street." Six months later he was back in the optical business—this time as a clerk.

The number of estates squandered in "pet schemes" is startling. Thoughtful men whose foresight leads them to seek means of protecting their families' future are invited to inquire further into
